COUNCIL ASKS RUSSIA, IRAN FOR REPORTS

Senate Approves Farm Price Rider Despite Truman's Warning of Veto

Amendment To Raise Farm Prices Is Tacked to Minimum Wage Bill

FATE OF LEGISLATION BECOMES UNCERTAIN

24 Democrats Okay Proposal in Uprising against Administration

WASHINGTON, March 29 (AP) — In an angry uprising against the administration, the Senate today tacked a higher-farm-prices amendment to the industrial minimum wage bill only thirty minutes after President Truman had warned he would veto the proposition.

The vote was 43 to 31 in favor of the amendment which the administration's economic high command had labelled as inflationary but which farm-minded senators declared was only fair to the nation's agriculture.

Majority Leader Barkley told his colleagues late in the day that President Truman had authorized him to tell them he would be "compelled" to veto the wage bill if it came to him bearing the farm rider.

Half an hour later, twenty-four Democrats, including most of the southern members, okayed the farm proposal. They were joined by nineteen Republicans.

Lined up against the amendment were twenty-one of Mr. Truman's party, nine Republicans, and La-Follette (Prog-Wis).

Before the vote, Sen. Russell (D-Ga), a leader in the fight for the amendment, bitterly deplored the White House intervention as "coercion and intimidation."

The Senate's decision, coupled with the White House warning, left extremely uncertain the fate of the bill designed to raise minimum wages in industry.

The Senate recessed until Monday to think it over, but there seemed no chance the farm price action could or would be reversed.

The amendment, sponsored by Sen. Russell (D-Ga), would revise the farm crop parity formula by including the cost of farm labor in the computation.

How Senators Voted

WASHINGTON, March 29 (AP) — Senators from four states voted this way today when the Senate adopted an amendment to the minimum wage bill revising the farm crop price parity formula:

For the amendment (Democrats)—Byrd, Virginia; McKellar and Stewart, Tennessee; Radcliffe, Maryland.

Republican for—Revercomb, West Virginia.

Virginia Governor Drafts Vepco Workers; Action Is Questioned

RICHMOND, Va., March 29 (AP)—Acting under a sixteen-year old section of the state military code, Gov. William M. Tuck today drafted into the "unorganized militia" an estimated 1,600 employes of the Virginia Electric and Power Company in an effort to avoid service interruption by a threatened strike on Monday.

The legality of the move, which places the workers under military law subject to court-martial if they refuse to obey orders to work for the state, immediately was questioned by labor leaders.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, said the AFL "will never acquiesce" in the governor's action, which he said involved the principle of involuntary servitude.

E. J. Brown, president of the AFL electrical workers union, declared the union did not believe the governor had the power to do what he has done, and that it was "waiting legal advice as to how to proceed from here."

Hopes Fade for Averting Coal Walkout on Monday

KINDNESS PAYS OFF

WHILE James Kilpatrick, 26, of Glendale, Cal., was serving overseas he shared part of his GI rations with an old French lady. His solicitude so impressed Madame Jeanne Marchal, 83, of Baccarat, France, whose seven sons were killed by the Nazis, that she willed Kilpatrick $50,000 before her death two months ago. The ex-serviceman is pictured after receiving the good news.

"No Prospect of Agreement," National Coal Association Says

WASHINGTON, March 29 (AP)—Prospects for averting a nationwide soft coal strike Monday dimmed to the vanishing point today, amid indications of increasing bitterness between John L. Lewis and industry representatives.

The UMW chief has ordered his 400,000 bituminous miners to stay out of the pits after 12:01 a. m. Monday, and the National Coal Association, in a statement, declared today that "there is no present prospect of any agreement" which might avert the coal stoppage.

Actual effects of any mine stoppage will not be felt until Tuesday. Monday is "John Mitchell day," a holiday in the soft coal mines on the anniversary of the birth of the man who was president of the United Mine Workers when the coal diggers won the eight-hour day.

Lewis Is Assailed

The trade organization's statement, issued by John D. Battles, executive secretary, accused Lewis of stalling and "collective bargaining in name only." It was reported that Lewis had made a bitterly-worded reply at today's negotiating conference.

After the meeting, which recessed until tomorrow, Lewis refused to discuss the nature of his remarks but told newsmen the operators might furnish the information. The industry negotiators likewise refused to discuss any details of today's meeting.

Operators, meanwhile, confessed themselves puzzled by a notice to supervisory mine workers, sent out by their union president, advising them to stay on the job "until further notice."

The instructions were sent out by John McAlpine, president of the United Clerical, Technical, and Supervisory Employes Union, affiliated with the UMW. Recognition of the supervisors group, which claims a membership of 60,000, was one of Lewis's original demands.

No signs of further government intervention, begun yesterday by the Labor department, were immediately apparent. It was understood, however, that Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach was preparing a last-minute appeal to Lewis to keep his miners on the job until a new bituminous contract is agreed upon.

Success of Appeal Is Doubtful

At the same time, the government official who forecast this move said frankly the Labor department had no special hope the appeal would be successful. This official, who could not be quoted by name, predicted Schwellenbach would have something to say on the coal situation by tomorrow.

Assistant Secretary of Labor John W. Gibson saw Lewis on Wednesday and conferred yesterday with the coal operators. Later, he said he would make a full report to Schwellenbach and that increased government activity, aimed at averting the strike, could be expected.

The National Coal Association's statement sharply criticized Lewis, declaring he had "contemptuously rejected" a proposal to boost miners' wages by fifteen to eighteen cents hourly. Lewis thus far has not indicated publicly any specific wage demand; he has said only that mine wages should be raised and working hours reduced.

Von Ribbentrop Describes 1939 Russo-Nazi Pact

By NOLAND NORGAARD

NUERNBERG, March 29 (AP)—Former Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop swore today that he had signed a secret treaty in the Kremlin with Josef Stalin and V. M. Molotov in August, 1939, for partitioning Poland, Finland, the Baltic states and the Romanian province of Bessarabia.

The wan diplomat spent the day in a painstaking move-by-move account of maneuvers preceding the outbreak of the war. He drew from the president of the international tribunal trying him and twenty-one other ranking Nazis as war criminals a statement that such detailed explanation of his actions "doesn't do the defendant's case any good."

The complaint from Lord Justice Sir Geoffrey Lawrence that the tribunal has listened "with great patience" but with increasing weariness to von Ribbentrop's recital came after the prisoner's account of a secret protocol he negotiated with the Russian leaders less than two weeks before Germany attacked Poland.

The publicized non-aggression pact between Russia and Germany was signed at the time.

Von Ribbentrop asserted that the secret protocol for dividing Poland, Lithuania, Latvia, Estonia, Finland and Besserabia between Russia and Germany "was to become effective only if the Polish question could not be solved diplomatically and peacefully.

Nevertheless, he said, he gained the impression from both Stalin and Molotov that "both statesmen were undoubtedly of the opinion that if the last chance of settlement became exhausted, there was certainly justification for Adolf Hitler to solve the problem in another way and incorporate this territory."

Germany violated the treaty less than two years later by attacking Russia, which had occupied Poland up to the Vistula and Bug rivers, the demarcation line which von Ribbentrop said was fixed in mid-August of 1939.

BALTIMORE, March 29. (AP) — Headquarters of Rep. H. Streett Baldwin, candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, announced tonight that Baldwin had been endorsed by the Kent county membership of the Democratic state central committee.

Administration Opens New Fight In Behalf of OPA

WASHINGTON, March 29. (AP)—The administration told Congress today that an early death of OPA, as recommended by the National Association of Manufacturers and the United States Chamber of Commerce, would invite wild inflation and economic paralysis.

Paul Porter, OPA chief, pledged that prices will be adjusted wherever needed to break production bottlenecks, and that controls will be abolished in various areas of production as soon as inflationary pressures permit.

The administration's economic high command reappeared before the House Banking committee to answer assertions by NAM and other segments of business and industry that OPA is encouraging black markets, choking production and itself contributing to inflation.

While President Truman's economic wheelhorses were plugging before the committee for a year's continuation of OPA, without amendments, the administration got support from two new sources.

1. A bi-partisan unofficial congressional "Committee for the Protection of the Consumer" was organized to fight for retention of the OPA. Rep. Forand (D-RI) is chairman, Rep. Joseph C. Baldwin (R-NY), co-chairman, and Rep. Woodhouse (D-Conn), secretary.

2. Eldridge Haynes, publisher of the magazine Modern Industry, told a news conference that 53.8 per cent of 3,215 manufacturing executives replying in a poll conducted by the publication, favored extension of OPA beyond June 30.

President Plans Cruise

WASHINGTON, March 29. (AP)—President Truman is leaving this afternoon for a cruise on the Potomac river with a group of senators with whom he will discuss the administration's legislative program.

Huffman Calls For Cancellation Of A-Bomb Tests

Ohioan and Austin Oppose Disclosures without Safeguards

WASHINGTON, March 29. (AP)—Sens. Austin (R-Vt.) and Huffman (D-Ohio) today opposed any disclosures of atomic energy information to other nations until ironclad safeguards are established against its use for war.

Their stand ran counter to some of the recommendations of the State department study of an international control plan, although they did not comment specifically on that report.

Huffman declared that "we should not divulge a single secret until we are met with equal magnanimity by every member of the United Nations Organization."

He spoke in the Senate as he offered a resolution calling for outright cancellation of the proposed atomic bomb tests at Bikini atoll on the ground that "this is no time for martial gestures."

Sen. Lucas (D-Ill.), who joined with Huffman in writing the resolution, called the tests "useless, extravagant and unnecessary." He told the Senate he had conferred with "four of the world's leading scientists" and that they did not approve of the tests."

Sen. Johnson (D-Colo) defended the tests as necessary "to find out to what extent the atom bomb has made our navy obsolete."

Austin, in an address prepared for a forum at Johnson, Vt., tonight said that "not until after effective safeguards against the destructive use of atomic energy have been established by international agreement should we exchange reciprocally technical information regarding constructive use of atomic energy."

"This is so," he added, "because production of fissionable material represents seventy-five per cent of the production of the bomb."

The State department committee reported that some disclosure of theoretical information is inescapable if international control is to be intelligently drafted. It held, however, that these disclosures of information, now an exclusive United States possession, would not impair this country's superiority in the atomic field. It suggested a step-by-step disclosure over a period of years as the proposed "atomic development authority" comes to function, reserving information on bomb-making to the very last.

Miners Leave Jobs

ST. CHARLES, Va., March 29. (AP)—Thousands of miners throughout Southwest Virginia were reported to have left their jobs at the close of working hours today, taking an "indefinite vacation" until a new contract is signed.

Senate Military Committee Hears Anti-Draft Pleas

Sen. Smith Announces His Support of a One-Year Extension

WASHINGTON, March 29 (AP) — A retired brigadier general, a coed and three determined "war mothers" advised Congress today against extending the military draft beyond May 15.

The testified before the Senate Military committee after Vice Adm. Louis E. Denfeld put the navy on record with the army in favoring the extension of Selective Service.

Meanwhile chances for favorable committee action on a one-year extension of the draft increased as Sen. Smith (R-NJ) announced he would support it.

The committee tied 8 to 8 earlier this week on a compromise six weeks extension and then agreed to hold further hearings. Smith's vote could end the deadlock when the committee votes April 9.

Adm. Denfeld testified that the navy already has signed up 449,000 regular men and officers of the 550,000 it needs by September 1.

He added that it "expects no trouble" in getting the 20,000 needed monthly between April and September if the present draft act does not expire May 15.

H. C. Holdridge, the retired brigadier general who noted that he is a West Pointer, was critical of what he termed "popgun diplomacy" and a "powerful military colossus set in the midst of our political democracy and determining its policies."

Holdridge appeared for the Veterans League of America. He insisted that "mass armies are obsolete" and contended that 18 and 19 year olds do not fit needs for either world policemen or the small, highly technical, mobile "striking force based on the atomic bomb and other weapons."

Mrs. Agnes Waters, self-styled "unofficial spokesmen for millions of mothers" and familiar figure at congressional hearings, said the draft extension would make "American boys cannon fodder for a bunch of international crooks."

Espionage Suspect Is Released on Bond

PORTLAND, Ore., March 29 (AP) — Lt. Nicolai Gregorovich Redin, Russian naval officer charged with espionage, was released on $10,000 bond today and on the recognizance of the Russian consul general.

The 29-year-old member of the Soviet purchasing commission at Seattle was ordered to stand ready to return for a preliminary hearing here.

Alliances in Maryland's Primary Are Expected To Crystallize Soon

Formal Tickets Probably Will Appear within Next Ten Days; April 15 Is Filing Deadline

By JAMES E. HAGUE

BALTIMORE, March 29 (AP)—Alliances in the Maryland primary campaign are expected to crystallize within the next ten days.

There are many candidates for various offices already on file with the secretary of state but there are also many blanks on the primary roster. With the filing deadline four days later, formal tickets are expected to appear shortly.

Of the three major candidates for governor on the Democratic ticket, only one, Rep. H. Streett Baldwin, has begun publicly the formation of a ticket.

State Sen. John B. Funk (D-Fred) has announced he will run for comptroller on Baldwin's ticket. However, he has not formally filed with the secretary of state.

There are two Democratic candidates for attorney general, Lawrence B. Fenneman, Baltimore, and Delegate John S. White, Hyattsville. But neither has aligned himself on any of the tickets to be headed by Baldwin, W. Preston Lane, Jr., and Comptroller J. Millard Tawes.

There are also two Democratic candidates for United States Senate. George L. Radcliffe is seeking renomination and is opposed by Gov. O'Conor. To date, Radcliffe and O'Conor have both declined to endorse any of the gubernatorial aspirants.

The names of O'Conor and Tawes have been linked in many Baltimore city Democratic club endorsements. However, O'Conor sidestepped any specific alignment in a public statement.

With all the candidates aware of the general geographical allotment of candidacies, more names should be added to the ticket shortly. Lane is from Western Maryland and, if he follows usual procedure, will have a Baltimore city and an Eastern shore man running with him.

Baldwin already has a Western Maryland supporter in Funk and his candidate for attorney general might well come from the shore. Tawes, a shoreman, might normally be expected to get running mates with strength in Western Maryland. Tawes already has been endorsed by many Baltimore city groups.

Considrable clarity should be added within a few days on the Republican side as well.

There are two GOP candidates for governor—D. John Markey and Herman L. Mills, both Western Marylanders. There are two for the Senate, Paul Robertson and John LaVeck. But no Republicans have filed for comptroller, attorney general or any of the six seats in Congress.

Chief GOP question mark is the primary position of Theodore R. McKeldin, Republican mayor of Baltimore and unsuccessful candidate for governor in the 1942 general election.

Robertson, chairman of the Baltimore City Republican Committee, said this week he would withdraw from the Senate race if McKeldin, always a late filer, announced for that spot. Robertson and Galen L. Tait, Republican leader, have been feuding for some time. Robertson said he would not stand down if McKeldin filed for any other office.

Lane Takes Issue with O'Conor

BALTIMORE, March 29 (AP)—W. Preston Lane, Jr., Hagerstown publisher seeking the Democratic nomination for governor, took issue today with Gov. O'Conor's proposal to reduce tolls on the Susquehanna and Potomac river bridges.

In a letter to the state roads commission Thursday, O'Conor noted that total receipts from the bridges at Havre de Grace and in Charles county would be "considerably in excess of requirements to meet the legal needs." The governor held that consideration should be given to toll reductions.

Lane previously had suggested a pooling of tolls from those bridges and the crossings he favors for the Patapsco river and Chesapeake bay.

He pointed out that "any reduction in tolls must be approved by the authorities designated in the trust indenture for the issuance of revenue bonds."

It may be unlikely, he said, that those authorities would approve the cut, but he urged reconsideration of the proposed cut anyway.

Judge Sentences Confessed Killer To 99-Year Term

BEDFORD, Ia., March 29—(AP)—Henry Schmitt, 62, charged with first degree murder in the confessed slaying of his lover's husband two and a half years ago, entered a surprise plea of guilty in district court tonight and was sentenced to ninety-nine years at hard labor.

Among the fifteen persons in the courtroom were Mrs. Mayme Schmitt, the defendant's wife, and his son, William, who wept during the proceedings.

Schmitt himself was unmoved outwardly when District Judge George A. Johnson, Creston, Ia., read Schmitt's written plea of guilty and sentenced him to the state penitentiary.

The entire proceedings, which began at 9:40 p. m. required only six minutes.

Schmitt admitted the slaying of Tommy Worm, 42, on November 4, 1943, and had told a bizarre story of twice burying and exhuming the body before finally driving 200 miles to the Mississippi river where he said he pushed it out into the stream on a crudely fashioned raft. The body had not been recovered.

Mrs. Dorothy Worm, 41, widow of the dead man, brought about Schmitt's arrest last weekend through a statement she made to the state bureau of criminal investigation in Des Moines. In that statement, County Attorney Ralph C. Jones said, Mrs. Worm told of an illicit romance with the elderly horse trader and admitted helping Schmitt bury the body of the farmer on some land owned by Schmitt and then helping him to exhume it and bury it on a farm in adjoining Union county.

No charges have been filed against Mrs. Worm, an attractive brunette and mother of a former air force first lieutenant, Carroll Worm, 24.

One Jew Is Killed In German Camp Riot

STUTTGART, Germany, March 29 (AP)—One Jew was killed and two injured early today in a two-hour riot breaking out after a police black market raid on a displaced persons camp, and an UNRRA official charged the police with shooting down "defenseless" Jews.

The clash between 1,800 Poles and 220 German police in the camp just outside Stuttgart was the worst in the United States zone. Several German policemen were hurt.

The United States Army had authorized the raid, and eight American military police accompanied the German police. The riot ended only when American armored cars ejected the police and patrolled the camp area.

David Clearfield, Hazelton, Pa., the deputy UNRRA director, declared "our peoples were defenseless. The first shot was fired by German police when the Jews in mob fashion tried to push the police out of the area, crying they had no right to be there."

New National Republican Organization Is Formed

WASHINGTON, March 29 (AP) — Harold E. Stassen, one of those often mentioned as a 1948 Republican presidential aspirant, announced tonight a new national organization to develop suggestions from young Republicans for party policy.

The announcement from the former governor of Minnesota, came as GOP leaders begin arriving here for Monday's meeting to pick a new national committee chairman.

Stassen will be chairman of the advisory committee of the policy-suggesting organization, to be known as "the Republican Open Forums."

National headquarters has been established here. The office will be under direction of Henry McKnight, 32-year-old Minneapolis advertising man now on terminal leave as a lieutenant commander in the navy after four years' service.

Boost in Retail Prices of Beef, Pork Is Ordered

WASHINGTON, March 29 (AP)—OPA today ordered higher retail prices for beef and pork, effective Monday, as an industry spokesman told of a spot check showing more than four out of five meat sales at prices above present ceilings.

The retail increases range from one to four cents a pound and cover about seventy-five per cent of all pork cuts and one-third of all beef cuts.

The price hike is the result of a wage increase of sixteen cents an hour recently granted to packing house workers.

As OPA announced the higher prices the American Meat Insfitute said the survey it had made indicated that housewives have less than one chance in five to buy meat at legal prices.

R. J. Eggert, associate director of the institute, marketing department, told the House Banking committee that of 1,803 stores in eleven cities checked by "impartial housewife shoppers," eighty-three per cent exceeded ceiling prices for meat.

Eggert said the average overcharge was twenty per cent but that in some cases prices were double or even three times the legal limit.

The pork and beef price increases ordered by OPA will be followed soon by increases for veal, lamb and mutton, the agency said.

General pork prices are being increased an average of three quarters of a cent a pound, while the public will pay an average of a third of a cent more a pound for beef.

The maximum price hike for most popular cuts of beef and pork, such as steaks, bacon, chops and loin roasts, will be one cent a pound, OPA said.

Increases for beef liver and cooked beef briskets amount to two cents a pound, while the only four-cent increase authorized are for bulk dry beef and for packaged Canadian bacon.

Couple, Made "Nervous" By Their Three Tots, Will Give Them Away

OMAHA, March 29 (AP) — An Omaha couple today started proceedings to give away their three small children "because they make us nervous," Public Defender Joe Lovely said.

Lovely said the couple asked him to handle the legal procedure involved in turning the children over to an elderly Omaha couple, Mr. and Mrs. John Yunick, who have cared for the tots in the past.

Petitions for adoption filed by the Yunicks in Douglas County Court identified the parents as Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Van Horn, and the children as Stanley, 2; Tommy, 4; and Carolyn, 3.

Delegates Agree To File Request For Information On Negotiations

Answer by Next Wednesday, when Meetings Resume, Is Asked

SOVIET DELEGATE CONTINUES ABSENT

UN Agency Adjourns in Atmosphere of Obvious Good Humor

By FRANCIS W. CARPENTER

NEW YORK, March 29—(AP)—The United Nations Security Council decided today to ask Russia and Iran for top level reports by next Wednesday on the "existing status of negotiations between the two countries." The action was taken in the face of the Soviet delegate's continued absence from the council sessions.

Then, in an atmosphere of obvious good humor, the council adjourned until 11 a. m. EST Wednesday. The request was dispatched to the two governments within half an hour after adjournment.

The council scene was in sharp contrast to the tension of last Wednesday when Andrei A. Gromyko, Russian delegate, led his party of four from the chamber in protest against considering the Iranian case before April 10.

The delegates followed the lead of United States Secretary of State James F. Byrnes in proposing the report from the two countries. The only disagreement appeared to be on whether the report should be before the council by April 2, April 3, or April 4.

Ala Answers Questions

After the Iranian ambassador, Hussein Ala, had answered questions from delegates on Iranian issues involving Red Army occupation of parts of Iran, Byrnes arose with this proposal:

"I would suggest that the president of the council request the secretry general to ascertain at once from the Soviet government and the Iranian government through their representatives and report to the council on Tuesday, April 2, the existing status of negotiations between the two governments and particularly to ascertain from the representatives of the two governments and report whether or not the reported withdrawal of troops is conditional upon the conclusion of agreements between the two governments on other subjects."

The question of April 2 for the reporting date provided discussion for the delegates for an hour. Then the chairman, Dr. Quo Tai-Chi, of China, came out for April 3 and declared the meeting adjourned until that date. There was no objection.

Byrnes's Statement

Byrnes in his statement, which was received cordially by every delegate present, said:

"If the council could obtain more adequate and exact information regarding the status of the negotiations between the Soviet government and the Iranian government, the council might be able to satisfy itself that the assurances of the Soviet government as to the prompt withdrawal of troops from Iran are in fact for all practical purposes unconditional.

"In that event, there might be no need for the council to go into the substantive issues, provided it reserved the right to both parties to have the case immediately taken up by the council should there be any developments which threatened to retard the withdrawal of troops."

Terminiello Apologizes

CHICAGO, March 29. (AP)—Arthur W. Terminiello, suspended Roman Catholic priest on trial on charges of disorderly conduct, was held in contempt of court today but later apologized and Municipal Judge John V. McCormick dismissed the contempt charge. The disorderly charge against Terminiello, formerly of Huntsville, Ala., grew out of a tumultuous Gerald L. K. Smith rally February 7 in Chicago.

LaGuardia Tells UNRRA Council He Will Buy Food where He Can

By SIGRID ARNE

ATLANTIC CTY, N. J., March 29 (AP) — Fiorello H. LaGuardia, the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration's new director general, bluntly told the council today "our job is to take food where we can find it, and take it to people who need it, wherever they are."

In his first meeting with the forty-eight-member council before it recessed indefinitely, the successor to Herbert H. Lehman declared:

"Wheat has no political complexion, and I'll buy wheat where I can find it."

He said he would begin by extending his greetings to Juan Domingo Peron, Argentina's president. "Here is an opportunity for Argentina to show its desire to co-operate with the rest of the world," he added.

Even as he spoke, Argentina announced it would not join UNRRA, stating its food supplies already were committed to various countries.

LaGuardia said he would call next "on my old friend, MacKenzie King" of Canada. "Perhaps we can scrape up a few bushels there."

People "want bread, not advice," he shouted. "I want ploughs, not typewriters. I want fast moving ships, no slow reading resolutions."

"From this point on," he added, the protocol is off. When I have something to say, I'll say it.

"I'll start right now with my own county. All I ask is that Americans not overeat and no waste. My city alone wastes enough food everyday to feed a city of 350,000 people. I know I picked up that garbage for twelve years."

Gromyko Refers to His Superiors In Explaining Boycott of Council

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW, March 29 (AP) — The Russian press today quoted Andrei Gromyko as saying he left the Security council session Wednesday "due to reasons placed upon him from higher up."

In other reports on the international scene, Soviet newspapers in the past two days have carried stories criticizing Premier Shidehara's regime in Japan, attacking "reactionary" Chinese newspapers, and hitting at Dr. Syngman Rhee, former chairman of the American-recognized Democratic Council of South Korea.

recognized Democratic Council of dio comment on Gromyko's action on the Iranian issue before the council, presented to the Russian people for the first time today in a 250-word Tass dispatch from New York. The dispatch was displayed prominently in all newspapers and broadcast.

It said that in connection with the council's action on voting to hear the Iranian delegate and rejecting the Russian request for postponement until April 10, Gromyko stated "that due to reasons placed upon him from higher up he could not take part in the discussion of the Iranian question and he left the meeting of the council."

The government newspaper Izvestia, asserting that Premier Shidehara's government was protesting Japanese military interests and trusts, asked that the forthcoming Japanese elections be postponed "in the interest of the Japanese people in order that a genuine democratic government may be formed."

COUNCIL ASKS RUSSIA, IRAN FOR REPORTS

Senate Approves Farm Price Rider Despite Truman's Warning of Veto

Amendment To Raise Farm Prices Is Tacked to Minimum Wage Bill

FATE OF LEGISLATION BECOMES UNCERTAIN

24 Democrats Okay Proposal in Uprising against Administration

WASHINGTON, March 29 (AP) — In an angry uprising against the administration, the Senate today tacked a higher-farm-prices amendment to the industrial minimum wage bill only thirty minutes after President Truman had warned he would veto the proposition.

The vote was 43 to 31 in favor of the amendment which the administration's economic high command had labelled as inflationary but which farm-minded senators declared was only fair to the nation's agriculture.

Majority Leader Barkley told his colleagues late in the day that President Truman had authorized him to tell them he would be "compelled" to veto the wage bill if it came to him bearing the farm rider.

Half an hour later, twenty-four Democrats, including most of the southern members, okayed the farm proposal. They were joined by nineteen Republicans.

Lined up against the amendment were twenty-one of Mr. Truman's party, nine Republicans, and La-Follette (Prog-Wis).

Before the vote, Sen. Russell (D-Ga), a leader in the fight for the amendment, bitterly deplored the White House intervention as "coercion and intimidation."

The Senate's decision, coupled with the White House warning, left extremely uncertain the fate of the bill designed to raise minimum wages in industry.

The Senate recessed until Monday to think it over, but there seemed no chance the farm price action could or would be reversed.

The amendment, sponsored by Sen. Russell (D-Ga), would revise the farm crop parity formula by including the cost of farm labor in the computation.

How Senators Voted

WASHINGTON, March 29 (AP) — Senators from four states voted this way today when the Senate adopted an amendment to the minimum wage bill revising the farm crop price parity formula:

For the amendment (Democrats)—Byrd, Virginia; McKellar and Stewart, Tennessee; Radcliffe, Maryland.

Republican for—Revercomb, West Virginia.

Virginia Governor Drafts Vepco Workers; Action Is Questioned

RICHMOND, Va., March 29 (AP)—Acting under a sixteen-year old section of the state military code, Gov. William M. Tuck today drafted into the "unorganized militia" an estimated 1,600 employes of the Virginia Electric and Power Company in an effort to avoid service interruption by a threatened strike on Monday.

The legality of the move, which places the workers under military law subject to court-martial if they refuse to obey orders to work for the state, immediately was questioned by labor leaders.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, said the AFL "will never acquiesce" in the governor's action, which he said involved the principle of involuntary servitude.

E. J. Brown, president of the AFL electrical workers union, declared the union did not believe the governor had the power to do what he has done, and that it was "waiting legal advice as to how to proceed from here."

Hopes Fade for Averting Coal Walkout on Monday

"No Prospect of Agreement," National Coal Association Says

WASHINGTON, March 29 (AP)—Prospects for averting a nationwide soft coal strike Monday dimmed to the vanishing point today, amid indications of increasing bitterness between John L. Lewis and industry representatives.

The UMW chief has ordered his 400,000 bituminous miners to stay out of the pits after 12:01 a. m. Monday, and the National Coal Association, in a statement, declared today that "there is no present prospect of any agreement" which might avert the coal stoppage.

Actual effects of any mine stoppage will not be felt until Tuesday. Monday is "John Mitchell day," a holiday in the soft coal mines on the anniversary of the birth of the man who was president of the United Mine Workers when the coal diggers won the eight-hour day.

Lewis Assailed

The trade organization's statement, issued by John D. Battles, executive secretary, accused Lewis of stalling and "collective bargaining in name only." It was reported that Lewis had made a bitterly-worded reply at today's negotiating conference.

After the meeting, which recessed until tomorrow, Lewis refused to discuss the nature of his remarks but told newsmen the operators might furnish the information. The industry negotiators likewise refused to discuss any details of today's meeting.

Operators, meanwhile, confessed themselves puzzled by a notice to supervisory mine workers, sent out by their union president, advising them to stay on the job "until further notice."

The instructions were sent out by John McAlpine, president of the United Clerical, Technical, and Supervisory Employes Union, affiliated with the UMW. Recognition of the supervisors group, which claims a membership of 60,000, was one of Lewis's original demands.

No signs of further government intervention, begun yesterday by the Labor department, were immediately apparent. It was understood, however, that Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach was preparing a last-minute appeal to Lewis to keep his miners on the job until a new bituminous contract is agreed upon.

Success of Appeal Is Doubtful

At the same time, the government official who forecast this move said frankly the Labor department had no special hope the appeal would be successful. This official, who could not be quoted by name, predicted Schwellenbach would have something to say on the coal situation by tomorrow.

Assistant Secretary of Labor John W. Gibson saw Lewis on Wednesday and conferred yesterday with the coal operators. Later, he said he would make a full report to Schwellenbach and that increased government activity, aimed at averting the strike, could be expected.

The National Coal Association's statement sharply criticized Lewis, declaring he had "contemptuously rejected" a proposal to boost miners' wages by fifteen to eighteen cents hourly. Lewis thus far has not indicated publicly any specific wage demand; he has said only that mine wages should be raised and working hours reduced.

KINDNESS PAYS OFF

WHILE James Kilpatrick, 26, of Glendale, Cal., was serving overseas he shared part of his GI rations with an old French lady. His solicitude so impressed Madame Jeanne Marchal, 83, of Baccarat, France, whose seven sons were killed by the Nazis, that she willed Kilpatrick $50,000 before her death two months ago. Von Ribbentrop Describes 1939 Russo-Nazi Pact

By NOLAND NORGAARD

NUERNBERG, March 29 (AP)—Former Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop swore today that he had signed a secret treaty in the Kremlin with Josef Stalin and V. M. Molotov in August, 1939, for partitioning Poland, Finland, the Baltic states and the Romanian province of Bessarabia.

The wan diplomat spent the day in a painstaking move-by-move account of maneuvers preceding the outbreak of the war. He drew from the president of the international tribunal trying him and twenty-one other ranking Nazis as war criminals a statement that such detailed explanation of his actions "doesn't do the defendant's case any good."

The complaint from Lord Justice Sir Geoffrey Lawrence that the tribunal has listened "with great patience" but with increasing weariness to von Ribbentrop's recital came after the prisoner's account of a secret protocol he negotiated with the Russian leaders less than two weeks before Germany attacked Poland.

The publicized non-aggression pact between Russia and Germany was signed at the time.

Von Ribbentrop asserted that the secret protocol for dividing Poland, Lithuania, Latvia, Estonia, Finland and Besserabia between Russia and Germany "was to become effective only if the Polish question could not be solved diplomatically and peacefully.

Nevertheless, he said, he gained the impression from both Stalin and Molotov that "both statesmen were undoubtedly of the opinion that if the last chance of settlement became exhausted, there was certainly justification for Adolf Hitler to solve the problem in another way and incorporate this territory."

Germany violated the treaty less than two years later by attacking Russia, which had occupied Poland up to the Vistula and Bug rivers, the demarcation line which von Ribbentrop said was fixed in mid-August of 1939.

Endorse Baldwin

BALTIMORE, March 29. (AP) — Headquarters of Rep. H. Streett Baldwin, candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, announced tonight that Baldwin had been endorsed by the Kent county membership of the Democratic state central committee.

Huffman Calls For Cancellation Of A-Bomb Tests

Ohioan and Austin Oppose Disclosures without Safeguards

WASHINGTON, March 29. (AP)—Sens. Austin (R-Vt.) and Huffman (D-Ohio) today opposed any disclosures of atomic energy information to other nations until ironclad safeguards are established against its use for war.

Their stand ran counter to some of the recommendations of the State department study of an international control plan, although they did not comment specifically on that report.

Huffman declared that "we should not divulge a single secret until we are met with equal magnanimity by every member of the United Nations Organization."

He spoke in the Senate as he offered a resolution calling for outright cancellation of the proposed atomic bomb tests at Bikini atoll on the ground that "this is no time for martial gestures."

Sen. Lucas (D-Ill.), who joined with Huffman in writing the resolution, called the tests "useless, extravagant and unnecessary." He told the Senate he had conferred with "four of the world's leading scientists" and that they did not approve of the tests."

Sen. Johnson (D-Colo) defended the tests as necessary "to find out to what extent the atom bomb has made our navy obsolete."

Austin, in an address prepared for a forum at Johnson, Vt., tonight said that "not until after effective safeguards against the destructive use of atomic energy have been established by international agreement should we exchange reciprocally technical information regarding constructive use of atomic energy."

"This is so," he added, "because production of fissionable material represents seventy-five per cent of the production of the bomb."

The State department committee reported that some disclosure of theoretical information is inescapable if international control is to be intelligently drafted. It held, however, that these disclosures of information, now an exclusive United States possession, would not impair this country's superiority in the atomic field. It suggested a step-by-step disclosure over a period of years as the proposed "atomic development authority" comes to function, reserving information on bomb-making to the very last.

Miners Leave Jobs

ST. CHARLES, Va., March 29. (AP)—Thousands of miners throughout Southwest Virginia were reported to have left their jobs at the close of working hours today, taking an "indefinite vacation" until a new contract is signed.

Senate Military Committee Hears Anti-Draft Pleas

Sen. Smith Announces His Support of a One-Year Extension

WASHINGTON, March 29 (AP) — A retired brigadier general, a coed and three determined "war mothers" advised Congress today against extending the military draft beyond May 15.

The testified before the Senate Military committee after Vice Adm. Louis E. Denfeld put the navy on record with the army in favoring the extension of Selective Service.

Meanwhile chances for favorable committee action on a one-year extension of the draft increased as Sen. Smith (R-NJ) announced he would support it.

The committee tied 8 to 8 earlier this week on a compromise six weeks extension and then agreed to hold further hearings. Smith's vote could end the deadlock when the committee votes April 9.

Adm. Denfeld testified that the navy already has signed up 449,000 regular men and officers of the 550,000 it needs by September 1.

He added that it "expects no trouble" in getting the 20,000 needed monthly between April and September if the present draft act does not expire May 15.

H. C. Holdridge, the retired brigadier general who noted that he is a West Pointer, was critical of what he termed "popgun diplomacy" and a "powerful military colossus set in the midst of our political democracy and determining its policies."

Holdridge appeared for the Veterans League of America. He insisted that "mass armies are obsolete" and contended that 18 and 19 year olds do not fit needs for either world policemen or the small, highly technical, mobile "striking force based on the atomic bomb and other weapons."

Mrs. Agnes Waters, self-styled "unofficial spokesmen for millions of mothers" and familiar figure at congressional hearings, said the draft extension would make "American boys cannon fodder for a bunch of international crooks."

Espionage Suspect Is Released on Bond

PORTLAND, Ore., March 29 (AP) — Lt. Nicolai Gregorovich Redin, Russian naval officer charged with espionage, was released on $10,000 bond today and on the recognizance of the Russian consul general.

The 29-year-old member of the Soviet purchasing commission at Seattle was ordered to stand ready to return for a preliminary hearing here.

Judge Sentences Confessed Killer To 99-Year Term

BEDFORD, Ia., March 29—(AP)—Henry Schmitt, 62, charged with first degree murder in the confessed slaying of his lover's husband two and a half years ago, entered a surprise plea of guilty in district court tonight and was sentenced to ninety-nine years at hard labor.

Among the fifteen persons in the courtroom were Mrs. Mayme Schmitt, the defendant's wife, and his son, William, who wept during the proceedings.

Schmitt himself was unmoved outwardly when District Judge George A. Johnson, Creston, Ia., read Schmitt's written plea of guilty and sentenced him to the state penitentiary.

The entire proceedings, which began at 9:40 p. m. required only six minutes.

Schmitt admitted the slaying of Tommy Worm, 42, on November 4, 1943, and had told a bizarre story of twice burying and exhuming the body before finally driving 200 miles to the Mississippi river where he said he pushed it out into the stream on a crudely fashioned raft. The body had not been recovered.

Mrs. Dorothy Worm, 41, widow of the dead man, brought about Schmitt's arrest last weekend through a statement she made to the state bureau of criminal investigation in Des Moines. In that statement, County Attorney Ralph C. Jones said, Mrs. Worm told of an illicit romance with the elderly horse trader and admitted helping Schmitt bury the body of the farmer on some land owned by Schmitt and then helping him to exhume it and bury it on a farm in adjoining Union county.

No charges have been filed against Mrs. Worm, an attractive brunette and mother of a former air force first lieutenant, Carroll Worm, 24.

Boost in Retail Prices of Beef, Pork Is Ordered

WASHINGTON, March 29 (AP)—OPA today ordered higher retail prices for beef and pork, effective Monday, as an industry spokesman told of a spot check showing more than four out of five meat sales at prices above present ceilings.

The retail increases range from one to four cents a pound and cover about seventy-five per cent of all pork cuts and one-third of all beef cuts.

The price hike is the result of a wage increase of sixteen cents an hour recently granted to packing house workers.

As OPA announced the higher prices the American Meat Insfitute said the survey it had made indicated that housewives have less than one chance in five to buy meat at legal prices.

R. J. Eggert, associate director of the institute, marketing department, told the House Banking committee that of 1,803 stores in eleven cities checked by "impartial housewife shoppers," eighty-three per cent exceeded ceiling prices for meat.

Eggert said the average overcharge was twenty per cent but that in some cases prices were double or even three times the legal limit.

The pork and beef price increases ordered by OPA will be followed soon by increases for veal, lamb and mutton, the agency said.

General pork prices are being increased an average of three quarters of a cent a pound, while the public will pay an average of a third of a cent more a pound for beef.

The maximum price hike for most popular cuts of beef and pork, such as steaks, bacon, chops and loin roasts, will be one cent a pound, OPA said.

Increases for beef liver and cooked beef briskets amount to two cents a pound, while the only four-cent increase authorized are for bulk dry beef and for packaged Canadian bacon.

Delegates Agree To File Request For Information On Negotiations

Answer by Next Wednesday, when Meetings Resume, Is Asked

By FRANCIS W. CARPENTER

NEW YORK, March 29—(AP)—The United Nations Security Council decided today to ask Russia and Iran for top level reports by next Wednesday on the "existing status of negotiations between the two countries." The action was taken in the face of the Soviet delegate's continued absence from the council sessions.

Then, in an atmosphere of obvious good humor, the council adjourned until 11 a. m. EST Wednesday. The request was dispatched to the two governments within half an hour after adjournment.

The council scene was in sharp contrast to the tension of last Wednesday when Andrei A. Gromyko, Russian delegate, led his party of four from the chamber in protest against considering the Iranian case before April 10.

The delegates followed the lead of United States Secretary of State James F. Byrnes in proposing the report from the two countries. The only disagreement appeared to be on whether the report should be before the council by April 2, April 3, or April 4.

Ala Answers Questions

After the Iranian ambassador, Hussein Ala, had answered questions from delegates on Iranian issues involving Red Army occupation of parts of Iran, Byrnes arose with this proposal:

"I would suggest that the president of the council request the secretry general to ascertain at once from the Soviet government and the Iranian government through their representatives and report to the council on Tuesday, April 2, the existing status of negotiations between the two governments and particularly to ascertain from the representatives of the two governments and report whether or not the reported withdrawal of troops is conditional upon the conclusion of agreements between the two governments on other subjects."

The question of April 2 for the reporting date provided discussion for the delegates for an hour. Then the chairman, Dr. Quo Tai-Chi, of China, came out for April 3 and declared the meeting adjourned until that date. There was no objection.

Byrnes's Statement

Byrnes in his statement, which was received cordially by every delegate present, said:

"If the council could obtain more adequate and exact information regarding the status of the negotiations between the Soviet government and the Iranian government, the council might be able to satisfy itself that the assurances of the Soviet government as to the prompt withdrawal of troops from Iran are in fact for all practical purposes unconditional.

"In that event, there might be no need for the council to go into the substantive issues, provided it reserved the right to both parties to have the case immediately taken up by the council should there be any developments which threatened to retard the withdrawal of troops."

Terminiello Apologizes

CHICAGO, March 29. (AP)—Arthur W. Terminiello, suspended Roman Catholic priest on trial on charges of disorderly conduct, was held in contempt of court today but later apologized and Municipal Judge John V. McCormick dismissed the contempt charge. The disorderly charge against Terminiello, formerly of Huntsville, Ala., grew out of a tumultuous Gerald L. K. Smith rally February 7 in Chicago.

Alliances in Maryland's Primary Are Expected To Crystallize Soon

Formal Tickets Probably Will Appear within Next Ten Days; April 15 Is Filing Deadline

By JAMES E. HAGUE

BALTIMORE, March 29 (AP)—Alliances in the Maryland primary campaign are expected to crystallize within the next ten days.

There are many candidates for various offices already on file with the secretary of state but there are also many blanks on the primary roster. With the filing deadline four days later, formal tickets are expected to appear shortly.

Of the three major candidates for governor on the Democratic ticket, only one, Rep. H. Streett Baldwin, has begun publicly the formation of a ticket.

State Sen. John B. Funk (D-Fred) has announced he will run for comptroller on Baldwin's ticket. However, he has not formally filed with the secretary of state.

There are two Democratic candidates for attorney general, Lawrence B. Fenneman, Baltimore, and Delegate John S. White, Hyattsville. But neither has aligned himself on any of the tickets to be headed by Baldwin, W. Preston Lane, Jr., and Comptroller J. Millard Tawes.

There are also two Democratic candidates for United States Senate. George L. Radcliffe is seeking renomination and is opposed by Gov. O'Conor. To date, Radcliffe and O'Conor have both declined to endorse any of the gubernatorial aspirants.

The names of O'Conor and Tawes have been linked in many Baltimore city Democratic club endorsements. However, O'Conor sidestepped any specific alignment in a public statement.

With all the candidates aware of the general geographical allotment of candidacies, more names should be added to the ticket shortly. Lane is from Western Maryland and, if he follows usual procedure, will have a Baltimore city and an Eastern shore man running with him.

Baldwin already has a Western Maryland supporter in Funk and his candidate for attorney general might well come from the shore. Tawes, a shoreman, might normally be expected to get running mates with strength in Western Maryland. Tawes already has been endorsed by many Baltimore city groups.

Considrable clarity should be added within a few days on the Republican side as well.

There are two GOP candidates for governor—D. John Markey and Herman L. Mills, both Western Marylanders. There are two for the Senate, Paul Robertson and John LaVeck. But no Republicans have filed for comptroller, attorney general or any of the six seats in Congress.

Chief GOP question mark is the primary position of Theodore R. McKeldin, Republican mayor of Baltimore and unsuccessful candidate for governor in the 1942 general election.

Robertson, chairman of the Baltimore City Republican Committee, said this week he would withdraw from the Senate race if McKeldin, always a late filer, announced for that spot. Robertson and Galen L. Tait, Republican leader, have been feuding for some time. Robertson said he would not stand down if McKeldin filed for any other office.

Lane Takes Issue with O'Conor

BALTIMORE, March 29 (AP)—W. Preston Lane, Jr., Hagerstown publisher seeking the Democratic nomination for governor, took issue today with Gov. O'Conor's proposal to reduce tolls on the Susquehanna and Potomac river bridges.

In a letter to the state roads commission Thursday, O'Conor noted that total receipts from the bridges at Havre de Grace and in Charles county would be "considerably in excess of requirements to meet the legal needs." The governor held that consideration should be given to toll reductions.

Lane previously had suggested a pooling of tolls from those bridges and the crossings he favors for the Patapsco river and Chesapeake bay.

He pointed out that "any reduction in tolls must be approved by the authorities designated in the trust indenture for the issuance of revenue bonds."

It may be unlikely, he said, that those authorities would approve the cut, but he urged reconsideration of the proposed cut anyway.

One Jew Is Killed In German Camp Riot

STUTTGART, Germany, March 29 (AP)—One Jew was killed and two injured early today in a two-hour riot breaking out after a police black market raid on a displaced persons camp, and an UNRRA official charged the police with shooting down "defenseless" Jews.

The clash between 1,800 Poles and 220 German police in the camp just outside Stuttgart was the worst in the United States zone. Several German policemen were hurt.

The United States Army had authorized the raid, and eight American military police accompanied the German police. The riot ended only when American armored cars ejected the police and patrolled the camp area.

David Clearfield, Hazelton, Pa., the deputy UNRRA director, declared "our peoples were defenseless. The first shot was fired by German police when the Jews in mob fashion tried to push the police out of the area, crying they had no right to be there."

New National Republican Organization Is Formed

WASHINGTON, March 29 (AP) — Harold E. Stassen, one of those often mentioned as a 1948 Republican presidential aspirant, announced tonight a new national organization to develop suggestions from young Republicans for party policy.

The announcement from the former governor of Minnesota, came as GOP leaders begin arriving here for Monday's meeting to pick a new national committee chairman.

Stassen will be chairman of the advisory committee of the policy-suggesting organization, to be known as "the Republican Open Forums."

National headquarters has been established here. The office will be under direction of Henry McKnight, 32-year-old Minneapolis advertising man now on terminal leave as a lieutenant commander in the navy after four years' service.

Couple, Made "Nervous" By Their Three Tots, Will Give Them Away

OMAHA, March 29 (AP)—An Omaha couple today started proceedings to give away their three small children "because they make us nervous," Public Defender Joe Lovely said.

Lovely said the couple asked him to handle the legal procedure involved in turning the children over to an elderly Omaha couple, Mr. and Mrs. John Yunick, who have cared for the tots in the past.

Petitions for adoption filed by the Yunicks in Douglas County Court identified the parents as Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Van Horn, and the children as Stanley, 2; Tommy, 4; and Carolyn, 3.

LaGuardia Tells UNRRA Council He Will Buy Food where He Can

By SIGRID ARNE

ATLANTIC CTY, N. J., March 29 (AP) — Fiorello H. LaGuardia, the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration's new director general, bluntly told the council today "our job is to take food where we can find it, and take it to people who need it, wherever they are."

In his first meeting with the forty-eight-member council before it recessed indefinitely, the successor to Herbert H. Lehman declared:

"Wheat has no political complexion, and I'll buy wheat where I can find it."

He said he would begin by extending his greetings to Juan Domingo Peron, Argentina's president. "Here is an opportunity for Argentina to show its desire to co-operate with the rest of the world," he added.

Even as he spoke, Argentina announced it would not join UNRRA, stating its food supplies already were committed to various countries.

LaGuardia said he would call next "on my old friend, MacKenzie King" of Canada. "Perhaps we can scrape up a few bushels there."

People "want bread, not advice," he shouted. "I want ploughs, not typewriters. I want fast moving ships, no slow reading resolutions."

"From this point on," he added, the protocol is off. When I have something to say, I'll say it.

"I'll start right now with my own county. All I ask is that Americans not overeat and no waste. My city alone wastes enough food everyday to feed a city of 350,000 people. I know I picked up that garbage for twelve years."

Administration Opens New Fight In Behalf of OPA

WASHINGTON, March 29. (AP)—The administration told Congress today that an early death of OPA, as recommended by the National Association of Manufacturers and the United States Chamber of Commerce, would invite wild inflation and economic paralysis.

Paul Porter, OPA chief, pledged that prices will be adjusted wherever needed to break production bottlenecks, and that controls will be abolished in various areas of production as soon as inflationary pressures permit.

The administration's economic high command reappeared before the House Banking committee to answer assertions by NAM and other segments of business and industry that OPA is encouraging black markets, choking production and itself contributing to inflation.

While President Truman's economic wheelhorses were plugging before the committee for a year's continuation of OPA, without amendments, the administration got support from two new sources.

1. A bi-partisan unofficial congressional "Committee for the Protection of the Consumer" was organized to fight for retention of the OPA. Rep. Forand (D-RI) is chairman, Rep. Joseph C. Baldwin (R-NY), co-chairman, and Rep. Woodhouse (D-Conn), secretary.

2. Eldridge Haynes, publisher of the magazine Modern Industry, told a news conference that 53.8 per cent of 3,215 manufacturing executives replying in a poll conducted by the publication, favored extension of OPA beyond June 30.

President Plans Cruise

WASHINGTON, March 29. (AP)—President Truman is leaving this afternoon for a cruise on the Potomac river with a group of senators with whom he will discuss the administration's legislative program.

Gromyko Refers to His Superiors In Explaining Boycott of Council

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW, March 29 (AP) — The Russian press today quoted Andrei Gromyko as saying he left the Security council session Wednesday "due to reasons placed upon him from higher up."

In other reports on the international scene, Soviet newspapers in the past two days have carried stories criticizing Premier Shidehara's regime in Japan, attacking "reactionary" Chinese newspapers, and hitting at Dr. Syngman Rhee, former chairman of the American-recognized Democratic Council of South Korea.

recognized Democratic Council of dio comment on Gromyko's action on the Iranian issue before the council, presented to the Russian people for the first time today in a 250-word Tass dispatch from New York. The dispatch was displayed prominently in all newspapers and broadcast.

It said that in connection with the council's action on voting to hear the Iranian delegate and rejecting the Russian request for postponement until April 10, Gromyko stated "that due to reasons placed upon him from higher up he could not take part in the discussion of the Iranian question and he left the meeting of the council."

The government newspaper Izvestia, asserting that Premier Shidehara's government was protesting Japanese military interests and trusts, asked that the forthcoming Japanese elections be postponed "in the interest of the Japanese people in order that a genuine democratic government may be formed."

Hosiery Ought To Be Rationed

PRESIDENT TRUMAN sees no reason for a resumption of rationing in this country as a result of world food shortages. He believes that the current emergency would be over before steps could be taken to re-impose necessary controls.

While he is on the subject of rationing, he might well give some thought to the need for rationing hosiery and take some initiative toward action by Congress, or some suitable action by OPA or other government agencies.

The hosiery situation here in Cumberland as well as elsewhere throughout the nation has become exceedingly acute, and the method, or lack of method, of distribution of what supplies are available is causing great hardships among women everywhere.

Those who are unable to wait hours in line by reason of household duties, or illness or other causes are denied this necessary article of apparel. Even many of those who wait in line are disappointed. Thousands upon thousands of women are so devoid of stockings that they are obliged to remain away from their church services, or to refrain from shopping or to appear at any social gathering however informal.

Rationing with use of the ration books now in the hands of the public would serve to alleviate this serious situation.

But other action ought to be taken also to stimulate the production and distribution of hosiery. It is maddening for the women to read news reports to the effect that nylons to the amount of thirty million dozen pairs are to be available this year. Where are they? Only a trickle is coming through, and only the few who undergo the hardships noted or who in desperation resort to the black market, which only enhances inflation, are able to get any. It is maddening for them also to read the reports from Mexico that great quantities of nylons are being sold there.

Of course, the women want nylons; but they would be content if they could get other makes while waiting for the more durable kind. But they are in desperate plight and it seems strange that something in the way of action is not being done in official circles to meet their dire needs.

Arthurdale's Future Now Looms Brighter

ANNOUNCEMENT by the Federal Public Housing Authority that it will sell the three factory buildings, the Arthurdale Inn and fifty-four of the unsold houses at Arthurdale, Preston county, W. Va., is of hopeful interest. This was one of the socialistic pets of Mrs. Roosevelt.

Since the only hope for a decent future for this subsistence homestead failure has been the transfer of its properties to private owners, the move comes somewhat tardily, but as the old saying goes, better late than never.

A permanent industry might have been established at Arthurdale a long time ago when it became apparent that its original purpose was a failure, but, according to "The Morgantown Post," (W. Va.) federal restrictions and red tape prevented. At one time the Morgantown Chamber of Commerce went to bat to have these restrictions lifted so that a shirt company operating in one of the Arthurdale factory buildings might expand its operations and get on a permanent basis, but sluggard bureaucracy won out and the shirt company eventually withdrew from the place.

Arthurdale presents a number of advantages for an industrial enterprise. The factory buildings there are of modern construction and are conveniently located, there is suitable housing for workers, a school building is on the site and there are other facilities. With all the restrictions hitherto impeding its usefulness, some enterprising manufacturer, or prospective manufacturer, should be interested in it.

If so, we shall likely have another interesting contrast between public and private enterprise, with the failure of the former turning into a success for the latter.

Those Drastic Building Controls

IN A REPORT that makes sad reading the Senate committee investigating the defense program sharply criticizes the policies followed in disposing of American surplus war material abroad. The result, says the report, is a "confused muddle" that has cost taxpayers billions of dollars.

The State, War and Navy departments are all charged with failure to protect the public interest. The report declares that the surrender, like the war itself, caught the nation unprepared and that the lessons of World War I "have not been heeded." Consequently, the disposal of surplus war goods has not only been "unsatisfactory" but, because the government did not recapture or at least retain control of military material, there may be "repercussions in delicate future relations between nations."

In particular, the committee asserts that the sale or transfer to Britain and Russia of American arms that could be used in carrying out the colonial policies of these governments cannot be defended. It insists that Congress should make certain, by laying down definite guides for the executive department to follow, that such risky transactions will not be repeated.

It is difficult for the layman to judge whether these accusations are fully justified. Possibly the committee, considering the size of the problem and the complexities it involves, has been more harsh than circumstances warrant. Or perhaps it has not been harsh enough. It seems possible to argue, too, that Congress must share the blame because it did not foresee this situation and move to avert it. But the Senate investigating committee believes that Congress should act now, and it should do so.

New Automobile Models Not So Important Now

ONE of the leading automobile manufacturing concerns has decided to bring out 1947 models and has suspended operations for thirty days for retooling to that end. This has upset calculations hitherto made and what its effect on other manufacturers will be remains to be seen. In general they had decided not to offer a new model this year because the industry will not be able to afford the cost of retooling on account of severe first quarter losses, due to strikes in its own and basic material industries, notably steel. The case noted may be just an exception to the rule.

Many persons had hoped that this general idea would prevail for the year. The automobile makers had pushed new models to uneconomical excesses prior to the war and, of course, the customers had to pay the bill. It would seem preferable in the economic sense to continue maximum production on current models for another year.

Even if current models should be continued, there would be no cause for weeping over the prospect. Automobiles had been brought to such a high state of perfection that they were just about all that could be desired by the public and it is difficult to see where there could be any substantial improvement save in the addition of a few gadgets. The 1946 models are actually new since they include many improvements prompted by the war manufacturing experience and changes.

If the manufacturers could line up with an understanding to put out new models say every two or three years, adding the new gadgets as they went along, it might be better for all concerned.

More Developments About Spies Likely

IT IS IMPOSSIBLE to forego the comment that had Lieut. Nicolai Gregorovich Redin, the Soviet naval academy graduate arrested as he was about to board a Soviet ship in Portlnd, Oregon, been an American discovered in Russia under similar circumstances, nobody in this country would ever have heard of his fate. The Reds would have liquidated him.

This suspected Red spy has lived in Seattle since 1942. The atomic bomb plant at Hanford, Washington, is only 150 miles from Seattle. Knowledge of his presence in the United States came to the House Committee on un-American Activities several months ago. Full details of his activities are exected to be revealed as they are pieced together.

A suspicious circumstance of his attempted departure was that the Russian vessel on which he sought to leave Portland was overdue in sailing when he was arrested. Certainly its skipper must have had orders direct from Stalin to pick up a personage deemed important by Moscow if he delayed his sailing for one passenger.

Now that the FBI has broken the ice, more news of Soviet spy activities can be expected momentarily. The House Committee on un-American Activities no doubt has other leads. And the FBI, under J. Edgar Hoover, has never been accused of harboring Reds on its payroll. It is the one agency in Washington peculiarly fitted to do a good job in rounding up Stalin's spies in the United States.

The fact is becoming clearer by the minute that government controls foster crises. There seems never an end to an emergency which the bureaus at Washington seek to alleviate, and when one phase of a problem is taken in hand, another rises up. Then the machinery, cumbersome and ineffective for the most part, lumbers into action on that ad infinitum. When private enterprise production eventually gets the go-ahead signal, all these crises will vanish as a fog under the sunshine.

This is the postwar period, but after listening to some of those international diplomats it sounds ominously more like prewar.

Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of their party, but southern Democrats want to know whose party.

Mystery writers are also organizing for more dough. Their slogan no doubt is "Crime (fictional) does not pay—enough."

TEN GOOD BOOKS

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

I am often asked by readers of this brief column to give them a list of books to read. This is rather difficult, inasmuch as books should be chosen in much the same manner as friends are, selecting those with whom you most delight.

Here, however, I name ten that I have enjoyed, and from which I have gained both entertainment and mental enrichment. Some are new books, some old, but all, I believe, can be secured from any bookseller or well-equipped library.

BIOGRAPHY: "Son of The Wilderness," a life of John Muir, by Rennie Marsh Wolfe.

AUTOBIOGRAPHY: William Allen White.

POETRY: Leaves of Grass" by Walt Whitman.

SOCIAL STUDY: "Looking Backward" by Edward Bellamy.

Books: "Parnassus on Wheels" by Christopher Morley.

ART: "The Art Spirit" by Robert Henri.

FICTION: "A Tale of Two Cities" by Charles Dickens.

I could name hundreds of others, but you who have read very few books are sure to be well repaid in the reading of any of these books named. Too many of our modern writers glory in their "realism" and have too keen an eye upon the "first seller" list, or a movie contract. The great books of the world often had to wait a long time for their audience to catch up with their mental and spiritual stride.

It is a common saying, familiar to us all, that "the good die young." This is, of course, a silly, clever saying and that is all. The good die old, as well. But good books live forever!

THAT'S AN AWFUL LOT OF PURGE

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Pearson Says Cables Tell of Russian Plot To Take Over Iranian Government

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, March 29—The American people are now getting their first close-up of Oriental diplomacy of the cloak-and-dagger variety.

Neither side in the Iranian dispute is averse to using these tactics, but the ablest exponent is inscrutable Soviet Ambassador Gromyko. Though young in the game and sometimes considered a mere messenger for Moscow, Gromyko knows what he's doing every minute. Nothing slips by him.

While the audience, mostly American, watches the Soviet diplomatic stalling at the UNO meeting, a much clearer picture is revealed behind the scenes. Confidential cables pouring into the State department and the British foreign office from Anglo-American representatives in Iran plead for utmost speed. The cables from Moscow to Gromyko order him to stall, delay, and then stall some more.

That's why the Soviet ambassador acts as if he has nothing to do but sit and talk. That's why Polish Ambassador Oscar Lange, a Soviet supporter, is always getting hungry. He is always the first to ask for a recess for lunch or dinner. Every recess means more time killed. That's how Gromyko keeps avoiding a vote to the last possible moment.

High Drama in Tehran

Meanwhile, however, high drama is being enacted in Terhan. There, both Britain and America are represented by anti-Soviet diplomats. They have pinned their hopes on the equally anti-Soviet shah of Iran.

On the other side is the Russian ambassador, who has his orders to stage a revolt at the earliest possible moment, ousting the shah and making Iranian Premier Ghavam top man.

Ghavam is virtually a Soviet puppet. During the last two years, the Russians have permitted him to get away with all sorts of economic concessions in Northern Iran under the protection of Red army troops. As a result, Ghavam is one of the wealthiest men in the Near East.

However, revolutions are not set up overnight. They take both money and time. The Soviet embassy in Tehran is reliably reported to have distributed $1,500,000 in gold to Iranian political leaders in the past month to expedite a revolt. Simultaneously, the British embassy, no slouch at cloak-and-dagger diplomacy, has seen to it that the shah of Iran has everything necessary to protect Anglo-American interests. The British army, which left Iran more than a month ago, left behind valuable military equipment to aid in resisting any Russian-inspired uprising.

In New York also, there is more than mere power politics involved in what has been going on behind the scenes. The Iranian ambassador to the United States, Hussein Ala, is bitterly anti-Russian. However, Hussein Ala gets his orders from pro-Russian Premier Ghavam, who recently rebuffed him. Ala's pals, who include some people who helped the Nazis before the war, have urged him to force his case against Russia into the open before Ghavam removes him.

So while high-sounding phrases are poured out for public consumption under the lights at the UNO Security Council meeting, Oriental politics in their roughest, toughest cloak-and-dagger form flourish backstage.

Senator Thomas Blows Up

Able Elbert Thomas, of Utah, chairman of the Senate Military Affairs committee, is a reserved, mild-mannered man. Seldom does he lose his temper. But the other day when the Military Affairs committee was preparing to vote on the long-delayed federal science bill, Thomas really let loose against procrastinating Sen. Revercomb, of West Virginia.

For months Revercomb had been a member of a subcommittee to pass on the federal science bill. But despite that he still wanted more delay.

The bill is one of the mostly badly needed in the government. Scientific research is now the crux of modern warfare, and the science bill provides for that research.

The bill is one of the most carefully written of any before the Senate. It was drafted only after Sen. Kilgore, of West Virginia, chairman of the subcommittee, had heard over 100 witnesses, including the secretaries of war, navy and interior, Bernie Baruch, Dr. Vannevar Bush, the National Association of Manufacturers, the AFL, the CIO, and dozens of the nation's leading scentists.

Revercomb, although a member of this subcommittee, had not bothered to attend its hearings. However, when the bill came before the full Senate Military Affairs committee, he had the nerve to ask for delay.

"I want to study the bill further," the West Virginia Republican said.

Two Gentlemen from West Virginia

It was no secret to every member of the committee why he wanted the delay. Revercomb is a bitter enemy of Sen. Kilgore, Democrat, also of West Virginia. Kilgore is co-author of the federal science bill, along with Sen. Warren Magnuson, of Washington. Kilgore was chairman of the subcommittee which studied the bill. The last thing Revercomb wants, therefore, is to see his Democratic West Virginia colleague receive national credit.

This was what caused Chairman Thomas to blow up. Thomas was one of the nation's outstanding social scientists before he came to the Senate, and when Revercomb said that he questioned the inclusion of social scientists among the scientists to receive federal support, Chairman Thomas shot back:

"Your subcommittee has thoroughly thrashed this thing out with both the government officials and the distinguished scientists who appeared before it, and found the present language acceptable."

"Do you mean to tell me we can't discuss the bill in full committee?" Revercomb asked belligerently.

"Certainly we can," the Utah senator replied, "if we discuss it intelligently."

Vote Insisted On

Despite this sarcasm, Revercomb insisted that the committee vote on whether support for the social sciences should be included in the bill.

"The government might be paying for racial studies and things like that," he muttered.

The vote was taken and Revercomb was defeated. Thomas then gently explained that it is practically impossible to draw a line of demarcation between the social sciences and the physical sciences.

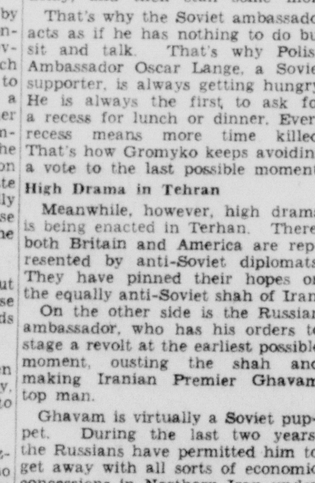

"It is very easy to distinguish physical sciences from social sciences," Revercomb insisted.

"Yes," Thomas replied, this time not so gently, "if you don't know anything about either."

The committee then decided not to wait for Revercomb to get educated regarding the bill which his own subcommittee had been studying for months, and voted to approve it.

NEW AUTO UNION CHIEF

Coal Strike Is Viewed as Serious Inflation Measure

By MARK SULLIVAN

Rarely was an over-all national condition so simple and so vivid. The parts of it are:

A strike in the soft coal industry is threatened for next Monday. The strike, extremely likely to take place will halt or slow down production in all industries that use soft coal as fuel.

The strike is for, among other demands, a raise in wages. If the raise takes place it will result, directly and immediately, in an increase in the price of coal. This in turn will cause increases in prices of goods made in plants using soft coal as fuel.

In short, we have ahead of us a repetition of what happened last January in the steel strike. Steel and coal are both "basic" industries, ramifying into other industries, into practically all industry. As the steel strike halted industry generally, and stalled reconversion, so will the coal strike halt industry again, stall reconversion again.

More Dangerous Break

As the raise in steel wages caused an increase in the price of goods—$5 a ton in the price of steel and corresponding increases in goods into which steel enters—so will a raise in coal cause another widespread increase in prices of goods generally.

As the wage raise in steel caused an increase in cost of living, so will a wage raise in coal cause another. And—this is the important point—the coal increase will be on top of the steel increase.

Steel was a "bulge" in the line against inflation—so called by the Truman administration, but called by Mr. Bernard Baruch a "break and a grave one." So will coal be the same—whether you call it by the administration's mild word or by Mr. Baruch's forthright one. Only—again and this is an important point—the new break will be an addition to the first one, hence more dangerous.

The menace is broader than a single threatened strike, the one in coal. Other strikes are under way and others are threatened. Further, there is no certainty that the strikes recently settled will remain settled; nor that the wage raises recently made will not be followed by yet further raises. Indeed, in the long range, the contrary is the greater certainty. Heads of the CIO union of automobile workers have said, publicly and definitely, that the recent wage raise of eighteen and one-half cents per hour by General Motors was a "down payment," and that in due course they would demand more.

No Remedial Action

That is the strike—wages—prices—inflation part of the national condition. The other part is, what has been or will be done in prevention or remedy?

So far there is nothing. The conditions of existing laws that made possible the recent strikes, and the wage-price increases following them, remain the same. (Passage of the so-called "anti-Petrillo" measure affecting a single industry, is not a real exception). So far as the labor relations laws are concerned, any one of the recent strikes, or all of them, or equivalents of them, with what accompany them, can be repeated.

When the recent strikes were under way, it was taken for granted that Congress would take action to prevent or ameliorate the repetition. The sentiment and the expectation were shared by Congress. Of the individuals composing that body, an overwhelming majority favor a new labor relations law, or changes in the existing ones.

Many measures were introduced. A strong one, the Case bill, passed the House by 248 to 155. In the Senate, it went to the committee on Labor, a majority of which is pro-labor. That committee changed the Case Bill until, as one member said, nothing was left except the title and number. Keeping these, the committee wrote a quite different measure, a mild one.

House Bill Coming Up

But the important point is that, when this bill comes out of the committee, there will be before the Senate a bill which has the status of having passed the House. To the bill, any senator can propose any amendment. The whole area of labor legislation can be opened up. The Senate can pass whatever labor measure a majority desires. There will be opportunity for legislation by Congress, and the legislation can be as strong as the two branches of Congress desire.

In the coming Senate debate and action, there will be opposition by labor leaders and unions. These, especially CIO and its Political Action Committee, are well organized on a nation-wide basis for attention to pending legislation.

Senators who support the pending legislation would be strengthened if there were organization by that part of the public who suffer detriment from the sequence of strikes, wage-raises, price-increases, rising cost of living. These include consumers, and several special groups—persons who live on fixed income, such as pensioners; owners of life insurance policies, persons who have put their savings in war bonds, saving banks and the like.

Russian Walkout Is Only a Habit, Lawrence Says

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, March 29—Russia's peculiar behavior in the United Nation's Security Council may mystify the world, but the British and American governments have refused to be taken in by the maneuvers.

The habit of walking out on important conferences or threatening to walk out is one of the favorite techniques practiced by the Russians in international affairs. A threat to leave the Dumbarton Oaks conference intimidated American and British officials and caused them to yield to the Russian wish that the proceedings be conducted secretly. The Russians have participated in international aviation and monetary conferences only to have it left in doubt at the end whether they really were in or out of the picture. At San Francisco the constant threat of a Russian walk-out kept the conference upset.

But today Secretary Byrnes and his colleagues of the democracies have seen through these transparent efforts to prevent the democracies from exposing to full discussion the merits of subjects in dispute. Some persons may have thought Russia was walking out of the entire UNO but it became apparent the next day that the Soviet representative was merely following instructions not to participate in discusions about Iran—at least till April 10th.

Russians Kept in Dark

Meanwhile, Russia significantly enough never told her own people anything about the walk-out. Neither the radio nor the official Russian news agency mentioned the incident. In fact, for more than twenty-four hours, no news at all about the UNO council action was given to the millions of Russians who read and listen to the radio.

This might mean that the Russians were playing a game for external consumption and were hesitant to let their own people know they were part of a crisis with the United States and other countries.

The Russian people have suffered much. They have recenly been told by Stalin that they must endure a continuance of the low standard of living in order that the new five-year plan may be successful. They may or may not learn, that through the economic help of the United States the five-year plan could be made effective and the standard of living for the average Russian could be raised.

Public Opinion Important

So it is important whether American public opinion is friendly to Russia or begins to suspect totalitarian tactics that could develop an estrangement between the two people. Russia is not willing apparently to let its average citizen know what is going on, possibly because of a genuine fear that he might not like more crises or more talk of war, especially after the many millions of casualties suffered by the Russians in the world war just ended.

The best chance for the American and British viewpoints to penetrate the Russian barriers is to keep on arguing and discussing in the open such misguided adventures as the coercion of Iran. More than Iran is involved. The Russians now dominate most of Eastern Europe. Supposedly independent nations in the Balkans have Russians on top of them so that freedom of the press inside the Russian sphere of influence is already gone and other liberties are denied on the pretext that order has not yet been restored or that security measures must be taken against "Fascists."

Significant Step by UNRRA

A significant step has been announced by UNRRA. It has declined to let American food supplies be used by Russia's occupying armies in Central Europe and has insisted that food for relief of Europe must go to the peoples and not the armies. The true story of what the Russians have done within their zones of influence has been effectively suppressed, but in due time it will come out and possibly before the UNO.

It appears now that all disputes will eventually be aired at the UNO, because unless the nations work together in a single organization which encourages open debate, the totalitarian government of Russia could keep the facts from the world.

The UNO council's debate in New York eventually will have its effect on the Russian government. The Iran case will be settled but at a price which it seems foolish for the Russians to pay—the loss of the good will of observant peoples who know the difference between a violated treaty and a belated excuse for intimidating a small nation.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

I gather from the papers that radio is just about done for and we are facing television, and I'm a little worried. It's bothering all the comedians. Bergen is having a spring motor built into Charlie, Fred Allen is having his alley paved, and Jack Benny is having all his toupees built with plaid linings.

I don't know just what television will do to the mad comedians like Professor Colonna. On the radio we can do jokes about squirrels running in and out of his ears and get by with it, but come television and the public will be able to see there aren't any real squirrels . . . They're just gophers with fur coats.

And what's going to happen to Joe Schmutz, the record jockey, and his make-like-it's-the Palladium ballroom? No housewife is going to be content to sit all day staring at a revolving turntable.

I understand the new television sets are equipped with a couple of handy arms that make for unmitigated realism. When you watch the fights, a hand reaches out and shakes peanut shells down your collar. If a football game is being televised, the hands beat you on the back when your side is losing and drop empty half pints on your noggin all through the half. And if you've tuned in Santa Anita, the hands come out at the end of each race, grab you by the ankles, turn you upside down and shake your pockets empty . . . And then disappear with the loot.

Hosiery Ought To Be Rationed

PRESIDENT TRUMAN sees no reason for a resumption of rationing in this country as a result of world food shortages. He believes that the current emergency would be over before steps could be taken to re-impose necessary controls.

While he is on the subject of rationing, he might well give some thought to the need for rationing hosiery and take some initiative toward action by Congress, or some suitable action by OPA or other government agencies.

The hosiery situation here in Cumberland as well as elsewhere throughout the nation has become exceedingly acute, and the method, or lack of method, of distribution of what supplies are available is causing great hardships among women everywhere.

Those who are unable to wait hours in line by reason of household duties, or illness or other causes are denied this necessary article of apparel. Even many of those who wait in line are disappointed. Thousands upon thousands of women are so devoid of stockings that they are obliged to remain away from their church services, or to refrain from shopping or to appear at any social gathering however informal.

Rationing with use of the ration books now in the hands of the public would serve to alleviate this serious situation.

But other action ought to be taken also to stimulate the production and distribution of hosiery. It is maddening for the women to read news reports to the effect that nylons to the amount of thirty million dozen pairs are to be available this year. Where are they? Only a trickle is coming through, and only the few who undergo the hardships noted or who in desperation resort to the black market, which only enhances inflation, are able to get any. It is maddening for them also to read the reports from Mexico that great quantities of nylons are being sold there.

Of course, the women want nylons; but they would be content if they could get other makes while waiting for the more durable kind. But they are in desperate plight and it seems strange that something in the way of action is not being done in official circles to meet their dire needs.

Arthurdale's Future Now Looms Brighter

ANNOUNCEMENT by the Federal Public Housing Authority that it will sell the three factory buildings, the Arthurdale Inn and fifty-four of the unsold houses at Arthurdale, Preston county, W. Va., is of hopeful interest. This was one of the socialistic pets of Mrs. Roosevelt.

Since the only hope for a decent future for this subsistence homestead failure has been the transfer of its properties to private owners, the move comes somewhat tardily, but as the old saying goes, better late than never.

A permanent industry might have been established at Arthurdale a long time ago when it became apparent that its original purpose was a failure, but, according to "The Morgantown Post," (W. Va.) federal restrictions and red tape prevented. At one time the Morgantown Chamber of Commerce went to bat to have these restrictions lifted so that a shirt company operating in one of the Arthurdale factory buildings might expand its operations and get on a permanent basis, but sluggard bureaucracy won out and the shirt company eventually withdrew from the place.

Arthurdale presents a number of advantages for an industrial enterprise. The factory buildings there are of modern construction and are conveniently located, there is suitable housing for workers, a school building is on the site and there are other facilities. With all the restrictions hitherto impeding its usefulness, some enterprising manufacturer, or prospective manufacturer, should be interested in it.

If so, we shall likely have another interesting contrast between public and private enterprise, with the failure of the former turning into a success for the latter.

Those Drastic Building Controls

IN A REPORT that makes sad reading the Senate committee investigating the defense program sharply criticizes the policies followed in disposing of American surplus war material abroad. The result, says the report, is a "confused muddle" that has cost taxpayers billions of dollars.

The State, War and Navy departments are all charged with failure to protect the public interest. The report declares that the surrender, like the war itself, caught the nation unprepared and that the lessons of World War I "have not been heeded." Consequently, the disposal of surplus war goods has not only been "unsatisfactory" but, because the government did not recapture or at least retain control of military material, there may be "repercussions in delicate future relations between nations."

In particular, the committee asserts that the sale or transfer to Britain and Russia of American arms that could be used in carrying out the colonial policies of these governments cannot be defended. It insists that Congress should make certain, by laying down definite guides for the executive department to follow, that such risky transactions will not be repeated.

It is difficult for the layman to judge whether these accusations are fully justified. Possibly the committee, considering the size of the problem and the complexities it involves, has been more harsh than circumstances warrant. Or perhaps it has not been harsh enough. It seems possible to argue, too, that Congress must share the blame because it did not foresee this situation and move to avert it. But the Senate investigating committee believes that Congress should act now, and it should do so.

New Automobile Models Not So Important Now

ONE of the leading automobile manufacturing concerns has decided to bring out 1947 models and has suspended operations for thirty days for retooling to that end. This has upset calculations hitherto made and what its effect on other manufacturers will be remains to be seen. In general they had decided not to offer a new model this year because the industry will not be able to afford the cost of retooling on account of severe first quarter losses, due to strikes in its own and basic material industries, notably steel. The case noted may be just an exception to the rule.

Many persons had hoped that this general idea would prevail for the year. The automobile makers had pushed new models to uneconomical excesses prior to the war and, of course, the customers had to pay the bill. It would seem preferable in the economic sense to continue maximum production on current models for another year.

Even if current models should be continued, there would be no cause for weeping over the prospect. Automobiles had been brought to such a high state of perfection that they were just about all that could be desired by the public and it is difficult to see where there could be any substantial improvement save in the addition of a few gadgets. The 1946 models are actually new since they include many improvements prompted by the war manufacturing experience and changes.

If the manufacturers could line up with an understanding to put out new models say every two or three years, adding the new gadgets as they went along, it might be better for all concerned.

More Developments About Spies Likely

IT IS IMPOSSIBLE to forego the comment that had Lieut. Nicolai Gregorovich Redin, the Soviet naval academy graduate arrested as he was about to board a Soviet ship in Portind, Oregon, been an American discovered in Russia under similar circumstances, nobody in this country would ever have heard of his fate. The Reds would have liquidated him.

This suspected Red spy has lived in Seattle since 1942. The atomic bomb plant at Hanford, Washington, is only 150 miles from Seattle. Knowledge of his presence in the United States came to the House Committee on un-American Activities several months ago. Full details of his activities are exected to be revealed as they are pieced together.

A suspicious circumstance of his attempted departure was that the Russian vessel on which he sought to leave Portland was overdue in sailing when he was arrested. Certainly its skipper must have had orders direct from Stalin to pick up a personage deemed important by Moscow if he delayed his sailing for one passenger.

Now that the FBI has broken the ice, more news of Soviet spy activities can be expected momentarily. The House Committee on un-American Activities no doubt has other leads. And the FBI, under J. Edgar Hoover, has never been accused of harboring Reds on its payroll. It is the one agency in Washington peculiarly fitted to do a good job in rounding up Stalin's spies in the United States.

The fact is becoming clearer by the minute that government controls foster crises. There seems never an end to an emergency which the bureaus at Washington seek to alleviate, and when one phase of a problem is taken in hand, another rises up. Then the machinery, cumbersome and ineffective for the most part, lumbers into action on that ad infinitum. When private enterprise production eventually gets the go-ahead signal, all these crises will vanish as a fog under the sunshine.

This is the postwar period, but after listening to some of those international diplomats it sounds ominously more like prewar.

Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of their party, but southern Democrats want to know whose party.

Mystery writers are also organizing for more dough. Their slogan no doubt is "Crime (fictional) does not pay—enough."

TEN GOOD BOOKS

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

I am often asked by readers of this brief column to give them a list of books to read. This is rather difficult, inasmuch as books should be chosen in much the same manner as friends are, selecting those with whom you most delight.

Here, however, I name ten that I have enjoyed, and from which I have gained both entertainment and mental enrichment. Some are new books, some old, but all, I believe, can be secured from any bookseller or well-equipped library.

BIOGRAPHY: "Son of The Wilderness," a life of John Muir, by Rennie Marsh Wolfe.

AUTOBIOGRAPHY: William Allen White.

POETRY: Leaves of Grass" by Walt Whitman.

Books: "Parnassus on Wheels" by Christopher Morley.

ART: "The Art Spirit" by Robert Henri.

FICTION: "A Tale of Two Cities" by Charles Dickens.

I could name hundreds of others, but you who have read very few books are sure to be well repaid in the reading of any of these books named. Too many of our modern writers glory in their "realism" and have too keen an eye upon the "first seller" list, or a movie contract. The great books of the world often had to wait a long time for their audience to catch up with their mental and spiritual stride.

It is a common saying, familiar to us all, that "the good die young." This is, of course, a silly, clever saying and that is all. The good die old, as well. But good books live forever!

THAT'S AN AWFUL LOT OF PURGE

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Pearson Says Cables Tell of Russian Plot To Take Over Iranian Government

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, March 29—The American people are now getting their first close-up of Oriental diplomacy of the cloak-and-dagger variety.

Neither side in the Iranian dispute is averse to using these tactics, but the ablest exponent is inscrutable Soviet Ambassador Gromyko. Though young in the game and sometimes considered a mere messenger for Moscow, Gromyko knows what he's doing every minute. Nothing slips by him.

While the audience, mostly American, watches the Soviet diplomatic stalling at the UNO meeting, a much clearer picture is revealed behind the scenes. Confidential cables pouring into the State department and the British foreign office from Anglo-American representatives in Iran plead for utmost speed. The cables from Moscow to Gromyko order him to stall, delay, and then stall some more.

That's why the Soviet ambassador acts as if he has nothing to do but sit and talk. That's why Polish Ambassador Oscar Lange, a Soviet supporter, is always getting hungry. He is always the first to ask for a recess for lunch or dinner. Every recess means more time killed. That's how Gromyko keeps avoiding a vote to the last possible moment.

High Drama in Tehran

Meanwhile, however, high drama is being enacted in Terhan. There, both Britain and America are represented by anti-Soviet diplomats. They have pinned their hopes on the equally anti-Soviet shah of Iran.

On the other side is the Russian ambassador, who has his orders to stage a revolt at the earliest possible moment, ousting the shah and making Iranian Premier Ghavam top man.

Ghavam is virtually a Soviet puppet. During the last two years, the Russians have permitted him to get away with all sorts of economic concessions in Northern Iran under the protection of Red army troops. As a result, Ghavam is one of the wealthiest men in the Near East.

However, revolutions are not set up overnight. They take both money and time. The Soviet embassy in Tehran is reliably reported to have distributed $1,500,000 in gold to Iranian political leaders in the past month to expedite a revolt. Simultaneously, the British embassy, no slouch at cloak-and-dagger diplomacy, has seen to it that the shah of Iran has everything necessary to stiffen his backbone in resisting any Russian-inspired uprising.

In New York also, there is more than mere power politics involved in what has been going on behind the scenes. The Iranian ambassador to the United States, Hussein Ala, is bitterly anti-Russian. However, Hussein Ala gets his orders from pro-Russian Premier Ghavam, who recently rebuffed him. Ala's pals, who include some people who helped the Nazis before the war, have urged him to force his case against Russia into the open before Ghavam removes him.

So while high-sounding phrases are poured out for public consumption under the lights at the UNO Security Council meeting, Oriental politics in their roughest, toughest cloak-and-dagger form flourish backstage.

Senator Thomas Blows Up

Able Elbert Thomas, of Utah, chairman of the Senate Military Affairs committee, is a reserved, mild-mannered man. Seldom does he lose his temper. But the other day when the Military Affairs committee was preparing to vote on the long-delayed federal science bill, Thomas really let loose against procrastinating Sen. Revercomb, of West Virginia.

For months Revercomb had been a member of a subcommittee to pass on the federal science bill. But despite that he still wanted more delay.

The bill is one of the mostly badly needed in the government. Scientific research is now the crux of modern warfare, and the science bill provides for that research.

The bill is one of the most carefully written of any before the Senate. It was drafted only after Sen. Kilgore, of West Virginia, chairman of the subcommittee, had heard over 100 witnesses, including the secretaries of war, navy and interior, Bernie Baruch, Dr. Vannevar Bush, the National Association of Manufacturers, the AFL, the CIO, and dozens of the nation's leading scentists.

Revercomb, although a member of this subcommittee, had not bothered to attend its hearings. However, when the bill came before the full Senate Military Affairs committee, he had the nerve to ask for delay.

"I want to study the bill further," the West Virginia Republican said.

Two Gentlemen from West Virginia

It was no secret to every member of the committee why he wanted the delay. Revercomb is a bitter enemy of Sen. Kilgore, Democrat, also of West Virginia. Kilgore is co-author of the federal science bill, along with Sen. Warren Magnuson, of Washington. Kilgore was chairman of the subcommittee which studied the bill. The last thing Revercomb wants, therefore, is to see his Democratic West Virginia colleague receive national credit.

This was what caused Chairman Thomas to blow up. Thomas was one of the nation's outstanding social scientists before he came to the Senate, and when Revercomb said that he questioned the inclusion of social scientists among the scientists to receive federal support, Chairman Thomas shot back:

"Your subcommittee has thoroughly thrashed this thing out with both the government officials and the distinguished scientists who appeared before it, and found the present language acceptable."

"Do you mean to tell me we can't discuss the bill in full committee?" Revercomb asked belligerently.

"Certainly we can," the Utah senator replied, "if we discuss it intelligently."

Vote Insisted On

Despite this sarcasm, Revercomb insisted that the committee vote on whether support for the social sciences should be included in the bill.

"The government might be paying for racial studies and things like that," he muttered.

The vote was taken and Revercomb was defeated. Thomas then gently explained that it is practically impossible to draw a line of demarcation between the social sciences and the physical sciences.

"It is very easy to distinguish physical sciences from social sciences," Revercomb insisted.

"Yes," Thomas replied, this time not so gently, "if you don't know anything about either."

The committee then decided not to wait for Revercomb to get educated regarding the bill which his own subcommittee had been studying for months, and voted to approve it.

NEW AUTO UNION CHIEF

Coal Strike Is Viewed as Serious Inflation Measure

By MARK SULLIVAN

Rarely was an over-all national condition so simple and so vivid. The parts of it are:

A strike in the soft coal industry is threatened for next Monday. The strike, extremely likely to take place will halt or slow down production in all industries that use soft coal as fuel.

The strike is for, among other demands, a raise in wages. If the raise takes place it will result, directly and immediately, in an increase in the price of coal. This in turn will cause increases in prices of goods made in plants using soft coal as fuel.

In short, we have ahead of us a repetition of what happened last January in the steel strike. Steel and coal are both "basic" industries, ramifying into other industries, into practically all industry. As the steel strike halted industry generally, and stalled reconversion, so will the coal strike halt industry again, stall reconversion again.

More Dangerous Break

As the raise in steel wages caused an increase in the price of goods—$5 a ton in the price of steel and corresponding increases in goods into which steel enters—so will a raise in coal cause another widespread increase in prices of goods generally.

As the wage raise in steel caused an increase in cost of living, so will a wage raise in coal cause another. And—this is the important point—the coal increase will be on top of the steel increase.

Steel was a "bulge" in the line against inflation—so called by the Truman administration, but called by Mr. Bernard Baruch a "break and a grave one." So will coal be the same—whether you call it by the administration's mild word or by Mr. Baruch's forthright one. Only—again and this is an important point—the new break will be an addition to the first one, hence more dangerous.

The menace is broader than a single threatened strike, the one in coal. Other strikes are under way and others are threatened. Further, there is no certainty that the strikes recently settled will remain settled; nor that the wage raises recently made will not be followed by yet further raises. Indeed, in the long range, the contrary is the greater certainty. Heads of the CIO union of automobile workers have said, publicly and definitely, that the recent wage raise of eighteen and one-half cents per hour by General Motors was a "down payment," and that in due course they would demand more.

No Remedial Action

That is the strike—wages—prices—inflation part of the national condition. The other part is, what has been or will be done in prevention or remedy?

So far there is nothing. The conditions of existing laws that made possible the recent strikes, and the wage-price increases following them, remain the same. (Passage of the so-called "anti-Petrillo" measure affecting a single industry, is not a real exception). So far as the labor relations laws are concerned, any one of the recent strikes, or all of them, or equivalents of them, with what accompany them, can be repeated.

When the recent strikes were under way, it was taken for granted that Congress would take action to prevent or ameliorate the repetition. The sentiment and the expectation were shared by Congress. Of the individuals composing that body, an overwhelming majority favor a new labor relations law, or changes in the existing ones.

Many measures were introduced. A strong one, the Case bill, passed the House by 248 to 155. In the Senate, it went to the committee on Labor, a majority of which is pro-labor. That committee changed the Case Bill until, as one member said, nothing was left except the title and number. Keeping these, the committee wrote a quite different measure, a mild one.

House Bill Coming Up

But the important point is that, when this bill comes out of the committee, there will be before the Senate a bill which has the status of having passed the House. To the bill, any senator can propose any amendment. The whole area of labor legislation can be opened up. The Senate can pass whatever labor measure a majority desires. There will be opportunity for legislation by Congress, and the legislation can be as strong as the two branches of Congress desire.

In the coming Senate debate and action, there will be opposition by labor leaders and unions. These, especially CIO and its Political Action Committee, are well organized on a nation-wide basis for attention to pending legislation.

Senators who support the pending legislation would be strengthened if there were organization by that part of the public who suffer detriment from the sequence of strikes, wage-raises, price-increases, rising cost of living. These include consumers, and several special groups—persons who live on fixed income, such as pensioners; owners of life insurance policies, persons who have put their savings in war bonds, saving banks and the like.

Russian Walkout Is Only a Habit, Lawrence Says

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, March 29—Russia's peculiar behavior in the United Nation's Security Council may mystify the world, but the British and American governments have refused to be taken in by the maneuvers.

The habit of walking out on important conferences or threatening to walk out is one of the favorite techniques practiced by the Russians in international affairs. A threat to leave the Dumbarton Oaks conference intimidated American and British officials and caused them to yield to the Russian wish that the proceedings be conducted secretly. The Russians have participated in international aviation and monetary conferences only to have it left in doubt at the end whether they really were in or out of the picture. At San Francisco the constant threat of a Russian walk-out kept the conference upset.

But today Secretary Byrnes and his colleagues of the democracies have seen through these transparent efforts to prevent the democracies from exposing to full discussion the merits of subjects in dispute. Some persons may have thought Russia was walking out of the entire UNO but it became apparent the next day that the Soviet representative was merely following instructions not to participate in discusions about Iran—at least till April 10th.

Russians Kept in Dark

Meanwhile, Russia significantly enough never told her own people anything about the walk-out. Neither the radio nor the official Russian news agency mentioned the incident. In fact, for more than twenty-four hours, no news at all about the UNO council action was given to the millions of Russians who read and listen to the radio.

This might mean that the Russians were playing a game for external consumption and were hesitant to let their own people know they were part of a crisis with the United States and other countries.

The Russian people have suffered much. They have recenly been told by Stalin that they must endure a continuance of the low standard of living in order that the new five-year plan may be successful. They may or may not learn, that through the economic help of the United States the five-year plan could be made effective and the standard of living for the average Russian could be raised.

Public Opinion Important

So it is important whether American public opinion is friendly to Russia or begins to suspect totalitarian tactics that could develop an estrangement between the two people. Russia is not willing apparently to let its average citizen know what is going on, possibly because of a genuine fear that he might not like more crises or more talk of war, especially after the many millions of casualties suffered by the Russians in the world war just ended.

The best chance for the American and British viewpoints to penetrate the Russian barriers is to keep on arguing and discussing in the open such misguided adventures as the coercion of Iran. More than Iran is involved. The Russians now dominate most of Eastern Europe. Supposedly independent nations in the Balkans have Russians on top of them so that freedom of the press inside the Russian sphere of influence is already gone and other liberties are denied on the pretext that order has not yet been restored or that security measures must be taken against "Fascists."

Significant Step by UNRRA

A significant step has been announced by UNRRA. It has declined to let American food supplies be used by Russia's occupying armies in Central Europe and has insisted that food for relief of Europe must go to the peoples and not the armies. The true story of what the Russians have done within their zones of influence has been effectively suppressed, but in due time it will come out and possibly before the UNO.

It appears now that all disputes will eventually be aired at the UNO, because unless the nations work together in a single organization which encourages open debate, the totalitarian government of Russia could keep the facts from the world.

The UNO council's debate in New York eventually will have its effect on the Russian government. The Iran case will be settled but at a price which it seems foolish for the Russians to pay—the loss of the good will of observant peoples who know the difference between a violated treaty and a belated excuse for intimidating a small nation.

NEVER BELITTLE POWER

Those badly mismated couples—why do they do it? Why do they put themselves in such a spot? You've seen them often. But you're always wondering.

Take Dan Ellis. Dan had everything. Bright, ambitious, popular, hard working. Making good fast. Then he married. A pretty little thing but plainly selfish and stupid. However no one took her seriously. Even if it was a poor match surely Dan was smart enough to take care of himself in any jam. So we thought.

That's where we were wrong Within two years Dan was a changed man. He'd lost his grip and go-gettum. Became indifferent even to his friends. Just let that featherbrained wife order him around. He looked sheepish if he was kidded about it. He'd grin and say, "Anything for peace." But that wasn't the real reason. The truth was, she had his number and she was really the stronger of the two.

She might be stupid and selfish but she had in abundance one trait which petty people often have—she was determined. She had no outside interests but that didn't weaken her as we'd supposed. Instead, it gave her a chance to concentrate all her stubborn energy on her own trivial aims. While Dan scattered himself in many interests, she bored right through.

Why do seeming weaklings so often win out where stronger, wiser human fail? There's the answer. The weakling packs everything he has into his wallop. In his small way he's dynamite, and the bigger people help him win by underestimating his strength.

Dan's case is typical, though it isn't always the wife who is the saboteur. Often some fine, intelligent woman is handicapped and humiliated by a sour, small spirited mate. Thousands of decent men and women are hamstrung by possessive parents or parasitic friends. Or downright bad people push good ones to the wall. In any case there's a tragedy and what's worse, the victim himself is largely responsible.

How come?

I suspect it starts in our own conceit. It flatters us to think that we're stronger and smarter than "our inferiors." We look down upon them condescendingly and refuse to take them seriously. Meanwhile, like the small termite working in the dark, they gnaw quietly at the foundations of finer lives who fail to protect themselves until it's too late.

NEVER BELITTLE A PEE-WEE'S POWER.

Never feel smugly superior because you can quote Homer or do your own income tax and he can't. Never be sure you will succeed because your aims are noble and his aren't. It takes more than intelligence and nobility to win out in this world. Until you can concentrate on your job and protect it as thoroughly as a pee-wee does his, you are never safe from the stupid, the selfish, the stubborn weakling

Ray Hiser Weds Christine Fulk

The home of the Rev. and Mrs. W. A. Judy, Cresaptown, was the scene of a simple wedding ceremony last evening, when Miss Christine Fulk became the bride of Ray Hiser. The home was elaborately decorated with ferns and jonquils for the occasion.

The Rev. Louis P. Chastain, assisted by the Rev. Mr. Judy, officiated at the double ring ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Garland Hiser, brother and sister-in-law of the bridegroom, were the attendants.

The bride was attired in a aqua marine colored wool suit, with which she wore brown accessories and a shoulder corsage of yellow rosebuds.

Her matron of honor also was attired in an aqua colored suit. Her corsage was of gardenias. Mrs. Charlotte Hiser Shaffer, mother of the bridegroom, chose a blue silk crepe dress, with black accessories for her son's wedding. A corsage of gardenias completed her costume.

Mrs. Chastin, Mrs. Judy, Garland Hiser, Jr., and Charlotte Hiser, also attended the ceremony.

Both the bride and bridegroom are employed at the Celanese Corporation of America. Following a wedding trip to Harrisonburg, Va., Mr. Hiser and his bride will reside with his mother in Hyndman.

Merchant Seaman Over 26 Is Not Subject to Draft

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My husband is in the merchant marine and as we now have a little daughter he wishes to resign. Will he be eligible for the draft?

(MRS.) A.

It all depends on your husband's age. If he is over draft age, which under present regulations is 26 years and over, he would not be drafted.

If he is under 26, he must have served at least thirty-two months of substantially continuous service in the merchant marine to be eligible for a certificate. If his certificate of substantially continuous service is accompanied with the notation that the registrant is "eligible to be relieved from any future consideration for classification into a class available for service," he will not be subject to the draft.

Pensions Exempt From Tax

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My husband is receiving a pension for service-connected disability, and I am also employed. Are we obliged to pay income tax on this pension?

(MRS.) F. D. B.

Pension payments are not assignable and are exempt from taxation (including income tax), attachment, levy, or seizure, either before or after they are paid. These provisions do not apply to property purchased with these payments.

Insurance Premiums

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My husband is about to be discharged from the service and I want to get some advance information about his insurance. He now pays his premiums monthly, and if he should desire to pay annually, can this be done? Also, if he should want to have the amount reduced, would that be possible?

F. W.

National service life insurance premiums may be paid monthly, quarterly, semi-annually or annually. The method of paying premiums may be changed at any time by notifying the veterans' Administration, Washington, 25, D. C., in writing. The amount of insurance can be reduced as long as the amount continued is in multiples of $500 and is not less than $1,000.00.

Entitled To Allowance

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a Filipino-American and have enlisted in the United States Army. My parents, still living in the Philipppines, depend on me for support. May I apply for the family allowance for them, and if so, how will the money be sent to them?

F. A. S.

If your father and mother depend on you for chief support, they may receive a family allowance of $68 a month. If they depend on you for substantial support, the amount would be $37 a month. Tell them to get an official dependency certificate (WD AGO Form 620) from any army camp or station, fill it out and send it to you so you can attach it to the application for family allowance which you must fill out to get this monthly check. This will speed authorization payments.

The Office of Dependency Benefits will mail checks directly to your parents in the Philippines after the family allowance has been authorized.

Cost of Extension Courses

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My brother is interested in the courses offered by the United States Armed Forces Institute. Can you tell me the cost of a university extension correspondence course, and what colleges and universities are taking part in this program?

R. W.

The government shares the cost of a university extension correspondence course, the government will pay half the text and tuition fee for each course he takes, up to $20. For instance, if the fee is $15, your brother will pay $7.50.

Hundreds of different university extension correspondence courses are offered by more than eight colleges and universities all over the United States.

Man Gets Parole On Assault Charge

Pleading guilty to assaulting his wife, Virgil Glass, 1016 Gay street, received a suspended sentence of thirty days in jail and was paroled for a year by Magistrate Frank A. Perdew in trial magistrates court Thursday.

Court attaches said Glass's wife, Mrs Dorothy Glass, accused him of slapping her on Wednesday

Wilbur E Fogle, 216 Piedmont avenue, was fined $11.45 in trial magistrates court yesterday on a reckless driving charge resulting from an accident Wednesday on Valley road.

State Trooper Harold Basore said Fogle's car crashed against an automobile being towed by Kermit Van Pelt, Harvey O. Minnick and James Baker, all of Valley road. No one was injured.

Stocks Rally on Selective Basis Despite Lack of Buying Urgency

NEW YORK, March 29 (AP) — Stocks rallied fractions to three or more points on a selective basis in today's market although buying urgency lacking and top marks were reduced in most cases at the close.

Oils were out in front at the start with demand, brokers said, buoyed by the idea that a coal strike, if it comes off next week, will accentuate consumption of fuel petroleum and gasoline. The threatened mining walkout, however, still restrained many customers.

Dealings quickened at intervals and, despite slowdowns, transfers totalled 1,220,000 shares compared with 900,000 the day before.

Eastman Kodak jumped five points on a turnover of only 600 shares. Hiram Walker, Gimbel and International Harvester added three each. Lesser improvement was retained by Pure Oil, Continental Oil, Texas Company, Standard Oil (NJ) Ohio Oil, Paramount Pictures, R-K-O, Warner Brothers, United States Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, Hudson Motors, Goodrich, Goodyear, Montgomery Ward, Deere, Caterpillar Tractor Electric Power and Light, Sante Fe and Baltimore and Ohio.

Douglas Aircraft dropped two and three-fourths. Other casualties included General Motors, Sears Roebuck, United Aircraft, Western Union "A", Public Service of New Jersey, Kennecott, Westinghouse, Electric Boat, Southern Railway and St. Paul.

In the Curb Cities Service was up two and three-fourths. Others ahead were Hearns Department Store, National Rubber Machinery, Aireon and R-K-O warrants. The aggregate here was 470,000 shares versus 450,000 yesterday.

Brisk buying of rail issues, sparked by legislative action in Washington pushed prices ahead fractions to more than two points in the bond market.

Longer term United States governments rose two-thirty-seconds to nine thirty-seconds in the stock market and over-the-counter trade. Short term loans slipped a few thirty-seconds in the dealer market. Turnover of $5,020,000 compared with $4,050,000 Thursday.

Chicago Grain Prices

CHICAGO, March 29 (AP) — One grain futures trader learned today what a baseball umpire is up against when a team gives him the bum's rush.

He's the gent who had a few large lots of September wheat for sale at the usual ceiling price and far too many eager customers. When he offered the first lot, the buyers swarmed around him on the steps of the pit and two or three almost toppled headlong onto the floor.

A few minutes later, he received another offer to sell but before he could get back to the pit from the telegraph position with it, the buyers staged a foot race across the trading floor and surrounded him in another frantic scramble for the contract. All they could do was plead. The price was at the $1.83½ ceiling and that wa that, so the competition took the shape o a do-or-die goal-line football rush or an unhappy baseball team with a peeve at the umpire. Closing futures:

In the past few weeks, consumers have had ample cause for concern over the prospect of higher food prices. We call upon all wise shopers to nip this inflation in the bud by being more watchful, less wasteful, in their spending. Free and easy spending will send prices upward. Thrifty buying will hold them down. Don't spend more — save more! We'll cooperate by holding a tight rein on our prices to give you savings you can believe ebcause you can see the extra change in your hands ... and a change for the better in your food budget.

Stocks Rally on Selective Basis Despite Lack of Buying Urgency

NEW YORK, March 29 (AP) — Stocks rallied fractions to three or more points on a selective basis in today's market although buying urgency lacking and top marks were reduced in most cases at the close.

Oils were out in front at the start with demand, brokers said, buoyed by the idea that a coal strike, if it comes off next week, will accentuate consumption of fuel petroleum and gasoline. The threatened mining walkout, however, still restrained many customers.

Dealings quickened at intervals and, despite slowdowns, transfers totalled 1,220,000 shares compared with 900,000 the day before.

Eastman Kodak jumped five points on a turnover of only 600 shares. Hiram Walker, Gimbel and International Harvester added three each. Lesser improvement was retained by Pure Oil, Continental Oil, Texas Company, Standard Oil (NJ) Ohio Oil, Paramount Pictures, R-K-O, Warner Brothers, United States Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, Hudson Motors, Goodrich, Goodyear, Montgomery Ward, Deere, Caterpillar Tractor Electric Power and Light, Sante Fe and Baltimore and Ohio.

Douglas Aircraft dropped two and three-fourths. Other casualties included General Motors, Sears Roebuck, United Aircraft, Western Union "A", Public Service of New Jersey, Kennecott, Westinghouse, Electric Boat, Southern Railway and St. Paul.

In the Curb Cities Service was up two and three-fourths. Others ahead were Hearns Department Store, National Rubber Machinery, Aireon and R-K-O warrants. The aggregate here was 470,000 shares versus 450,000 yesterday.

Brisk buying of rail issues, sparked by legislative action in Washington pushed prices ahead fractions to more than two points in the bond market.

Longer term United States governments rose two-thirty-seconds to nine thirty-seconds in the stock market and over-the-counter trade. Short term loans slipped a few thirty-seconds in the dealer market. Turnover of $5,020,000 compared with $4,050,000 Thursday.

Miss McCaughan, Former Teacher, Dies in Baltimore

Requiem Mass Celebrated at St. Michael's for Frostburg Native

By RUDOLPH NICKEL

FROSTBURG, March 29—Funral services for Miss Katherine McCaughan, former resident of Frostburg, who died Tuesday night in a Baltimore hospital, were held today at 9:30 a. m. in St. Michael's Catholic church, where a requiem mass was celebrated by the Rev. Francis E. Montgomery, administrator, with Rev. Patrick J. Bradley, pastor, in the sanctuary.

Pallbearers were Frank, Aloysius and Leo Delaney, Harry and Gerard Davis and Francis Rooney. Interment was in St. Michael's cemetery.

Miss McCaughan, a former Allegany county school teacher, was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John McCaughan and was a native of this city. She was the last surviving member of her family.

She moved to Baltimore many years ago, where she resided with her niece, Miss Marie Delaney also a former resident.

Before moving to Baltimore, Miss McCaughan and another sister resided in the property on East Main street now occupied by the store and residence of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wilson.

Zeller Rites Held

Funeral services for Mrs. Maretha Zeller, 86, widow of Gustave Zeller, who died Tuesday morning at her home, 89 West Main street, after a long illness, were held Thursday at 2:30 p. m., with the Rev. Justus Liesman pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church, officiating.

Pallbearers were Howard Hanna, Edward Monahan, W. W. Sluss, Harry Craze, William Thomas and Joseph Evans.

Interment was in Allegany cemetery.

Students Tour Plants

A delegation from the Future Business Leaders of America group at Beall high school recently went to Cumberland for a tour of the Times and Alleganian newspaper office, Station WTBO and the Queen City dairy for the purpose of creating more interest and understanding on the choice of business occupations, Mrs. Nora Orrell, the sponsor conducted the tour.

Frostburg Personals

Mrs. Leslie Facey, Long Island, N. Y., has been here for the past week, the guest of her sisters, Mrs. J. Edward Lavin, East Main street, and Mrs. Robert Cotter, Cumberland.

Clifton D. Jeffries, local jeweler, is a surgical patient in Memorial hospital, Cumberland.

Mrs. Gladys Copley, who formerly resided on Standish street, this city, is a patient in a Fairmont, W. Va., hosital, where she is recovering following a surgical operation.

Mrs. Robert Neat, Wright's Crossing, was admitted to Miners hospital at 7 p. m. today. She is reported to be seriously ill.

Nonagenarian

over there. Old Hitler was a bad actor. He ain't dead either, no more than you or me," Mr. Sweene said. "I think he's in Spain or South America."

Mr. Sweene said he "feels sorry for the people over there. I was listening to (Herbert) Hoover the other night and he said if we didn't get food over to those people they'll die by the hundreds of thousands. I'd like to send them three loaves of bread every day if I could," he said.

Mr. Sweene was raised on a farm and worked at farming "until I was 21 and then went out for myself," he recalled, getting a job firing an engine for the C. and P. the first year and then learning his trade as a boiler maker for the railroad.

"Engines now are different from those days," according to Mr. Sweene, who fired a Campbell engine. "Cars held three or four tons. Nowadays trucks haul more than that. I have my doubts if those engines could pull more than three cars now.

Wreck Every Day

"We had an old engine, No. 5. It hauled the pay car and had a big stack and made more noise than engines do now. If one car would jump the track, they'd all jump. There'd be a wreck every day, sometimes two or three."

During the Civil war, Mr. Sweene recalled, "men cradled grain for $2 a day and board. They wanted plenty of whisky and good grub or they wouldn't work. I carried the whisky jug for 'em. You could get a pint for a quarter and a gallon jug for $2. Why, about every other farmer had a still house in those days," he said.

Mr. Sweene recalls exactly what occurred the day he quit working at the age of 75.

"I was flanging a door sheet when the master mechanic came in the shop and said, 'You're too old to work here.' 'I'm doing the job,' I t[illegible] him but he said they would have to lay me off."

He seems to get some consolation out of that fact that after he quit, the railroad had to put two men and two helpers on the job he was doing with one helper.

Pretty Husky Lad

"In those days I was a pretty husky lad," Mr. Sweene said, pointing out that he had a ten-acre farm when he was 50 and would work that after finishing for the day in the shops. Last summer he had a garden but he's finished with that now and is living with his daughter, Mrs. Emma Porter.

He's quite an advocate of safety and doing a good job, and his watchword when he was working was one that is just as good now—"If a job's worth doing, it's worth doing well."

Nonagenarian

over there. Old Hitler was a bad actor. He ain't dead either, no more than you or me," Mr. Sweene said. "I think he's in Spain or South America."

Mr. Sweene said he "feels sorry for the people over there. I was listening to (Herbert) Hoover the other night and he said if we didn't get food over to those people they'll die by the hundreds of thousands. I'd like to send them three loaves of bread every day if I could," he said.

Mr. Sweene was raised on a farm and worked at farming "until I was 21 and then went out for myself," he recalled, getting a job firing an engine for the C. and P. the first year and then learning his trade as a boiler maker for the railroad.

"Engines now are different from those days," according to Mr. Sweene, who fired a Campbell engine. "Cars held three or four tons. Nowadays trucks haul more than that. I have my doubts if those engines could pull more than three cars now.

Wreck Every Day

"We had an old engine, No. 5. It hauled the pay car and had a big stack and made more noise than engines do now. If one car would jump the track, they'd all jump. There'd be a wreck every day, sometimes two or three."

During the Civil war, Mr. Sweene recalled, "men cradled grain for $2 a day and board. They wanted plenty of whisky and good grub or they wouldn't work. I carried the whisky jug for 'em. You could get a pint for a quarter and a gallon jug for $2. Why, about every other farmer had a still house in those days," he said.

Mr. Sweene recalls exactly what occurred the day he quit working at the age of 75.

"I was flanging a door sheet when the master mechanic came in the shop and said, 'You're too old to work here.' 'I'm doing the job,' I told him but he said they would have to lay me off."

He seems to get some consolation out of that fact that after he quit, the railroad had to put two men and two helpers on the job he was doing with one helper.

Pretty Husky Lad

"In those days I was a pretty husky lad," Mr. Sweene said, pointing out that he had a ten-acre farm when he was 50 and would work that after finishing for the day in the shops. Last summer he had a garden but he's finished with that now and is living with his daughter, Mrs. Emma Porter.

He's quite an advocate of safety and doing a good job, and his watchword when he was working was one that is just as good now—"If a job's worth doing, it's worth doing well."

SATURDAY, MARCH 30

Far-off: "Thus shall thou do unto all the cities which are very far off from thee". Deuteronomy 20:15 Read Deuteronomy 20:10-15; Ephesians 2:13-18.

The Christian correction of warlike Deuteronomy is in Ephesians, but, God forgive us, we have of late seemed to have been following Deuteronomy instead of Ephesians. Deuteronomy is really very recent history and very persistent human nature. "Far-off" is still a key word. Distance breeds enmities as well as enchantments, we fear the distance because it is strange. Only yesterday it was geographical distance, now as any newspaper tells us, with weekly flights around the world, there are no longer any geographical distances. The immemorial pattern of distance has disappeared, and it has all happened so quickly that our minds have not caught up with our planes.

The real barriers to right human relationships persist in our habits, our prejudices, and even in our souls. Our maps are fluid as running water, but devisive fears and pretentious pride of race and possessions persist. Deep-rooted distrusts and sheer failures in imagination still maintain boundary lines which Jesus Christ lived and died to abolish. We would better close our geographies and open our minds to the disappearance of distance.

Prayer—O Thou who came to bring the far-off near and by thy cross to end old enmities and the inner barriers which keep us apart, so help us toward minds and spirits open to they gospel of peace that in all our fellowship near and far they way may be supreme. Amen.

Stocks Rally on Selective Basis Despite Lack of Buying Urgency

NEW YORK, March 29 (AP) — Stocks rallied fractions to three or more points on a selective basis in today's market although buying urgency lacking and top marks were reduced in most cases at the close.

Oils were out in front at the start with demand, brokers said, buoyed by the idea that a coal strike, if it comes off next week, will accentuate consumption of fuel petroleum and gasoline. The threatened mining walkout, however, still restrained many customers.

Dealings quickened at intervals and, despite slowdowns, transfers totalled 1,220,000 shares compared with 900,000 the day before.

Eastman Kodak jumped five points on a turnover of only 600 shares. Hiram Walker, Gimbel and International Harvester added three each. Lesser improvement was retained by Pure Oil, Continental Oil, Texas Company, Standard Oil (NJ) Ohio Oil, Paramount Pictures, R-K-O, Warner Brothers, United States Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, Hudson Motors, Goodrich, Goodyear, Montgomery Ward, Deere, Caterpillar Tractor Electric Power and Light, Sante Fe and Baltimore and Ohio.

Douglas Aircraft dropped two and three-fourths. Other casualties included General Motors, Sears Roebuck, United Aircraft, Western Union "A", Public Service of New Jersey, Kennecott, Westinghouse Electric Boat, Southern Railway and St. Paul.

In the Curb Cities Service was up two and three-fourths. Others ahead were Hearns Department Store, National Rubber Machinery, Alreon and R-K-O warrants. The aggregate here was 470,000 shares versus 450,000 yesterday.

Brisk buying of rail issues, sparked by legislative action in Washington pushed prices ahead fractions to more than two points in the bond market.

Longer term United States governments rose two-thirty-seconds to nine thirty-seconds in the stock market and over-the-counter trade. Short term loans slipped a few thirty-seconds in the dealer market. Turnover of $5,020,000 compared with $4,050,000 Thursday.

Chicago Grain Prices

CHICAGO, March 29 (AP) — One grain futures trader learned today what a baseball umpire is up against when a team gives him the bum's rush.

He's the gent who had a few large lots of September wheat for sale at the usual ceiling price and far too many eager customers. When he offered the first lot, the buyers swarmed around him on the steps of the pit and two or three almost toppled headlong onto the floor.

A few minutes later, he received another offer to sell but before he could get back to the pit from the telegraph position with it, the buyers staged a foot race across the trading floor and surrounded him in another frantic scramble for the contract. All they could do was plead. The price was at the $1.83½ ceiling and that wa that, so the competition took the shape o a do-or-die goal-line football rush or an unhappy baseball team with a peeve at the umpire. Closing futures:

In the past few weeks, consumers have had ample cause for concern over the prospect of higher food prices. We call upon all wise shopers to nip this inflation in the bud by being more watchful, less wasteful, in their spending. Free and easy spending will send prices upward. Thrifty buying will hold them down. Don't spend more — save more! We'll cooperate by holding a tight rein on our prices to give you savings you can believe ebcause you can see the extra change in your hands ... and a change for the better in your food budget.

Go to Church Sunday - Your Church - Any Church - But Go

Sunday Morning

"Timmy" sleeps on Sunday Morning . . .

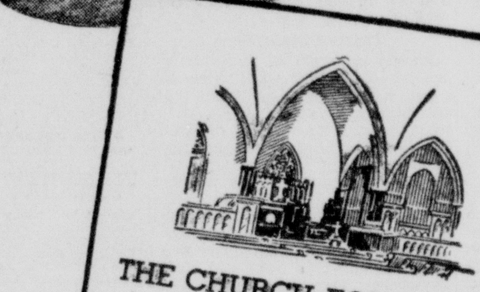

Why not? "Timmy" has no place to go. And, what's more, "Timmy" has no problems, no worries, no fears. Mice and milk, and the occasional luxury of a little catnip, provide "Timmy" with all the requisites of a happy, useful life. He can afford to sleep.

But with human beings, it's different. We have needs that cannot be satisfied by a Sunday morning snooze. Six days of labor bring more than physical weariness. Those six days drain our spiritual resources, our courage, our confidence, our moral stamina. A thousand fears and a million worries sap our inner strength, until we face the daily routine like mechanical robots, going through the motions of living.

"Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God."

Sunday morning and the Church doors are open. They are open for every adult and child, that the deepest needs of humanity may be satisfied. Neither pillow nor armchair can give us the courage and faith and moral vitality that this busy life requires . . . these are the gifts of Worship.

The Church doors are open . . . open for you.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend and support the Church of his choice. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to Church on Sunday.

Miss McCaughan, Former Teacher, Dies in Baltimore

Requiem Mass Celebrated at St. Michael's for Frostburg Native

By RUDOLPH NICKEL

FROSTBURG, March 29—Funral services for Miss Katherine McCaughan, former resident of Frostburg, who died Tuesday night in a Baltimore hospital, were held today at 9:30 a. m. in St. Michael's Catholic church, where a requiem mass was celebrated by the Rev. Francis E. Montgomery, administrator, with Rev. Patrick J. Bradley, pastor, in the sanctuary.

Pallbearers were Frank, Aloysius and Leo Delaney, Harry and Gerard Davis and Francis Rooney. Interment was in St. Michael's cemetery.

Miss McCaughan, a former Allegany county school teacher, was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John McCaughan and was a native of this city. She was the last surviving member of her family.

She moved to Baltimore many years ago, where she resided with her niece, Miss Marie Delaney also a former resident.

Before moving to Baltimore, Miss McCaughan and another sister resided in the property on East Main street now occupied by the store and residence of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wilson.

Zeller Rites Held

Funeral services for Mrs. Maretha Zeller, 86, widow of Gustave Zeller, who died Tuesday morning at her home, 89 West Main street, after a long illness, were held Thursday at 2:30 p. m., with the Rev. Justus Liesman pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church, officiating.

Pallbearers were Howard Hanna, Edward Monahan, W. W. Sluss, Harry Craze, William Thomas and Joseph Evans.

Interment was in Allegany cemetery.

Students Tour Plants

A delegation from the Future Business Leaders of America group at Beall high school recently went to Cumberland for a tour of the Times and Alleganian newspaper office, Station WTBO and the Queen City dairy for the purpose of creating more interest and understanding on the choice of business occupations. Mrs. Nora Orrell, the sponsor conducted the tour.

Frostburg Personals

Mrs. Leslie Facey, Long Island, N. Y., has been here for the past week, the guest of her sisters, Mrs. J. Edward Lavin, East Main street, and Mrs. Robert Cotter, Cumberland.

Clifton D. Jeffries, local jeweler, is a surgical patient in Memorial hospital, Cumberland.

Mrs. Gladys Copley, who formerly resided on Standish street, this city, is a patient in a Fairmont, W. Va., hosital, where she is recovering following a surgical operation.

Mrs. Robert Neat, Wright's Crossing, was admitted to Miners hospital at 7 p. m. today. She is reported to be seriously ill.

Nonagenarian

over there. Old Hitler was a bad actor. He ain't dead either, no more than you or me," Mr. Sweene said. "I think he's in Spain or South America."

Mr. Sweene said he "feels sorry for the people over there. I was listening to (Herbert) Hoover the other night and he said if we didn't get food over to those people they'll die by the hundreds of thousands. I'd like to send them three loaves of bread every day if I could," he said.

Mr. Sweene was raised on a farm and worked at farming "until I was 21 and then went out for myself," he recalled, getting a job firing an engine for the C. and P. the first year and then learning his trade as a boiler maker for the railroad.

"Engines now are different from those days," according to Mr. Sweene, who fired a Campbell engine. "Cars held three or four tons. Nowadays trucks haul more than that. I have my doubts if those engines could pull more than three cars now.

Wreck Every Day

"We had an old engine, No. 5. It hauled the pay car and had a big stack and made more noise than engines do now. If one car would jump the track, they'd all jump. There'd be a wreck every day, sometimes two or three."

During the Civil war, Mr. Sweene recalled, "men cradled grain for $2 a day and board. They wanted plenty of whisky and good grub or they wouldn't work. I carried the whisky jug for 'em. You could get a pint for a quarter and a gallon jug for $2. Why, about every other farmer had a still house in those days," he said.

Mr. Sweene recalls exactly what occurred the day he quit working at the age of 75.

"I was flanging a door sheet when the master mechanic came in the shop and said, 'You're too old to work here.' 'I'm doing the job,' I told him but he said they would have to lay me off."

He seems to get some consolation out of that fact that after he quit, the railroad had to put two men and two helpers on the job he was doing with one helper.

Pretty Husky Lad

"In those days I was a pretty husky lad," Mr. Sweene said, pointing out that he had a ten-acre farm when he was 50 and would work that after finishing for the day in the shops. Last summer he had a garden but he's finished with that now and is living with his daughter, Mrs. Emma Porter.

He's quite an advocate of safety and doing a good job, and his watchword when he was working was one that is just as good now—"If a job's worth doing, it's worth doing well."

NEWPORT, R. I., March 29 (AP)—Jumping into an 8-0 lead in the opening minutes of play, LaSalle high school of Cumberland, Md., this afternoon defeated St. Philip's high of Chicago, 46-37, in a consolation match that preceded the semi-finals of the Eastern States Catholic Invitational baskeball tournament.

In a second consolation game, DeLaSalle Academy, of Newport, overcame a slow first period start and romped to a 58-36 win over St. Mary's high school, of Clarksburg, W. Va.

Play Newport Today

The Newporters will meet LaSalle high school of Cumberland in a consolation final at 3 p. m. Saturday.

Paced by Jack Steiner and George Geatz, 22-year-old army veteran, who was the 1943 tournament's outstanding player, the Marylanders took an 8-0 lead in the first few minutes. St. Philip rallied and stayed close during the middle periods but the LaSalle club was flying in the last quarter and dominated the last few minutes.

Steiner racked up twenty points on six field goals and eight foul goals in ten tries while Geatz poured in seven fielders and four free throws for eighteen markers. The winners converted 14 out of 18 shots at the charity line.

As a result of their showing today, the Cumberlanders, eliminated yesterday in the opening round by Philadelphia, established themselves as favorites to clinch the consolation final.

Philadelphians Win

LaSalle College high, of Philadelphia, defeated the favored LaSalle Academy of New York, 39-32, tonight in the opening semi-final match.

The defeat of the tournament favorites eliminated the opportunity of the New York team to retire the Bishop Francis E. Keough trophy.

The New Yorkers got the jump and went into a 10-6 lead in the first quarter with a series of long shots, but the second quarter brought a rally by the Philadelphians, who had taken a 21-16 lead at half time.

Regis Reaches Finals

Regis high school, of New York, gained the right to play Philadelphia LaSalle for the tournament championship Saturday night at 9 o'clock by defeating Fairfield, Conn., Preparatory school in tonight's second semi-final game. The score was 37 to 27.

Jim Ferrier Sets Pace in Tourney

By KEN ALYTA

CHARLOTTE, N. C., March 29 (AP)—Still hotter than a four-alarm fire, Jim Ferrier, the husky former Australian star, now playing out of Chicago, gave par a four-stroke beating with a 68 today to wrest and 36-hole Charlotte open golf lead from Lawson Little with a 134 total.

Little, former open and amateur king from Monterey, Calif., who started the day in a first-place tie with Ferrier at 66, slipped to a one-under 71 for second place at 137, a stroke ahead of four challengers.

Tied for third in the $7,500 event over a muddy 6,410-yard Myers Park Course were Pete Cooper, Gainesville, Fla.; Vic Ghezzi, Knoxville, Tenn.; Stewart "Skip" Alexander, Durham, N. C.; and Toney Penna, Cincinnati. Ghezzi and Cooper had 70's today, while Penna and Alexander turned in their second straight 69's.

Twenty-one players were under par for the thirty-six holes as the low 64 headed for the last two days of play.

Favorite Sam Snead of Hot Springs, Va., and Ed "Porky" Oliver, Taunton, Mass., shared seventh place at 139. There were two 140's and 11 at 141, including Harold (Jug) McSpaden, Sanford, Me., whose 66 was the day's best score.

"Red" Brown Goes to WVU

By C. V. BURNS

Occupying a conspicuous place on the wall of the Democratic Cosmopolitan Club is a photograph of the Hagerstown Hubs, of the 1926 Blue Ridge Baseball League, which defeated Crisfield, Eastern Shore League champions of that year, and the group includes Joe Conti and Charles "Chick" Fullis, who died Thursday at Ashland, Pa., of a complication of diseases at the age of 45.

"Fullis was a classy outfielder and a good hitter and I was shocked when I learned of his death," Conti said.

Joe pointed out that Fullis starred at Frederick but he and Dave Black, of Martinsburg, were chosen to play with Hagerstown in the series with Crisfield just twenty years ago.

Conti recalled that Fullis was one of the stars of the series which Hagerstown won.

"I'll never forget the first game of that series," Joe declared. "Fullis was instructed to join the Hagerstown team at Crisfield but he did not arrive until the seventh inning and Manager "Chief" Werre told "Chick" to get ready to pinch hit. We had two runners on the paths. Fullis became the hero when he rattled the boards of the left field fence with a timely two-bagger, sewing up the game. Yes, I'll never forget that exciting bame."

Fullis played with he Philadelphia Phillies and St. Louis Cardinals, appearing in the 1934 world series with the Red Birds after Ducky Medwick was injured when struck by a pop bottle tossed by a fan.

The release of big Max Butcher by the Pittsburgh Pirates the other day caused Sam Rainey to recall the days that he caught the big right hander when the latter started his baseball career at Logan, W. Va.

"Max was the wildest pitcher in captivity at that time," Rainey asserted. "Butcher is a swell fellow and I have contacted him numerous times in on my runs to Pittsburgh."

Rainey, now a Blue Ridge bus driver, caught Butcher in the Middle Atlantic League when Beckley, W. Va., was in the circuit in 1932, incidentally Cumberland's last year in organized ball. Max won 16 and lost 12 that season for Frank "Bug" Welch's Black Knights.

Sam was a terror in the M. A. that season. He belted the ball for an average of .365 in 73 games and turned in a fielding average of .997, being charged with only one error in a total of 351 chances behind the plate.

Rainey played with Potomac Edison in the local Interstate League of 1934 and his clouting combined with the pitching of Jim Stevenson and Lefty Joe Decker were important factors in the Busmen winning the championship. He's the best hitter we've ever seen in sandlot games here. His favorite shot was a line drive between shortstop and second base.

Chauncey W. Ashley, of Baltimore, former Playground Athletic League official, who worked many of the past county track meets at Fairgo, has returned from the service after spending several years in Australia.

Ashley, member of the South Atlantic Association of the AAU, writes that Australians are the most sport conscious people he has ever seen. (Fred Small, are you listening).

"A greater percentage of the population participate in some type of sport than those in our own country," Ashley writes. "It is not unusual to see men and women 60 years of age playing tennis, bowling on the green is played by thousands of older men, on Saturday afternoons the cities close up almost like Sunday and everyone goes to the races, beach, rugby games, bowling on the green, tennis, surfing, sailing, boxing, etc. In Sydney alone 85,000 persons go to Randwick race track, 15,000 to a rugby game and other sports."

Matchmaker "Vic" Ricker's first professional boxing show of the current season grossed $2,200 but his biggest gate was recorded about fifteen years ago when the return go between Fay Keiser and Henry (K.O.) Yutzy caused the turnstiles to to spin to the tune of $3,600.

Appointment of Robert N. "Red" Brown, of Elkins, to the staff of West Virginia university, should be popular although his duties seem to be somewhat vague. It is assumed that "Red" will be contact man with high school coaches and do a bit of scouting in the state during the high school season with an eye on prospective players.

Brown, who has a restaurant business in Elkins, stepped down as Elkins coach after the return of Frank Wimer from the army. During the five years he served in Wimer's absence, Elkins compiled an enviable record. Brown's football teams won 25 in 40 games, including an undefeated and untied eleven in 1945. His basketball teams won 95 of 124 games for an average of .766. In addition "Red" coached Elkins to six track championships.

Brown is well known as a former tennis star and played here in L. E. "Red" Van Sant's tournaments. He copped the Western Maryland singles title at Mountain Lake Park in 1938.

Now that the opening of the baseball season is just around the corner it might be wise for the local sandlot scorekeepers to brush up on their work. One way to make certain that a box score is correct is to prove it. The total runs, left on bases and opponents' put-outs should equal the total at bats, sacrifices, bases on balls and hit by pitcher to make the box score presentable for publication. We don't want any more of those Chinese puzzles that came out of Frostburg and Midland last season. Maybe we'll have to borrow "Dick" Stakem from the government and send him back to Midland to give the boys a few pointers.

19,088 See Bout Halted after Champion Goes Down Third Time

By SID FEDER

NEW YORK, March 29 (AP)—Rockyabye Rocky Graziano, most devastating right hand puncher to come down the fistic pike in years, smashed Welterweight Champion Marty Servo to sleep tonight in the second round of a non-title ten-rounder that was the hottest betting and biggest money bout between two little men in Madison Square Garden hisory. Graziano weighed 152; Servo 144½.

Levelling with his "Sunday punch" from the opening bell of the first round, the local East Side slugger caught up with baby-faced Marty early in the second heat and crushed him to the canvas three times with just about every punch in the book, before Referee Arthur Donovan stepped in and halted it at 1 minute, 52 seconds of the session.

Rocky Packs Explosives

Outweighed by 7½ pounds and without a real test under his belt since leaving the Coast Guard several months ago—it only took him four easy rounds to win the 147-pound crown from Red Cochrane in February—Servo never had a chance to untrack himself tonight against the explosives Rockabye Rocky was packing in his gloves.

After Servo absorbed two of Rocky's right-hand rockets in the first round, the roof fell in on him in a hurry in the second and touched off one of the wildest celebrations the Garden has ever seen as a jam-packed crowd hanging from the rafters of the big eighth avenue sports soup bowl howled for their favorite flailer.

The "SRO" sign was out nearly for tonight's nose-mashing and a total of 19,088 paying guests sardined their way in. They chipped in to a gross gate of $173,163, an all-time Garden record for a punch-party between two little men.

The first time Graziano caught up with the Schenectady, N. Y., champ came before the first minute had ticked away in the second round. A long right hand "fetched" up against Marty's chin and he bounced on the seat of his pretty silk panties. He was up at two, and Graziano piled in on him like a thousand-plane raid.

For fully half a minute, the local larruper belabored the helpless Marty against the ropes with what must have been at least a hundred punches. Marty tried to fight out of it, but Rocky was measuring him with each shot now, and Servo couldn't close in to close quarters. Finally a swinging right dropped him again, and this time he took "eight" on one knee.

Referee Stops Bout

Rockey knew school was out now, and let go the entire book, including a few new chapters written especially for the occasion. Again Marty stood up under dozens of dynamite bundles, until one measured, right hammered him to the floor again. He got up at "five" but wobbled, half-conscious, toward his corner and Donovan stepped in to wind it up.

That ended probably the most talked-of non-title fight ever staged anywhere. Despite the fact Graziano is a full-fleged middleweight—and from now probably will have to find his next victim among the 160-pounders—he was never more than a 5 to 6 favorite among the betting boys.

And an hour before fight-time tonight there was a sudden switch which saw Servo pop up as the 5 to 6 choice among the Garden lobby gamblers. As a result of the short price, virtually from the day the fight was made, this tussle saw some of the wildest wagering ever to bounce around a Garden fight. One bookmaker figured it ran "high in the millions."

Swings for Fences

Through the first round tonight, it was just the kind of a toss-up the odds-makers figured it would be. Rocky, who has been forced to go the derby route only once in his last eight starts, wasn't wasting a motion. Every time he threw, he was swinging for the fences. Twice he caught Marty on the whiskers, but Servo took them, closed in and cuffed Rocky with short uppercuts in close. But from the bell marking the start of the second, it was Rocky by himself.

Bowie Race Track Increases Purses For 12-Day Meet

Bonuses Are Discontinued for Non-employes of Association

BALTIMORE, March 29. (AP)—Operators of the Bowie race track announced today an increase in purses for all races except stakes and elimination of all bonuses and awards, except for grooms, with gratuities for the latter to be discontinued after the spring meeting.

The management of the Southern Maryland Agricultural Association, which operates Bowie, said its action had the "full support" of the Havre de Grace, Laurel, Pimlico, Delaware Park and Garden State Park tracks and the five New York racing associations.

The announcement said that during the 12-day Bowie meeting opening the eastern spring season on Monday, purses of overnight races would be increased by $400 and that groom leading horses to the post would be paid $5, with the groom of the winner getting an additional $15.

After the Bowie meeting, the announcement said, awards and bonuses to such groups as grooms and exercise boys who are not employes of the associations would be discontinued, while overnight purses at Havre de Grace and Pimlico would be increased by $500.

The management said the other major Maryland tracks, Garden State Park in New Jersey and the five New York associations would follow the same plan.

Explaining the move, the announcement said the managements of the tracks involved were "firmly opposed" to the principle of paying awards of bonuses to individuals or groups not employed by the associations.

"The purse increases are designed to provide owners and trainers with more than sufficient funds to meet demands similar to those which have been paid in the past," the announcement said.

It added that Chairman George P. Mahoney of the Maryland Racing Commission had approved the stand of the tracks against paying bonuses to any other than their own employes.

"The racing association managements felt that all demands from grooms, exercise boys and others connected with actual racing should be handled by owners, and the generous addition to the previously announced purse total is expected to more than take care of such fees," the statement said.

Armed Is Choice In $20,000 Race

Occupy and Historian Are Chief Rivals in Today's Event

By FRED HAYDEN

MIAMI, Fla., March 29 (AP)—Tropical Park's turf intelligentsia believes that next to death and taxes the surest thing around is a victory for Armed in tomorrow's $20,000 added double event.

Warren Wright's celebrated five-year-old won last Saturday's first division of the mile and a furlong special handy fashion—incidentally setting a new track record of 1:48 3-5— and the same weights will prevail tomorrow.

Trainer Ben Jones said today he will give Jockey Doug Dodson no riding instructions except "just use your own judgment."

Armed may never get in another race under today's 126 pounds, for in handicaps "up north" the gelding surely will be assigned heavier loads. "He may take a licking when the weights pile up, and he's a little under average size, you know. One thing about that, though," smiled Ben, "a smaller horse is less likely to break down; the big ones naturally are heavier and tougher on their legs. Armed is a strong, game and sound horse."

Eight other horses are entered to meet Armed tomorrow, but one or two lesser lights may decline the issue. Armed's chief rivals again figure to be Abe Hirschberg's Occupy and Herbert M. Woolf's Historian, the two that chased him home last weekend.

Jackson Is Loser In Boxing Tourney

BALTIMORE, March 29. (AP)—Orville Jackson of Frostburg, Md., was eliminated in the first round of the South Atlantic Association A. A. U. boxing tournament tonight when he lost a decision to Andy Kasper of Baltimore, unattached, in a three-round match at the Baltimore Gardens.

Jackson, who usually fights in the 160-pound class, came in over the weight limit and fought in the light-heavyweight division. He tipped the beam at 165 pounds.

The decision was a popular one.

SATURDAY, MARCH 30

Far-off: "Thus shall thou do unto all the cities which are very far off from thee". Deuteronomy 20:15 Read Deuteronomy 20:10-15; Ephesians 2:13-18.

The Christian correction of warlike Deuteronomy is in Ephesians, but, God forgive us, we have of late seemed to have been following Deuteronomy instead of Ephesians. Deuteronomy is really very recent history and very persistent human nature. "Far-off" is still a key word. Distance breeds enmities as well as enchantments, we fear the distance because it is strange. Only yesterday it was geographical distance, now as any newspaper tells us, with weekly flights around the world, there are no longer any geographical distances. The immemorial pattern of distance has disappeared, and it has all happened so quickly that our minds have not caught up with our planes.

The real barriers to right human relationships persist in our habits, our prejudices, and even in our souls. Our maps are fluid as running water, but devisive fears and pretentious pride of race and possessions persist. Deep-rooted distrusts and sheer failures in imagination still maintain boundary lines which Jesus Christ lived and died to abolish. We would better close our geographies and open our minds to the disappearance of distance.

Prayer—O Thou who came to bring the far-off near and by thy cross to end old enmities and the inner barriers which keep us apart, so help us toward minds and spirits open to they gospel of peace that in all our fellowship near and far they way may be supreme. Amen.

HEALTH authorities wisely point the way to greater family health protection when they recommend hygienic cleansing of home germ "danger zones." Clorox is a powerful germicide . . . it reduces infection risks when used regularly in routine cleansing of bathroom and kitchen. For Clorox makes tile, enamel, porcelain, linoleum, glass, wood surfaces sanitary. It effectively deodorizes, removes stains, too. And Clorox is safe, easy to use, economical.

GARRETT, ALLEGANY COUNTIES TO GET NEW DEPUTY WARDENS

Kolmer Says Vacancies Will Be Filled within Next Month

BALTIMORE, March 29—(AP)—Five deputy game warden vacancies in Maryland will be filled some time within the next month, Harold S. Kolmer, executive secretary of the State Game and Inland Fish Commission, announced today.

Kolmer said that when the posts had been filled from among thirty applicants, plans would be made for a game warden training school to be opened late this summer or early in the fall.

Kolmer said that when the posts had been filled from among thirty applicants, plans would be made for a game warden training school to be opened late this summer or early in the fall.

New game wardens will be named for Garrett, Washington, Worcester, Allegany and Baltimore counties. Kolmer said veterans would be given top consideration in filling the positions. The state employment commission is in the midst of correcting the applicants' examinations, he said. The post pays $1,700 to $2,125, with a five per cent annual raise for the first five years.

Classes in law enforcement, court procedure, self-protection, conservation and fire prevention will be given by experts in these fields in a series throughout the various game warden districts, Kolmer explained. Approximately thirty-seven deputy and regional wardens will take the two-week course.

Current deputy game warden vacancies to be filled are: Allegany county, to replace Battie Mixon, who was promoted to regional deputy game worden on the Eastern Shore; Garrett county, to succeed Elmer Haulenbeek, retiring April 1; Worcester county, to succeed Charles E. Hill, retired March 1; Washington county, to succeed Albert Crampton, retired March 1; and Baltimore county, to succeed E. Carl Richards, who resigned January 1.

E. E. Shadle, deputy game warden for Prince Georges county, has been granted a six months' leave of absence because of ill health.

SPORTS FALLACIES

by MARGERY MILLER

RUNS—and not hits are what wins baseball games.

Every baseball manager wants a player who can bat in a run when it is needed, not one who hits singles consistently but never gets beyond first base.

The batting champions aren't always the players who bat in runs most often. Lou Gehrig batted in 175 runs for an American league record in 1927; in 1930 Hack Wilson knocked in 190 for the National league record.

Yet neither Gehrig nor Wilson was batting champion during these great years.

Gehrig did not win the championship until 1934. And Wilson never did win it.

Taylor Is Named Athletic Director At Naval Academy

Middie Football Captain of 1924 Will Succeed C. O. Humphreys

WASHINGTON, March 29. (AP)—The Navy Department disclosed today that Capt. Edmund B. Taylor has been appointed director of athletics at the United States Naval Academy.

Captain Taylor, aide to Secretary Forrestal, was not personally available but other aides said he has received orders to report to Annapolis. He plans to "go down the latter part of May."

Capt. Taylor's appointment rounds out the naval academy's new postwar athletic staff. Taylor succeeds Capt. Charles O. Humphreys. Capt. Tom Hamilton, legendary football figure of twenty years ago, recently became Navy's head football coach.

Taylor also was a star athlete at the naval academy. He captained the Midshipmen eleven in 1924, won national recognition in lacrosse and was on the varsity basketball and boxing teams.

During the war, he was commanding officer of the Destroyer Duncan and participated in Guadalcanal action. He holds the Navy Cross for heroism and the Legion of Merit and Bronze Star.

Taylor was born in Chicago, April 4, 1904. He was graduated from the academy in June, 1925.

Hollywood Returns Geary to Pirates

HOLLYWOOD, March 29 (AP) — The Hollywood Stars have returned Shortstop Huck Geary to the Pittsburg Pirates, suffering from a bad knee. Geary was sent to the Stars last week. Negotiations are under way, the club said for transfer of either Alf Anderson or Vic Barnhart, both shortstops, from the Pirates.

Truman Planning To Attend Opener

President Intends To Be on Hand April 16 for Nats-Bosox Tilt

WASHINGTON, March 29 (AP) — President Truman plans to attend the opening game of the American league season here, keeping alive a presidential baseball tradition dating back nearly forty years.

While there was no formal announcement of Mr. Truman's plans, it was learned from sources close to the White House that he intends to be on hand for the April 16 starter between Washington's Senators and the Boston Red Sox.

The president's party will number about thirty-two, the largest group that has ever accompanied a chief executive to a ball game. It will include cabinet members, and members of congress.

William Howard Taft began the custom of the president tossing out the first ball opening day. Since then every president has participated in these ceremonies exept during wartime.

Owner Clark Griffith of the Senators, who has presented a major league pass to every president since he first called on Taft, will make his annual trip to the White House next month when he returns from spring training in Florida.

Middie Tossers Will Open Campaign Today

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 29 (AP)—Navy's baseball season will open here tomorrow with a varsity and a plebe game, the varsity nine engaging West Chester (Pa.) Teachers College.

Coach Max Bishop's outfit has seasoned veterans available for virtually all positions except the battery. The game will start at 2 p. m.

Reds Release Bowman

TAMPA, Fla., March 29 (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds today announced the unconditional release of Joe Bowman, veteran right-hander.

Bowman, who was obtained from the Boston Red Sox on waivers last year, won 11 and lost 13 for the Reds during the 1945 season.

Go to Church Sunday - Your Church - Any Church - But Go

Sunday Morning

"Timmy" sleeps on Sunday Morning . . .

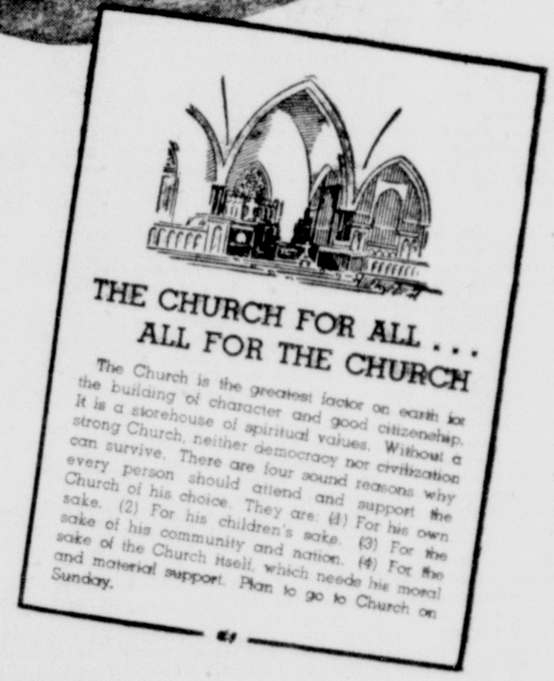

Why not? "Timmy" has no place to go. And, what's more, "Timmy" has no problems, no worries, no fears. Mice and milk, and the occasional luxury of a little catnip, provide "Timmy" with all the requisites of a happy, useful life. He can afford to sleep.

But with human beings, it's different. We have needs that cannot be satisfied by a Sunday morning snooze. Six days of labor bring more than physical weariness. Those six days drain our spiritual resources, our courage, our confidence, our moral stamina. A thousand fears and a million worries sap our inner strength, until we face the daily routine like mechanical robots, going through the motions of living.

"Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God."

Sunday morning and the Church doors are open. They are open for every adult and child, that the deepest needs of humanity may be satisfied. Neither pillow nor armchair can give us the courage and faith and moral vitality that this busy life requires . . . these are the gifts of Worship.

LaSalle Defeats Chicago Quint, 46 to 37

Explorers Top St. Philips, Reach Consolation Finale

Locals Battle Newport Today in ESCIT Final; Philadelphia To Play Regis for Title

NEWPORT, R. I., March 29 (AP)—Jumping into an 8-0 lead in the opening minutes of play, LaSalle high school of Cumberland, Md., this afternoon defeated St. Philip's high of Chicago, 46-37, in a consolation match that preceded the semi-finals of the Eastern States Catholic Invitational baskeball tournament.

In a second consolation game, DeLaSalle Academy, of Newport, overcame a slow first period start and romped to a 58-36 win over St. Mary's high school, of Clarksburg, W. Va.

Play Newport Today

The Newporters will meet LaSalle high school of Cumberland in a consolation final at 3 p. m. Saturday.

Paced by Jack Steiner and George Geatz, 22-year-old army veteran, who was the 1943 tournament's outstanding player, the Marylanders took an 8-0 lead in the first few minutes. St. Philip rallied and stayed close during the middle periods but the LaSalle club was flying in the last quarter and dominated the last few minutes.

Steiner racked up twenty points on six field goals and eight foul goals in ten tries while Geatz poured in seven fielders and four free throws for eighteen markers. The winners converted 14 out of 18 shots at the charity line.

As a result of their showing today, the Cumberlanders, eliminated yesterday in the opening round by Philadelphia, established themselves as favorites to clinch the consolation final.

Philadelphians Win

LaSalle College high, of Philadelphia, defeated the favored LaSalle Academy of New York, 39-32, tonight in the opening semi-final match.

The defeat of the tournament favorites eliminated the opportunity of the New York team to retire the Bishop Francis E. Keough trophy.

The New Yorkers got the jump and went into a 10-6 lead in the first quarter with a series of long shots, but the second quarter brought a rally by the Philadelphians, who had taken a 21-16 lead at half time.

Regis Reaches Finals

Regis high school, of New York, gained the right to play Philadelphia LaSalle for the tournament championship Saturday night at 9 o'clock by defeating Fairfield, Conn., Preparatory school in tonight's second semi-final game. The score was 37 to 27.

Jim Ferrier Sets Pace in Tourney

By KEN ALYTA

CHARLOTTE, N. C., March 29 (AP)—Still hotter than a four-alarm fire, Jim Ferrier, the husky former Australian star, now playing out of Chicago, gave par a four-stroke beating with a 68 today to wrest and 36-hole Charlotte open golf lead from Lawson Little with a 134 total.

Little, former open and amateur king from Monterey, Calif., who started the day in a first-place tie with Ferrier at 66, slipped to a one-under 71 for second place at 137, a stroke ahead of four challengers.

Tied for third in the $7,500 event over a muddy 6,410-yard Myers Park Course were Pete Cooper, Gainesville, Fla.; Vic Ghezzi, Knoxville, Tenn.; Stewart "Skip" Alexander, Durham, N. C.; and Toney Penna, Cincinnati. Ghezzi and Cooper had 70's today, while Penna and Alexander turned in their second straight 69's.

Twenty-one players were under par for the thirty-six holes as the low 64 headed for the last two days of play.

Favorite Sam Snead of Hot Springs, Va., and Ed "Porky" Oliver, Taunton, Mass., shared seventh place at 139. There were two 140's and 11 at 141, including Harold (Jug) McSpaden, Sanford, Me., whose 66 was the day's best score.

HUGART TO CAPTAIN NAVY'S 1947 QUINT

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 29 (AP)—Short, speedy Kenneth L. (Kenny) Shugart, guard and forward on Navy's 1946 basketball team, was named captain of the 1947 quintet, the Navy announced today.

He succeeds Jack Carroll, the only player topping him in scoring last season, when Carroll gathered 177 and Shugart 149 points over a 15-game schedule.

Shugart, who hails from Cheyenne, Wyo., is 5 feet 9 inches. He started the 1946 season as a substitute, but ended it as a regular starter either at guard or forward.

Meanwhile, the naval academy was silent on who will succeed Coach Johnny Wilson, whose retirement as basketball coach was announced recently.

"Red" Brown Goes to WVU

By C. V. BURNS

Occupying a conspicuous place on the wall of the Democratic Cosmopolitan Club is a photograph of the Hagerstown Hubs, of the 1926 Blue Ridge Baseball League, which defeated Crisfield, Eastern Shore League champions of that year, and the group includes Joe Conti and Charles "Chick" Fullis, who died Thursday at Ashland, Pa., of a complication of diseases at the age of 45.

"Fullis was a classy outfielder and a good hitter and I was shocked when I learned of his death," Conti said.

Joe pointed out that Fullis starred at Frederick but he and Dave Black, of Martinsburg, were chosen to play with Hagerstown in the series with Crisfield just twenty years ago.

Conti recalled that Fullis was one of the stars of the series which Hagerstown won.

"I'll never forget the first game of that series," Joe declared. "Fullis was instructed to join the Hagerstown team at Crisfield but he did not arrive until the seventh inning and Manager "Chief" Werre told "Chick" to get ready to pinch hit. We had two runners on the paths. Fullis became the hero when he rattled the boards of the left field fence with a timely two-bagger, sewing up the game. Yes, I'll never forget that exciting bame."

Fullis played with he Philadelphia Phillies and St. Louis Cardinals, appearing in the 1934 world series with the Red Birds after Ducky Medwick was injured when struck by a pop bottle tossed by a fan.

The release of big Max Butcher by the Pittsburgh Pirates the other day caused Sam Rainey to recall the days that he caught the big right hander when the latter started his baseball career at Logan, W. Va.

"Max was the wildest pitcher in captivity at that time," Rainey asserted. "Butcher is a swell fellow and I have contacted him numerous times in on my runs to Pittsburgh."

Rainey, now a Blue Ridge bus driver, caught Butcher in the Middle Atlantic League when Beckley, W. Va., was in the circuit in 1932, incidentally Cumberland's last year in organized ball. Max won 16 and lost 12 that season for Frank "Bug" Welch's Black Knights.

Sam was a terror in the M. A. that season. He belted the ball for an average of .365 in 73 games and turned in a fielding average of .997, being charged with only one error in a total of 351 chances behind the plate.

Rainey played with Potomac Edison in the local Interstate League of 1934 and his clouting combined with the pitching of Jim Stevenson and Lefty Joe Decker were important factors in the Busmen winning the championship. He's the best hitter we've ever seen in sandlot games here. His favorite shot was a line drive between shortstop and second base.

Chauncey W. Ashley, of Baltimore, former Playground Athletic League official, who worked many of the past county track meets at Fairgo, has returned from the service after spending several years in Australia.

Ashley, member of the South Atlantic Association of the AAU, writes that Australians are the most sport conscious people he has ever seen. (Fred Small, are you listening).

"A greater percentage of the population participate in some type of sport than those in our own country," Ashley writes. "It is not unusual to see men and women 60 years of age playing tennis, bowling on the green is played by thousands of older men, on Saturday afternoons the cities close up almost like Sunday and everyone goes to the races, beach, rugby games, bowling on the green, tennis, surfing, sailing, boxing, etc. In Sydney alone 85,000 persons go to Randwick race track, 15,000 to a rugby game and other sports."

Matchmaker "Vic" Ricker's first professional boxing show of the current season grossed $2,200 but his biggest gate was recorded about fifteen years ago when the return go between Fay Keiser and Henry (K.O.) Yutzy caused the turnstiles to to spin to the tune of $3,600.

Appointment of Robert N. "Red" Brown, of Elkins, to the staff of West Virginia university, should be popular although his duties seem to be somewhat vague. It is assumed that "Red" will be contact man with high school coaches and do a bit of scouting in the state during the high school season with an eye on prospective players.

Brown, who has a restaurant business in Elkins, stepped down as Elkins coach after the return of Frank Wimer from the army. "During the five years he served in Wimer's absence, Elkins compiled an enviable record. Brown's football teams won 25 in 40 games, including an undefeated and untied eleven in 1945. His basketball teams won 95 of 124 games for an average of .766. In addition "Red" coached Elkins to six track championships.

Now that the opening of the baseball season is just around the corner it might be wise for the local sandlot scorekeepers to brush up on their work. One way to make certain that a box score is correct is to prove it. The total runs, left on bases and opponents' put-outs should equal the total at bats, sacrifices, bases on balls and hit by pitcher to make the box score presentable for publication. We don't want any more of those Chinese puzzles that came out of Frostburg and Midland last season. Maybe we'll have to borrow "Dick" Stakem from the government and send him back to Midland to give the boys a few pointers.

Rocky Graziano Flattens Servo In Second Round

By SID FEDER

NEW YORK, March 29 (AP)—Rockyabye Rocky Graziano, most devastating right hand puncher to come down the fistic pike in years, smashed Welterweight Champion Marty Servo to sleep tonight in the second round of a non-title tenrounder that was the hottest betting and biggest money bout between two little men in Madison Square Garden hisory. Graziano weighed 152; Servo 144½.

Levelling with his "Sunday punch" from the opening bell of the first round, the local East Side slugger caught up with baby-faced Marty early in the second heat and crushed him to the canvas three times with just about every punch in the book, before Referee Arthur Donovan stepped in and halted it at 1 minute, 52 seconds of the session.

Rocky Packs Explosives

Outweighed by 7½ pounds and without a real test under his belt since leaving the Coast Guard several months ago—it only took him four easy rounds to win the 147-pound crown from Red Cochrane in February—Servo never had a chance to untrack himself tonight against the explosives Rockabye Rocky was packing in his gloves.

After Servo absorbed two of Rocky's right-hand rockets in the first round, the roof fell in on him in a hurry in the second and touched off one of the wildest celebrations the Garden has ever seen as a jam-packed crowd hanging from the rafters of the big eighth avenue sports soup bowl howled for their favorite flailer.

The "SRO" sign was out nearly for tonight's nose-mashing and a total of 19,088 paying guests sardined their way in. They chipped in to a gross gate of $173,163, an all-time Garden record for a punch-party between two little men.

The first time Graziano caught up with the Schenectady, N. Y., champ came before the first minute had ticked away in the second round. A long right hand "fetched" up against Marty's chin and he bounced on the seat of his pretty silk panties. He was up at two, and Graziano piled in on him like a thousand-plane raid.

For fully half a minute, the local larruper belabored the helpless Marty against the ropes with what must have been at least a hundred punches. Marty tried to fight out of it, but Rocky was measuring him with each shot now, and Servo couldn't close in to close quarters. Finally a swinging right dropped him again, and this time he took "eight" on one knee.

Referee Stops Bout

Rockey knew school was out now, and let go the entire book, including a few new chapters written especially for the occasion. Again Marty stood up under dozens of dynamite bundles, until one measured, right hammered him to the floor again. He got up at "five" but wobbled, half-conscious, toward his corner and Donovan stepped in to wind it up.

That ended probably the most talked-of non-title fight ever staged anywhere. Despite the fact Graziano is a full-fleged middleweight —and from now probably will have to find his next victim among the 160-pounders—he was never more than a 5 to 6 favorite among the betting boys.

And an hour before fight-time tonight there was a sudden switch which saw Servo pop up as the 5 to 6 choice among the Garden lobby gamblers. As a result of the short price, virtually from the day the fight was made, this tussle saw some of the wildest wagering ever to bounce around a Garden fight. One bookmaker figured it ran "high in the millions."

Swings for Fences

Through the first round tonight, it was just the kind of a toss-up the odds-makers figured it would be. Rocky, who has been forced to go the derby route only once in his last eight starts, wasn't wasting a motion. Every time he threw, he was swinging for the fences. Twice he caught Marty on the whiskers, but Servo took them, closed in and cuffed Rocky with short uppercuts in close. But from the bell marking the start of the second, it was Rocky by himself.

Bowie Race Track Increases Purses For 12-Day Meet

Bonuses Are Discontinued for Non-employes of Association

BALTIMORE, March 29. (AP)—Operators of the Bowie race track announced today an increase in purses for all races except stakes and elimination of all bonuses and awards, except for grooms, with gratuities for the latter to be discontinued after the spring meeting.

The management of the Southern Maryland Agricultural Association, which operates Bowie, said its action had the "full support" of the Havre de Grace, Laurel, Pimlico, Delaware Park and Garden State Park tracks and the five New York racing associations.

The announcement said that during the 12-day Bowie meeting opening the eastern spring season on Monday, purses of overnight races would be increased by $400 and that groom leading horses to the post would be paid $5, with the groom of the winner getting an additional $15.

After the Bowie meeting, the announcement said, awards and bonuses to such groups as grooms and exercise boys who are not employes of the associations would be discontinued, while overnight purses at Havre de Grace and Pimlico would be increased by $500.

The management said the other major Maryland tracks, Garden State Park in New Jersey and the five New York associations would follow the same plan.

Explaining the move, the announcement said the managements of the tracks involved were "firmly opposed" to the principle of paying awards of bonuses to individuals or groups not employed by the associations.

"The purse increases are designed to provide owners and trainers with more than sufficient funds to meet demands similar to those which have been paid in the past," the announcement said.

It added that Chairman George P. Mahoney of the Maryland Racing Commission had approved the stand of the tracks against paying bonuses to any other than their own employes.

"The racing association managements felt that all demands from grooms, exercise boys and others connected with actual racing should be handled by owners, and the generous addition to the previously announced purse total is expected to more than take care of such fees," the statement said.

Armed Is Choice In $20,000 Race

By FRED HAYDEN

MIAMI, Fla., March 29 (AP)—Tropical Park's turf intelligentsia believes that next to death and taxes the surest thing around is a victory for Armed in tomorrow's $20,000 added double event.

Warren Wright's celebrated five-year-old won last Saturday's first division of the mile and a furlong special handy fashion—incidentally setting a new track record of 1:48 3-5— and the same weights will prevail tomorrow.

Trainer Ben Jones said today he will give Jockey Doug Dodson no riding instructions except "just use your own judgment."

Armed may never get in another race under today's 126 pounds, for in handicaps "up north" the gelding surely will be assigned heavier loads. "He may take a licking when the weights pile up, and he's a little under average size, you know. One thing about that, though," smiled Ben, "a smaller horse is less likely to break down; the big ones naturally are heavier and tougher on their legs. Armed is a strong, game and sound horse."

Eight other horses are entered to meet Armed tomorrow, but one or two lesser lights may decline the issue. Armed's chief rivals again figure to be Abe Hirschberg's Occupy and Herbert M. Woolf's Historian, the two that chased him home last weekend.

Jackson Is Loser In Boxing Tourney

BALTIMORE, March 29. (AP)—Orville Jackson of Frostburg, Md., was eliminated in the first round of the South Atlantic Association A. A. U. boxing tournament tonight when he lost a decision to Andy Kasper of Baltimore, unattached, in a three-round match at the Baltimore Gardens.

Jackson, who usually fights in the 160-pound class, came in over the weight limit and fought in the light-heavyweight division. He tipped the beam at 165 pounds.

The bout was one of the scrappiest of the association's first round card. Jackson boxed smartly but finally was eliminated by the New York diamond belt champion, who also holds the South Atlantic A. A. U. crown

GARRETT, ALLEGANY COUNTIES TO GET NEW DEPUTY WARDENS

Volmer Says Vacancies Will Be Filled within Next Month

BALTIMORE, March 29—(AP)—Five deputy game warden vacancies in Maryland will be filled some time within the next month, Harold S. Kolmer, executive secretary of the State Game and Inland Fish Commission, announced today.

Kolmer said that when the posts had been filled from among thirty applicants, plans would be made for a game warden training school to be opened late this summer or early in the fall.

Kolmer said that when the posts had been filled from among thirty applicants, plans would be made for a game warden training school to be opened late this summer or early in the fall.

New game wardens will be named for Garrett, Washington, Worcester, Allegany and Baltimore counties. Kolmer said veterans would be given top consideration in filling the positions. The state employment commission is in the midst of correcting the applicants' examinations, he said. The post pays $1,700 to $2,125, with a five per cent annual raise for the first five years.

Classes in law enforcement, court procedure, self-protection, conservation and fire prevention will be given by experts in these fields in a series throughout the various game warden districts, Kolmer explained. Approximately thirty-seven deputy and regional wardens will take the two-week course.

Current deputy game warden vacancies to be filled are: Allegany county, to replace Battie Mixon, who was promoted to regional deputy game worden on the Eastern Shore; Garrett county, to succeed Elmer Haulenbeek, retiring April 1; Worcester county, to succeed Charles E. Hill, retired March 1; Washington county, to succeed Albert Crampton, retired March 1; and Baltimore county, to succeed E. Carl Richards, who resigned January 1.

E. E. Shadle, deputy game warden for Prince Georges county, has been granted a six months' leave of absence because of ill health.

SPORTS FALLACIES by MARGERY MILLER

RUNS—and not hits are what wins baseball games.

Every baseball manager wants a player who can bat in a run when it is needed, not one who hits singles consistently but never gets beyond first base.

The batting champions aren't always the players who bat in runs most often. Lou Gehrig batted in 175 runs for an American league record in 1927; in 1930 Hack Wilson knocked in 190 for the National league record.

Yet neither Gehrig nor Wilson was batting champion during these great years.

Gehrig did not win the championship until 1934. And Wilson never did win it.

Taylor Is Named Athletic Director At Naval Academy

Middie Football Captain of 1924 Will Succeed C. O. Humphreys

WASHINGTON, March 29. (AP)—The Navy Department disclosed today that Capt. Edmund B. Taylor has been appointed director of athletics at the United States Naval Academy.

Captain Taylor, aide to Secretary Forrestal, was not personally available but other aides said he has received orders to report to Annapolis. He plans to "go down the latter part of May."

Taylor also was a star athlete at the naval academy. He captained the Midshipmen eleven in 1924, won national recognition in lacrosse and was on the varsity basketball and boxing teams.

During the war, he was commanding officer of the Destroyer Duncan and participated in Guadalcanal action. He holds the Navy Cross for heroism and the Legion of Merit and Bronze Star.

Taylor was born in Chicago, April 4, 1904. He was graduated from the academy in June, 1925.

Hollywood Returns Geary to Pirates

HOLLYWOOD, March 29 (AP) — The Hollywood Stars have returned Shortstop Huck Geary to the Pittsburg Pirates, suffering from a bad knee. Geary was sent to the Stars last week. Negotiations are under way, the club said for transfer of either Alf Anderson or Vic Barnhart, both shortstops, from the Pirates.

Truman Planning To Attend Opener

President Intends To Be on Hand April 16 for Nats-Bosox Tilt

WASHINGTON, March 29 (AP) — President Truman plans to attend the opening game of the American league season here, keeping alive a presidential baseball tradition dating back nearly forty years.

While there was no formal announcement of Mr. Truman's plans, it was learned from sources close to the White House that he intends to be on hand for the April 16 starter between Washington's Senators and the Boston Red Sox.

The president's party will number about thirty-two, the largest group that has ever accompanied a chief executive to a ball game. It will include cabinet members, and members of congress.

William Howard Taft began the custom of the president tossing out the first ball opening day. Since then every president has participated in these ceremonies exept during wartime.

Owner Clark Griffith of the Senators, who has presented a major league pass to every president since he first called on Taft, will make his annual trip to the White House next month when he returns from spring training in Florida.

Middie Tossers Will Open Campaign Today

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 29 (AP)—Navy's baseball season will open here tomorrow with a varsity and a plebe game, the varsity nine engaging West Chester (Pa.) Teachers College.

Coach Max Bishop's outfit has seasoned veterans available for virtually all positions except the battery. The game will start at 2 p. m.

Norman S. Birch Is Released on $1,000 Bond for Preliminary Hearing; Pleads Not Guilty

Norman S. Birch, 42, of North Allegany street, owner and manager of the Tri-State Detective Service, Liberty Trust building here, was arrested yesterday afternoon by FBI agents on a warrant charging him with impersonating an employe of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Birch was arraigned before Deputy United States Commissioner Wilbur V. Wilson shortly after his arrest and entered a plea of not guilty. He asked for a preliminary hearing and furnished temporary bond of $1,000, for his appearance before Commissioner Wilson Tuesday at 2 p. m.

Announcement of the arrest was made by Fred Hallford, special agent in charge of the FBI at Baltimore, although the actual arrest was made by agents operating in Cumberland and Western Maryland.

Commenting on charges against Birch, Hallford pointed out that it is a violation of the Federal Impersonation statute for any unauthorized person to pretend to be an employe of the FBI, and in such pretended character, to act as such an employe or demand and obtain anything of value.

Reveals One Specific Charge

While the FBI has been investigating Birch's operations for some months, Hallford revealed only one specific charge against him. The federal agent stated that in November, 1945, Birch secured information pertaining to the theft of two automobile tires from an interstate shipment of tires, consigned to a local business firm.

The agent said Birch learned the tires were stolen by a truck driver of the transfer company, who had custody of the tires for delivery. Instead of reporting the matter to proper authorities, Birch contacted the truck driver, and by falsely representing himself as being from the FBI, persuaded the man to pay the sum of $118 for the two tires and other goods which he was accused of stealing. The driver, however, denies having stolen the other goods.

Birch told the truck driver, according to the FBI, that by paying the $118 the case would be settled and he would not have to go to jail or face charges.

Hallford said the FBI has learned Birch paid the $118 to the transfer company, which was one of his clients, and received $20 for settling the case.

FBI agents say the penalty for violating the Federal Impersonation statute is a $1,000 fine or three years in the penitentiary or both.

Birch organized the Tri-State Detective Service here in October 1944, and maintains offices in the Liberty Trust building. He has branch agencies in Hagerstown, Md., and Wheeling, W. Va.

Came Here in 1943

Local police say Birch came here early in 1943, and was employed for several months by the Clay Detective Agency, as an investigator and private detective operative. Mrs. Margaret Douglas, senior partner in the Clay agency said she employed Birch for several months, but discharged him, as a result of complaints against him and differences they had. Birch started his own agency after Mrs. Douglas says she refused to sell him an interest in her business.

The man is said to have resided in Frostburg once, and says he came here from Idaho. He is also reported to have lived in Pittsburgh, but has told local authorities he is a native of Idaho. Members of his family lived in the vicinity of Frostburg sometime but are now reported to reside in Winchester, Va.

Several local police officers, who request that they remain anonymous, say he has been suspected from time to time of impersonating local and state officers, and that complaints have been made about his methods of operation, which police feel might reflect on the conduct of enforcement officers generally.

Birch was questioned by county authorities on at least one occasion, police say, but the state's attorney has never placed any charges against him, for lack of sufficient evidence.

Has Number of Clients

Birch has a number of clients for his agency among local business houses who employe night watchman service for a nominal monthly fee. For many years, this watchman service was operated here almost exclusively by the Clay agency, but when Birch started his own service, he obtained a number of local clients, and then extended his agency to Wheeling and Hagerstown.

Police say there have been several cases here which Birch handled for his clients, or for others as a private investigator. One case which they recall involved a grocery store robbery, and breaking and entering a local dairy plant. Another involved a theft at a local cleaning and dyeing plant. In each case, those involved paid money to Birch, authorities say, and no one was prosecuted.

Other authorities, who would not be quoted, say Birch has represented himself as a state and local officer while working on cases.

Sheriff David M. Steele said last night that Birch had never been sworn in as a deputy, and as far as he knows, has no authorized power of arrest.

Other county authorities explain that detective agencies of the type which conduct private investigations and operate watchman service for business establishments, residences, eac., are licensed by the clerk of court for a fee of $100.50. Birch carries a license for his agency here.

The executive board of J. Louis Wolford Post, Amvets, will meet at 1 o'clock this afternoon at the office of the Frederick street clearing house. The nominating committee will meet an hour later at the same place.

Notices To Be Sent To Sign Violators

Notices will be sent in the near future to some fifty individuals and firms, calling attention to violations of a city ordinance in regard to the erection of signs, according to Ralph L. Rizer, city engineer.

The engineer said he expects to make a personal inspection of a number of the reported violations before sending the notices. He indicated he will allow from ten days to a possible two weeks for the violations to be corrected.

Most of the violations pertain to signs placed over sidewalks, Rizer said. The engineer explained four types of signs are allowed. They follow: Interior lighted, exterior lighted, neon, and a combination of the three.

No unlighted signs are allowed over sidewalks. Lighted signs of the reflector type when the light is not a direct part of the sign are not allowed. The bungalow type is also prohibited.

The engineer said the restrictions on signs are made because of appearance. He declared Baltimore street would be anything but attractive if all types of signs—some just a plain board with lettering—were allowed to extend over the walks.

Louis Donius, this city, held in city jail since March 15, for investigation, was released yesterday by the state's attorney.

Donius was questioned by city and county authorities in connection with fires started in the Hendricks hotel, 19 East Laing avenue.

County Investigator Terrance J. Boyle gave Donius one of his famous "fatherly tongue lashings," before the man was released. He told him insufficient evidence was obtained to warrant prosecution, and advised the man to watch his conduct and stay away from alcoholic beverages.

County Building Is Halted by CPA Restricting Order

Building projects involving an estimated expenditure of two million dollars have been halted in Allegany county because of restrictions announced Tuesday by the Civilian Production Administration.

Federal action was taken in an effort to provide materials for the erection of homes for veterans.

With construction of major projects halted by the federal order, it appears Cumberland will not get its share of building unless a large number of veterans decide to do some building for themselves or some sort of a project is worked out.

Among contemplated projects retarded by federal order are the construction of school buildings at Mt. Savage, Ellerslie and Lonaconing; construction of an office building on Pershing street, building of a theater on Liberty street, erection of a medical building on Decatur street, as well as various projects at the Cumberland Airport, and non-veteran residences, particularly in the higher brackets.

The objective of the federal order is to make materials available for 2,700,000 homes in the next two years. Commercial and industrial construction is halted unless specifically authorized. In general the order holds repairs to $1,000 a job but some exemptions are allowed.

Completion of any project under way will be permitted provided materials are at the site and work has actually started.

Sale of Yule Seals Totals $5,547.83

Sale of Christmas seals in Allegany county from last November 19 to March 1 totalled $5,547.83, exceeding the campaign quota of $5,000, William J. Edwards, chairman of the Allegany County Tuberculosis Association drive, announced yesterday.

Edwards pointed out, however, that the total fell short of the 1944-45 campaign total by $293.30. That amount was $5,841.13.

The chairman said that 4,318 envelopes mailed to county residents were returned with contributions, while 606 envelopes were returned without contributions. More than 10,000 envelopes were sent out.

Proceeds of the annual sale are used to finance the work of the Maryland Tuberculosis Association throughout the state, which constitutes mass x-ray surveys, case finding, x-ray work, tuberculin testing, medical research, health education, negro program and the Miracle House, a children's preventorium.

He was employed by the Big Savage Refractories Corporation before entering the army in February, 1944.

Man Gets Permission To Change His Name

In a decree signed yesterday in circuit court by Chief Judge William A. Huster, the petition of Baleslaw Malachowski to change his name to William J. Malachowski was granted. He said he served in the army under the name of William J. Malachowski. Edward J. Ryan was his attorney.

Mrs. Thelma Martin Robison, Frostburg, was granted an absolute divorce from Orval Robinson and was given the custody of their two minor children. Robison was ordered to pay $10 a week for support of the children.

Mrs. Lena S. Custer, Westernport, filed suit for divorce from Ralph E. Custer, now serving a term in the house of correction. She asks the custody of their four children. Paul M. Fletcher is her attorney.

Mrs. Mabel M. Hardman, also represented by Fletcher, sued for an absolute divorce from Marshall E. Hardman and asks the custody of their children.

Nonagenarian Brothers-in-Law Mark Birthdays by Reminiscing

By A. TRAGO BRUST, Jr.

Francis Hergott, Mt. Savage road, was in a reminiscent mood when a News reporter called on him to find out about some of the things that went on when he was a younger man.

Born March 30, 1856, Mr. Hergott, son of Harry and Catherine Hergott, who came to America from Germany, will celebrate his ninetieth birthday today at the home of his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver M. Hergott, with whom he has resided for the past eighteen years—since he retired as a machinist for the C. and P. railroad when he was "seventy some."

With a question or two asked, Mr. Hergott easily recalled events of many years ago and pointed out that his brother-in-law, John A. Sweene, Mt. Savage, probably could help out a bit. "John," he said, "was 92 on Thursday."

Mr. Hergott is quite an affable and peppy old gentleman, although somewhat deaf, who was out in back of the house digging a hole (he didn't say what for) when the reporter and photographer arrived for a ninterview.

His deafness appears to be his only defect. His memory is keen and he still likes to climb the mountain near his home to do a little berry picking. Occasionally he uses a cane but he apparently doesn't need it.

Goes Berry Picking

Once the picture was out of the way, Mr. Hergott sat down on a bench in front of a large oak tree he favors and where he spends many hours.

Recollecting a little, Mr. Hergott recalled that he many a time took "eatins" to the soldiers back in the Civil war days but he doesn't remember if the men he fed were Union or Confederate troops.

He was pretty much of a youngster at that time, however, because he was only 13 when he went to work for the C. and P. in 1869 and the war had been over for several years.

His first job with the railroad, was as a messenger for the president who "would go over to Bedford to get on a heluva drunk. Then his son and I would go over after him to bring him home."

Once Mr. Hergott went to work with the C. and P., it wasn't long until he began to learn his trade as a machinist. He said he worked in "South Cumberland, Piedmont and all over the road."

Laid Pipe Line

"One time," he said "it took us six months, a repair hand named Tom Birmingham and me laid a water pipe from above Carlos to Piedmont. Tom dug the ditch and I went along behind him laying the pipe.

"When we got to Piedmont I opened the city water pipe to make my connection and dead dogs, cats and everything came out of there. I had to clean out the pipe before I could hook it up."

In those days, Mr. Hergott said, he worked "for a dollar a day and worked ten or twelve hours a day." He also was an extra engineer and "ran a little Class H passenger engine that hauled the old mine cars from Allegany to Mt. Savage. I fired a long time before I started running them," he said.

Mr. Hergott was the oldest man on the railroad and was the first employe pensioned when he retired, and he remembers one thing in particular about the Baltimore and Ohio railroad when it was moving westward.

"B. and O. men didn't know how to burn coal so some fellows were sent down from the C. and P. to teach them how," he related, "and that made farmers mad who had been selling wood to the B. and O. because they wouldn't be able to sell any more wood. They found some C. and P. men dead on the engines," said Mr. Hergott, intimating what must have happened to them.

A bit impatient at sitting still so long, Mr. Hergott finally asked, "Have you got enough?" He was a little anxious to be getting up to see John Sweene.

Aware of Current Events

John Sweene was another likeable old gentleman with an ear to the present and a keen memory for the past.

He was born at a place called Shade's mill, a lumber camp "on the other side of Frostburg." He was a son of Joseph and Mary Sweene and his mother was born at Meyersdale and his father in Germany.

"I've got some German in me but we can't help what they started

Building Service Local Will Elect Officers

Permanent officers for Local 249, Building Service Employes, AFL, will be elected at a meeting of the local Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock in Allegany Trades Council hall, Frederick street, Earl A. Rider, Hagerstown, AFL organizer, reported yesterday.

Temporary officers for the local comprising janitors, charworkers, elevator operators and other maintenance personnel, were named when the local was chartered in February. Rider declared the meeting Sunday "very important".

Two Join Marines

Two men enlisted through the local marine corps recruiting office completed their final tests at Baltimore and were sworn in for duty, M. Sgt. Basil D. Legg, Marine recruiter said yesterday. The pair enlisted for two years each, one in regular service, the other in aviation.

Those sworn in were George Emmanuel Filsinger, son of George Filsinger, RFD No. 1 Frostburg; and Eugene Elkany Likens, son of William E. Likens, 207 Oldtown road.

The men will take their basic training at Parris Island, S. C.

One man was sent to Baltimore yesterday by the local army recruiting station for final examinations prior to enlistment. He is Vincent M. Spicher, 20, son of Earl Spicher, of Friendsville. According to Capt. L. M. Bairstow, local army recruiter, the man applied for enlistment in the Transportation Corps for three years.

Detective Agency Reports Recovery Of Stolen Goods

Kennedy Says Two Carloads of Articles Are Found near Dawson

An account of the theft of merchandise valued at more than $800 from the warehouse of a local furniture company during the past month by two brothers of this area, one of whom gained a reputation as a hard worker since he worked both day and night, was related yesterday by the Walter W. Clay detective agency of this city which, aided by authorities here, has recovered more than half of the stolen goods.

Merchandise already recovered includes quantities of lamps, bedspreads, rugs, scooters, small tables and clothes hampers and the agency reports that it is sure a considerable number of articles not yet recovered will be found in the near future.

An investigation by the agency beginning late in February led to the arrest this week of Anthony "Tony" Hickle, 200 block, Oldtown road, and his brother, Harry Hickle, who boarded in the Charlestown section near Lonaconing, according to James Kennedy, a partner of the agency.

Held for Grand Jury

The brothers are being held under $600 bond for action of the grand jury. Anthony, charged with larceny, is being held in the county jail while Harry, charged with receiving stolen goods, was released yesterday after he posted bond. The latter's attorney said Harry hopes to make restitution and is assisting in the recovery of the missing articles.

At least one other arrest is expected in the case, Kennedy said, adding that most of the scores of persons who purchased the stolen goods were innocent bystanders.

The detective agency learned of the wholesale thefts when a night patrolman of the agency noticed, during a routine check, that merchandise was being transferred from the delivery truck of a local store as it was parked on a road near here early in the morning, Kennedy explained.

After contecting the manager of the store, detectives traced the movements of the vehicle during the twenty-six nights out of a month that the truck was taken from the company warehouse. At the same time, an exact inventory of the warehouse contents was in progress.

Transfers Goods to Car

It was learned, Kennedy said, that Anthony Hickle, employed as a helper on the company's delivery truck, was removing the vehicle from the warehouse after closing hours and that his brother, Harry, was using his automobile to transfer goods from the truck to a hideout near Lonaconing.

There is no record of Anthony's making a sale but Harry, who Kennedy termed the "sales manager" of the firm built up a reputation as a hard worker for his day and night work, and had three girls of the Charleston section, one 12, another 17 and the third 22, working as salesgirls.

The brothers, Kennedy said, represented themselves as agents for the furniture firm and sold only for cash, explaining they had to settle their account at the end of each week. Some of the goods were sold for less than their value since in one case four lamps were disposed of for $8. A child's scooter, however, with a value of about $2.50 was sold for $3.

Much of the merchandise was recovered near Lonaconing Monday and Tuesday. The detective agency found that twenty persons of the Charlestown section had made purchases.

Recovers Merchandise

The agency, aided by the state's attorney's office and sheriff's deputies recovered two auto loads of merchandise from near Dawson Wednesday. Kennedy said the stolen goods was moved over the weekend from stock kept at Charlestown to a new hideout near Dawson.

Kennedy said he already knew the location of the cache at Dawson but that Harry Hickle when questioned Wednesday revealed the location of the merchandise.

Lt. James E. Van of the city police assisted in the early part of the investigation, Kennedy said, and cooperated by picking up Anthony Hickle and holding him for the investigation which led to the arrest of the brothers.

Conservationist Will Speak Here

John E. Clark To Address Meeting Sponsored by Chamber of Commerce

John E. Clark, Harford county, field representative of the state fair board and an active conservationist, will be the principal speaker at a meeting to be held April 23 in the interest of conservation, according to Harold W. Smith, secretary of the chamber of commerce, sponsor of the meeting.

Smith said farmers who have been active in following conservation practices will be guests at the dinner, to be held at the LaVale firemen's hall.

Clark, an attorney, has been especially active in the Friends of the Land organization, and in February was the subject of an article on conservation in Soil Conservation magazine.

The meeting is being held for farmers and businessmen.

Fourteen Persons Become Citizens In Court Here

Chief Judge Huster Addresses Group on Democratic Government

In addressing the group, Judge Huster told them that "our system of democratic government is the best in the world." He pointed out privileges of such a system under the Constitution of the United States.

One woman in the group, Mrs. Mary Ann O'Donnell Imperio, Ridgeley, who married an Italian allen and thus lost her citizenship, was repatriated and regained her former status as a citizen.

The group then lined up before the bench and the oath of allegiance, read by Clerk of the Court Robert Jackson, was repeated in unison by the new citizens.

Those admitted to citizenship are Francesco Palumbo, of Frostburg, from Italy; Mary Ann Vozzo, of Westernport, from Italy; Anna Marie Posselt, of Cumberland, from Germany; Ugo Meconi, of Cumberland, from Italy; Rosina Donato Madero, of Frostburg, from Italy; Dora Elizabeth Richard, of Cumberland, from Great Britain.

Charles Flinn, of Cresaptown, from Great Britain; Margaretta Sibilla Langer, of Cumberland, from Germany; Walter Hargreaves Hindle, of Cumberland, from Great Britain; Edith Bremner Wilson, of Cumberland, from Great Britain; Jessie Morrison Cockburn Duncanson, of Cumberland, from Great Britain; Sydney Harvey Craze, of Frostburg, from Great Britain, and Nikola Krnaya, of Potomac Park, from Jugoslavia.

Examination of the applicants was in charge of Robert L. Suddath, examiner for the U. S. Department of Justice.

CLAUDE KNIGHT IS NEW MEMBER OF GOP CENTRAL COMMITTEE

Claude Kight, 235 Maryland avenue, Westernport, was appointed last night by the Republican State Central Committee of Allegany County, to fill the vacancy on the committee caused by the recent resignation of Robert C. Pollock, Sr., of Mt. Savage, who resigned because he became a candidate for Republican nomination for judge of the orphans court.

Under the appointment, Kight will serve until the fall election, when committee members are to be chosen for a new term. He is considering the question of becoming a candidate then for election and it is expected that he will make his announcement in the near future.

Kight has long been an actiye party worker for many years in the Westernport section, where he ranks high as a citizen.

The appointment represents the desire of the committee to have a well-balanced group with respect to the geography of the county. Westernport will thus be represented along with the Lonaconing section, which has a member; Frostburg, which has two members on the committee and Cumberland, which has three.

It also represents a move on the port of the committee, members said last night, to strengthen the party in the Westernport section and build it up to its former Republican strength.

Pullen Asks School Cafeterias To Help Conserve Bread, Oils

BALTIMORE, March 29 (AP) — Thomas G. Pullen, Jr., state superintendent of schools, said today he had mailed a letter to all Maryland county superintendents urging that bread, pastries and oil be conserved in school cafeterias to fight starvation overseas.

"Every citizen of the United States must help to produce and conserve food if mass starvation in Europe and Asia is to be prevented," he said. "In the teaching program, in the management of the cafeteria, and in parent-school contacts, the schools can do much to familiarize children and school patrons with the problem."

As part of the Famine Emergency Committee's program, Pullen said he appealed to the schools to enlist student help in making gardens at school and in the communities.

Rubber Workers To Consider Wage Offer Tomorrow

Kelly-Springfield Proposal Will Be Presented to Membership

A wage proposal submitted by the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company yesterday afternoon will be presented for action of the membership of Local 26, United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastic Workers of America, CIO, tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock in the state armory, Ralph C. Beard, president, announced last evening.

The union official declined comment on the terms of the offer which may halt the "authorized but uncalled" strike which closed the local tire plant Wednesday.

Beard commented that "definite progress" was made at yesterday's negotiations and that the company offer was presented in writing. An effort was made at the conference to reach a common understanding on the issues at stake, he added.

A company spokesman said the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company submitted a written proposal yesterday but did not comment on or disclose the terms of the offer. He described yesterday's session as a "good meeting."

The Kelly union, on March 17, rejected the company's offer of an eight cent increase and voted to press for its original demands, voting to strike if necessary, union officials said. The URCLPWA executive board later sanctioned the local's action.

On the eve of Wednesday's strike, the executive board of the local voted to request the company's "best and final" offer and to present the proposal to a membership meeting Sunday.

Union officials declare the walkout complete and said there was no picketing and they had no plans for such action.

Western Shore Commissioners To Study Roads

The board of county commissioners will attend an all day meeting of the Western Shore County Commissioners Association in Hagerstown Wednesday when road construction in Western Maryland this year will be discussed.

State roads commission representatives are expected to attend and outline the Maryland program for 1946.

The board approved a request from J. Walter Byer, president of the Western Maryland Motor Club, for a contribution of $50 to the Schoolboy patrol. A similar donation has been made in past years to help the club in the purchase of belts, badges and other equipment for its schoolboy patrolmen.

George L. Carney, Cumberland, in a letter to the board, protested against the proposed appropriation of $20,000 for the traveling library to serve rural areas.

A lease was signed for the Veterans' Administration to rent an office in the Union Street County Building, at $30 a month.

City Commissioner Kenneth Crowe, of Frostburg, asked that the county aid in repairing Park avenue, leading to Welsh Hill, and the request was granted.

County Engineer John H. Carscaden reported on the following requests:

The Homewood Addition road is not a county road.

A pipe under Grant street, Cresaptown, will be adjusted by county workers.

Recent Grass Fires Were Deliberately Set, Firemen Report

Grass fires extinguished during the past two days were definitely set, East Side firemen reported last evening.

Most flagrant was a series of nine fires extinguished on Leiper street Thursday afternoon. Fire fighters said a resident of the area reported that he saw a man set several of the blazes. It was easy to trace the man's progress, firemen said, for no sooner was one blaze extinguished than several more were seen ahead.

Firemen said boys were seen setting fires on the hill at the rear of the 400 block of Pine avenue yesterday at 1:30 p. m. Firemen said the grass fire was under control within forty minutes.

South End and Central firemen were called yesterday at 2:30 a. m. to the B. and O. Bolt and Forge shops where they battled for three hours to control a blaze caused by burning scrap rubber hose. No serious damage was reported.

Grapes Secures Permit To Construct Garage

Floyd T. Grapes secured a building permit in the city engineer's office yesterday to construct a three-car garage at the rear of 933 Glenwood street, at an estimated cost of $1,000. The one-story building, which will measure 35 by 50 feet, will have a concrete block foundation, concrete block walls and a composition roof. Work will be done by W. A. McKinney

An occupancy permit was granted to Mrs. Lelia Cross to use the first floor of a two-story brick building at 158 North Centre street as the Cross beauty shop. The premises were formerly occupied by an office of Peter Pan Cleaners. Mrs. Cross and her husband, Ernest Cross, will live on the second floor of the building.

FBI Agents Nab Detective Agency Owner on Charge Of Impersonation

Norman S. Birch, 42, of North Allegany street, owner and manager of the Tri-State Detective Service, Liberty Trust building here, was arrested yesterday afternoon by FBI agents on a warrant charging him with impersonating an employe of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Birch was arraigned before Deputy United States Commissioner Wilbur V. Wilson shortly after his arrest and entered a plea of not guilty. He asked for a preliminary hearing and furnished temporary bond of $1,000, for his appearance before Commissioner Wilson Tuesday at 2 p. m.

Announcement of the arrest was made by Fred Hallford, special agent in charge of the FBI at Baltimore, although the actual arrest was made by agents operating in Cumberland and Western Maryland.

Commenting on charges against Birch, Hallford pointed out that it is a violation of the Federal Impersonation statute for any unauthorized person to pretend to be an employe of the FBI, and in such pretended character, to act as such an employe or demand and obtain anything of value.

Reveals One Specific Charge

While the FBI has been investigating Birch's operations for some months, Hallford revealed only one specific charge against him. The federal agent stated that in November, 1945, Birch secured information pertaining to the theft of two automobile tires from an interstate shipment of tires, consigned to a local business firm.

The agent said Birch learned the tires were stolen by a truck driver of the transfer company, who had custody of the tires for delivery. Instead of reporting the matter to proper authorities, Birch contacted the truck driver, and by falsely representing himself as being from the FBI, persuaded the man to pay the sum of $118 for the two tires and other goods which he was accused of stealing. The driver, however, denies having stolen the other goods.

Birch told the truck driver, according to the FBI, that by paying the $118 the case would be settled and he would not have to go to jail or face charges.

Hallford said the FBI has learned Birch paid the $118 to the transfer company, which was one of his clients, and received $20 for settling the case.

FBI agents say the penalty for violating the Federal Impersonation statute is a $1,000 fine or three years in the penitentiary or both.

Birch organized the Tri-State Detective Service here in October 1944, and maintains offices in the Liberty Trust building. He has branch agencies in Hagerstown, Md., and Wheeling, W. Va.

Came Here in 1943

Local police say Birch came here early in 1943, and was employed for several months by the Clay Detective Agency, as an investigator and private detective operative. Mrs. Margaret Douglas, senior partner in the Clay agency said she employed Birch for several months, but discharged him, as a result of complaints against him and differences they had. Birch started his own agency after Mrs. Douglas says she refused to sell him an interest in her business.

The man is said to have resided in Frostburg once, and says he came here from Idaho. He is also reported to have lived in Pittsburgh, but has told local authorities he is a native of Idaho. Members of his family lived in the vicinity of Frostburg sometime but are now reported to reside in Winchester, Va.

Several local police officers, who request that they remain anonymous, say he has been suspected from time to time of impersonating local and state officers, and that complaints have been made about his methods of operation, which police feel might reflect on the conduct of enforcement officers generally.

Birch was questioned by county authorities on at least one occasion, police say, but the state's attorney has never placed any charges against him, for lack of sufficient evidence.

Has Number of Clients

Birch has a number of clients for his agency among local business houses who employe night watchman service for a nominal monthly fee. For many years, this watchman service was operated here almost exclusively by the Clay agency, but when Birch started his own service, he obtained a number of local clients, and then extended his agency to Wheeling and Hagerstown.

Police say there have been several cases here which Birch handled for his clients, or for others as a private investigator. One case which they recall involved a grocery store robbery, and breaking and entering a local dairy plant. Another involved a theft at a local cleaning and dyeing plant. In each case, those involved paid money to Birch, authorities say, and no one was prosecuted.

Other authorities, who would not be quoted, say Birch has represented himself as a state and local officer while working on cases.

Sheriff David M. Steele said last night that Birch had never been sworn in as a deputy, and as far as he knows, has no authorized power of arrest.

Other county authorities explain that detective agencies of the type which conduct private investigations and operate watchman service for business establishments, residences, eac., are licensed by the clerk of court for a fee of $100.50. Birch carries a license for his agency here.

The executive board of J. Louis Wolford Post, Amvets, will meet at 1 o'clock this afternoon at the office of the Frederick street clearing house. The nominating committee will meet an hour later at the same place.

Notices To Be Sent To Sign Violators

Notices will be sent in the near future to some fifty individuals and firms, calling attention to violations of a city ordinance in regard to the erection of signs, according to Ralph L. Rizer, city engineer.

The engineer said he expects to make a personal inspection of a number of the reported violations before sending the notices. He indicated he will allow from ten days to a possible two weeks for the violations to be corrected.

Most of the violations pertain to signs placed over sidewalks, Rizer said. The engineer explained four types of signs are allowed. They follow: Interior lighted, exterior lighted, neon, and a combination of the three.

No unlighted signs are allowed over sidewalks. Lighted signs of the reflector type when the light is not a direct part of the sign are not allowed. The bungalow type is also prohibited.

The engineer said the restrictions on signs are made because of appearance. He declared Baltimore street would be anything but attractive if all types of signs—some just a plain board with lettering—were allowed to extend over the walks.

Louis Donius, this city, held in city jail since March 15, for investigation, was released yesterday by the state's attorney.

Donius was questioned by city and county authorities in connection with fires started in the Hendricks hotel, 19 East Laing avenue.

County Investigator Terrance J. Boyle gave Donius one of his famous "fatherly tongue lashings," before the man was released. He told him insufficient evidence was obtained to warrant prosecution, and advised the man to watch his conduct and stay away from alcoholic beverages.

Donius made no promises, but thanked Boyle for his advice.

County Building Is Halted by CPA Restricting Order

Building projects involving an estimated expenditure of two million dollars have been halted in Allegany county because of restrictions announced Tuesday by the Civilian Production Administration.

Federal action was taken in an effort to provide materials for the erection of homes for veterans.

With construction of major projects halted by the federal order, it appears Cumberland will not get its share of building unless a large number of veterans decide to do some building for themselves or some sort of a project is worked out.

Among contemplated projects retarded by federal order are the construction of school buildings at Mt. Savage, Ellerslie and Lonaconing; construction of an office building on Pershing street, building of a theater on Liberty street, erection of a medical building on Decatur street, as well as various projects at the Cumberland Airport, and non-veteran residences, particularly in the higher brackets.

The objective of the federal order is to make materials available for 2,700,000 homes in the next two years. Commercial and industrial construction is halted unless specifically authorized. In general the order holds repairs to $1,000 a job but some exemptions are allowed.

Completion of any project under way will be permitted provided materials are at the site and work has actually started.

Sale of Yule Seals Totals $5,547.83

Sale of Christmas seals in Allegany county from last November 19 to March 1 totalled $5,547.83, exceeding the campaign quota of $5,000, William J. Edwards, chairman of the Allegany County Tuberculosis Association drive, announced yesterday.

Edwards pointed out, however, that the total fell short of the 1944-45 campaign total by $293.30. That amount was $5,841.13.

The chairman said that 4,318 envelopes mailed to county residents were returned with contributions, while 606 envelopes were returned without contributions. More than 10,000 envelopes were sent out.

Proceeds of the annual sale are used to finance the work of the Maryland Tuberculosis Association throughout the state, which constitutes mass x-ray surveys, case finding, x-ray work, tuberculin testing, medical research, health education, negro program and the Miracle House, a children's preventorium.

Nonagenarian Brothers-in-Law Mark Birthdays by Reminiscing

By A. TRAGO BRUST, Jr.

Francis Hergott, Mr. Savage road, was in a reminiscent mood when a News reporter called on him to find out about some of the things that went on when he was a younger man.

Born March 30, 1856, Mr. Hergott, son of Harry and Catherine Hergott, who came to America from Germany, will celebrate his ninetieth birthday today at the home of his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver M. Hergott, with whom he has resided for the past eighteen years—since he retired as a machinist for the C. and P. railroad when he was "seventy some."

With a question or two asked, Mr. Hergott easily recalled events of many years ago and pointed out that his brother-in-law, John A. Sweene, Mt. Savage, probably could help out a bit. "John," he said, "was 92 on Thursday."

Mr. Hergott is quite an affable and peppy old gentleman, although somewhat deaf, who was out in back of the house digging a hole (he didn't say what for) when the reporter and photographer arrived for a ninterview.

His deafness appears to be his only defect. His memory is keen and he still likes to climb the mountain near his home to do a little berry picking. Occasionally he uses a cane but he apparently doesn't need it.

Goes Berry Picking

Once the picture was out of the way, Mr. Hergott sat down on a bench in front of a large oak tree he favors and where he spends many hours.

Recollecting a little, Mr. Hergott recalled that he many a time took "eatins" to the soldiers back in the Civil war days but he doesn't remember if the men he fed were Union or Confederate troops.

He was pretty much of a youngster at that time, however, because he was only 13 when he went to work for the C. and P. in 1869 and the war had been over for several years.

His first job with the railroad, was as a messenger for the president who "would go over to Bedford to get on a heluva drunk. Then his son and I would go over after him to bring him home."

Once Mr. Hergott went to work with the C. and P., it wasn't long until he began to learn his trade as a machinist. He said he worked in "South Cumberland, Piedmont and all over the road."

Laid Pipe Line

"One time," he said "it took us six months, a repair hand named Tom Birmingham and me laid a water pipe from above Carlos to Piedmont. Tom dug the ditch and I went along behind him laying the pipe.

"When we got to Piedmont I opened the city water pipe to make my connection and dead dogs, cats and everything came out of there. I had to clean out the pipe before I could hook it up."

In those days, Mr. Hergott said, he worked "for a dollar a day and worked ten or twelve hours a day." He also was an extra engineer and "ran a little Class H passenger engine that hauled the old mine cars from Allegany to Mt. Savage. I fired a long time before I started running them," he said.

Mr. Hergott was the oldest man on the railroad and was the first employe pensioned when he retired, and he remembers one thing in particular about the Baltimore and Ohio railroad when it was moving westward.

"B. and O. men didn't know how to burn coal so some fellows were sent down from the C. and P. to teach them how," he related, "and that made farmers mad who had been selling wood to the B. and O. because they wouldn't be able to sell any more wood. They found some C. and P. men dead on the engines," said Mr. Hergott, intimating what must have happened to them.

A bit impatient at sitting still so long, Mr. Hergott finally asked, "Have you got enough?" He was a little anxious to be getting up to see John Sweene.

Aware of Current Events

John Sweene was another likeable old gentleman with an ear to the present and a keen memory for the past.

He was born at a place called Shade's mill, a lumber camp "on the other side of Frostburg." He was a son of Joseph and Mary Sweene and his mother was born at Meyersdale and his father in Germany.

"I've got some German in me but we can't help what they started

Two men enlisted through the local marine corps recruiting office completed their final tests at Baltimore and were sworn in for duty, M. Sgt. Basil D. Legg, Marine recruiter said yesterday. The pair enlisted for two years each, one in regular service, the other in aviation.

Those sworn in were George Emmanuel Filsinger, son of George Filsinger, RFD No. 1 Frostburg; and Eugene Elkany Likens, son of William E. Likens, 207 Oldtown road.

The men will take their basic training at Parris Island, S. C.

One man was sent to Baltimore yesterday by the local army recruiting station for final examinations prior to enlistment. He is Vincent M. Spicher, 20, son of Earl Spicher, of Friendsville. According to Capt. L. M. Bairstow, local army recruiter, the man applied for enlistment in the Transportation Corps for three years.

Detective Agency Reports Recovery Of Stolen Goods

Kennedy Says Two Carloads of Articles Are Found near Dawson

An account of the theft of merchandise valued at more than $800 from the warehouse of a local furniture company during the past month by two brothers of this area, one of whom gained a reputation as a hard worker since he worked both day and night, was related yesterday by the Walter W. Clay detective agency of this city which, aided by authorities here, has recovered more than half of the stolen goods.

Merchandise already recovered includes quantities of lamps, bedspreads, rugs, scooters, small tables and clothes hampers and the agency reports that it is sure a considerable number of articles not yet recovered will be found in the near future.

An investigation by the agency beginning late in February led to the arrest this week of Anthony "Tony" Hickle, 200 block, Oldtown road, and his brother, Harry Hickle, who boarded in the Charlestown section near Lonaconing, according to James Kennedy, a partner of the agency.

Held for Grand Jury

The brothers are being held under $600 bond for action of the grand jury. Anthony, charged with larceny, is being held in the county jail while Harry, charged with receiving stolen goods, was released yesterday after he posted bond. The latter's attorney said Harry hopes to make restitution and is assisting in the recovery of the missing articles.

At least one other arrest is expected in the case, Kennedy said, adding that most of the scores of persons who purchased the stolen goods were innocent bystanders.

The detective agency learned of the wholesale thefts when a night patrolman of the agency noticed, during a routine check, that merchandise was being transferred from the delivery truck of a local store as it was parked on a road near here early in the morning, Kennedy explained.

After contecting the manager of the store, detectives traced the movements of the vehicle during the twenty-six nights out of a month that the truck was taken from the company warehouse. At the same time, an exact inventory of the warehouse contents was in progress.

It was learned, Kennedy said, that Anthony Hickle, employed as a helper on the company's delivery truck, was removing the vehicle from the warehouse after closing hours and that his brother, Harry, was using his automobile to transfer goods from the truck to a hideout near Lonaconing.

There is no record of Anthony's making a sale but Harry, who Kennedy termed the "sales manager" of the firm built up a reputation as a hard worker for his day and night work, and had three girls of the Charleston section, one 12, another 17 and the third 22, working as salesgirls.

The brothers, Kennedy said, represented themselves as agents for the furniture firm and sold only for cash, explaining they had to settle their account at the end of each week. Some of the goods were sold for less than their value since in one case four lamps were disposed of for $8. A child's scooter, however, with a value of about $2.50 was sold for $3.

Much of the merchandise was recovered near Lonaconing Monday and Tuesday. The detective agency found that twenty persons of the Charlestown section had made purchases.

Recovers Merchandise

The agency, aided by the state's attorney's office and sheriff's deputies recovered two auto loads of merchandise from near Dawson Wednesday. Kennedy said the stolen goods was moved over the weekend from stock kept at Charlestown to a new hideout near Dawson.

Kennedy said he already knew the location of the cache at Dawson but that Harry Hickle when questioned Wednesday revealed the location of the merchandise.

Lt. James E. Van of the city police assisted in the early part of the investigation, Kennedy said, and cooperated by picking up Anthony Hickle and holding him for the investigation which led to the arrest of the brothers.

The meeting is being held for farmers and businessmen.

Chief Judge Huster Addresses Group on Democratic Government

Fourteen persons became citizens of the United States at a court of naturalization conducted before Chief Judge William A. Huster in circuit court yesterday.

In addressing the group, Judge Huster told them that "our system of democratic government is the best in the world." He pointed out privileges of such a system under the Constitution of the United States.

One woman in the group, Mrs. Mary Ann O'Donnell Imperio, Ridgeley, who married an Italian alien and thus lost her citizenship, was repatriated and regained her former status as a citizen.

The group then lined up before the bench and the oath of allegiance, read by Clerk of the Court Robert Jackson, was repeated in unison by the new citizens.

Those admitted to citizenship are Francesco Palumbo, of Frostburg, from Italy; Mary Ann Vozzo, of Westernport, from Italy; Anna Marie Posselt, of Cumberland, from Germany; Ugo Meconi, of Cumberland, from Italy; Rosina Donato Madero, of Frostburg, from Italy; Dora Elizabeth Richard, of Cumberland, from Great Britain.

Charles Flinn, of Cresaptown, from Great Britain; Margaretta Sibilla Langer, of Cumberland, from Germany; Walter Hargreaves Hindle, of Cumberland, from Great Britain; Edith Bremner Wilson, of Cumberland, from Great Britain; Jessie Morrison Cockburn Duncanson, of Cumberland, from Great Britain; Sydney Harvey Craze, of Frostburg, from Great Britain, and Nikola Krnaya, of Potomac Park, from Jugoslavia.

CLAUDE KNIGHT IS NEW MEMBER OF GOP CENTRAL COMMITTEE

Claude Kight, 235 Maryland avenue, Westernport, was appointed last night by the Republican State Central Committee of Allegany County, to fill the vacancy on the committee caused by the recent resignation of Robert C. Pollock, Sr., of Mt. Savage, who resigned because he became a candidate for Republican nomination for judge of the orphans court.

Under the appointment, Kight will serve until the fall election, when committee members are to be chosen for a new term. He is considering the question of becoming a candidate then for election and it is expected that he will make his announcement in the near future.

Kight has long been an active party worker for many years in the Westernport section, where he ranks high as a citizen.

The appointment represents the desire of the committee to have a well-balanced group with respect to the geography of the county. Westernport will thus be represented along with the Lonaconing section, which has a member; Frostburg, which has two members on the committee and Cumberland, which has three.

It also represents a move on the port of the committee, members said last night, to strengthen the party in the Westernport section and build it up to its former Republican strength.

Pullen Asks School Cafeterias To Help Conserve Bread, Oils

BALTIMORE, March 29 (AP) — Thomas G. Pullen, Jr., state superintendent of schools, said today he had mailed a letter to all Maryland county superintendents urging that bread, pastries and oil be conserved in school cafeterias to fight starvation overseas.

"Every citizen of the United States must help to produce and conserve food if mass starvation in Europe and Asia is to be prevented," he said. "In the teaching program, in the management of the cafeteria, and in parent-school contacts, the schools can do much to familiarize children and school patrons with the problem."

As part of the Famine Emergency Committee's program, Pullen said he appealed to the schools to enlist student help in making gardens at school and in the communities.

Rubber Workers To Consider Wage Offer Tomorrow

Kelly-Springfield Proposal Will Be Presented to Membership

A wage proposal submitted by the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company yesterday afternoon will be presented for action of the membership of Local 26, United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastic Workers of America, CIO, tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock in the state armory, Ralph C. Beard, president, announced last evening.

The union official declined comment on the terms of the offer which may halt the "authorized but uncalled" strike which closed the local tire plant Wednesday.

Beard commented that "definite progress" was made at yesterday's negotiations and that the company offer was presented in writing. An effort was made at the conference to reach a common understanding on the issues at stake, he added.

A company spokesman said the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company submitted a written proposal yesterday but did not comment on or disclose the terms of the offer. He described yesterday's session as a "good meeting."

The Kelly union, on March 17, rejected the company's offer of an eight cent increase and voted to press for its original demands, voting to strike if necessary, union officials said. The URCLPWA executive board later sanctioned the local's action.

On the eve of Wednesday's strike, the executive board of the local voted to request the company's "best and final" offer and to present the proposal to a membership meeting Sunday.

Union officials declare the walkout complete and said there was no picketing and they had no plans for such action.

Western Shore Commissioners To Study Roads

The board of county commissioners will attend an all day meeting of the Western Shore County Commissioners Association in Hagerstown Wednesday when road construction in Western Maryland this year will be discussed.

State roads commission representatives are expected to attend and outline the Maryland program for 1946.

The board approved a request from J. Walter Byer, president of the Western Maryland Motor Club, for a contribution of $50 to the Schoolboy patrol. A similar donation has been made in past years to help the club in the purchase of belts, badges and other equipment for its schoolboy patrolmen.

George L. Carney, Cumberland, in a letter to the board, protested against the proposed appropriation of $20,000 for the traveling library to serve rural areas.

A lease was signed for the Veterans' Administration to rent an office in the Union Street County Building, at $30 a month.

City Commissioner Kenneth Crowe, of Frostburg, asked that the county aid in repairing Park avenue, leading to Welsh Hill, and the request was granted.

James Porter and Alden Lowery requested that a pipe be placed beneath the street in Ellerslie.

County Engineer John H. Carscaden reported on the following requests:

The Pinehurst Road near Cresaptown is not a county road and cannot be repaired.

The Homewood Addition road is not a county road.

A pipe under Grant street, Cresaptown, will be adjusted by county workers.

Recent Grass Fires Were Deliberately Set, Firemen Report

Grass fires extinguished during the past two days were definitely set, East Side firemen reported last evening.

Most flagrant was a series of nine fires extinguished on Leiper street Thursday afternoon. Fire fighters said a resident of the area reported that he saw a man set several of the blazes. It was easy to trace the man's progress, firemen said, for no sooner was one blaze extinguished than several more were seen ahead.

Firemen said boys were seen setting fires on the hill at the rear of the 400 block of Pine avenue yesterday at 1:30 p. m. Firemen said the grass fire was under control within forty minutes.

South End and Central firemen were called yesterday at 2:30 a. m. to the B. and O. Bolt and Forge shops where they battled for three hours to control a blaze caused by burning scrap rubber hose. No serious damage was reported.

Grapes Secures Permit To Construct Garage

Floyd T. Grapes secured a building permit in the city engineer's office yesterday to construct a three-car garage at the rear of 933 Glenwood street, at an estimated cost of $1,000. The one-story building, which will measure 35 by 50 feet, will have a concrete block foundation, concrete block walls and a composition roof. Work will be done by W. A. McKinney

An occupancy permit was granted to Mrs. Lelia Cross to use the first floor of a two-story brick building at 158 North Centre street as the Cross beauty shop. The premises were formerly occupied by an office of Peter Pan Cleaners. Mrs. Cross and her husband, Ernest Cross, will live on the second floor of the building.
